

'We're mighty glad to know he's alive...'

By LEETREMAINE
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS. — Personal contact with the enemy is a shattering experience. And when a man's only brother falls into the hands of the enemy, "you really know how it feels," Robert Schwertfeger of Twin Falls said Saturday.

Bob's brother William is in the hands of the enemy — the Viet Cong, according to a news broadcast from Hanoi, the enemy capital in North Vietnam. Capt. William Ralph Schwertfeger, 28, was identified as one of five pilots shot out of the air by Communist missiles during heavy bombing raids this past week.

In Twin Falls, young Robert Schwertfeger, obviously deeply moved by the fear of hearing that his brother had been shot down, then relieved by learning that he was alive, talked reluctantly about his feelings.

"Mom got a telegram last Wednesday that Bill had been shot down, but they (the military) didn't know whether he was alive or not," Schwertfeger said.

On Saturday, Mrs. Schwertfeger said, they were told that Bill's picture had been shown on the television news conference, but they missed the broadcast.

"We're hoping it'll be shown again, but the station said they didn't know," Mrs. Schwertfeger said.

Capt. Schwertfeger, who was born and grew up in Oklahoma, is serving his second tour of duty in Vietnam. He had been scheduled for release from the Air Force in April. He has served four years, his brother said.

The flier won a Silver Star medal for gallantry in action during his first tour in Vietnam. He helped to rescue a downed fellow flier amid enemy fire, the citation said, "serving as on-scene commander during a search-and-rescue mission over an extremely well-defended hostile area in Southeast Asia."

Bill Schwertfeger was a first lieutenant at the time of the action.

He has been stationed with the 8th Tactical Fighter Wing's "Wolfpack" at Ubon Rattathani Airbase in Thailand, flying Phantom jets from Thailand on missions over North and South Vietnam.

Capt. Schwertfeger visited his family in Twin Falls during the Christmas season, but he had little to say about the Vietnamese War, his brother recalled.

"I'd bring up the subject of the war while chatting of an evening, but he would always change the subject. Finally I sort of got the message and stopped talking about it."

Capt. Schwertfeger is married, but has no children, Bob said.

"When you hear about it happening to somebody else, you feel sorry, but you don't really feel it," Bob Schwertfeger said. "Now we know how it feels. We're glad he's alive, but it's really the lesser of two evils."

"All things considered, we're just mighty glad to know he's alive, even if he's a prisoner."

Idahoans endorse Muskies

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Maine Sen. Edmund Muskie told a banquet Saturday night he would rather see American involvement in Indochina end than win the presidency next November.

Muskie's statement came just after he had been endorsed for the Democratic presidential nomination by Idaho Sen. Frank Church and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

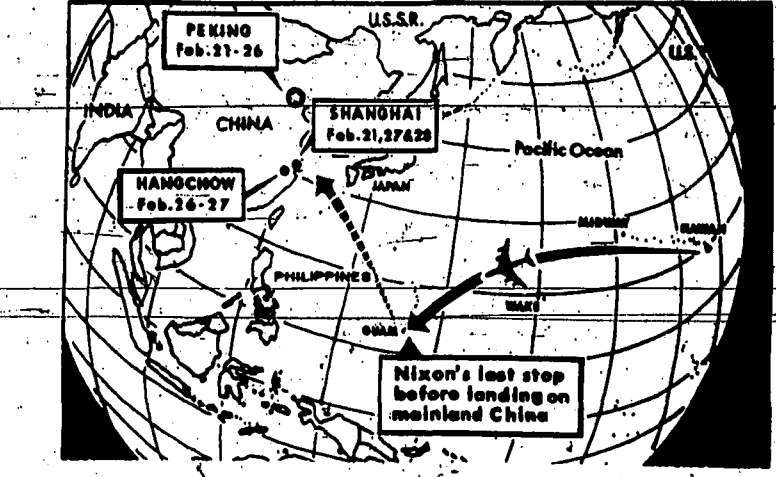

He addressed a Jefferson-Jackson Day banquet in Idaho's capitol city and told a steadily applauding audience he would rather have the Vietnam issue "taken out of the election than win that election next November."

"I want to make it crystal clear," said Muskie, that getting American troops out of Indochina would "be my first step if it hasn't already been taken."

He cited inflation, senior citizens with shrinking income, unemployment and a loss of federal revenues as problems tied directly to the war.

Church and Andrus' endorsements came just one day after 39 of the 45 Democrats in the state legislature announced that Muskie was their choice for the party nomination in Miami next summer.

Muskie told the news conference he found the Church-

Nixon on Guam

Labor hits policies

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Labor leaders said Saturday that President Nixon's policies will mean a good economic year in 1972 for big business and the wealthy, but for most other Americans it will be a poor year financially.

"The administration remedy for the prolonged economic mess is optimistic rhetoric, combined with trickle down policies of increasing government subsidies for big business," in hopes some benefits will filter down to workers, the AFL-CIO Executive Council said in a statement.

GUAM (UPI) — President Nixon landed on Guam Sunday for his final stop before becoming the first American Chief Executive to visit China.

Nixon is scheduled to arrive in Peking at 11:40 a.m. China time Monday (10:40 p.m. Sunday EST) following a short stop in Shanghai to take a Chinese navigator aboard the blue, white and silver "Spirit of 76" presidential jetliner.

The President was welcomed to Guam by Lt. Gen. Gerald W. Johnson, commander of the 3rd air division, Rear Adm. Paul E. Pugh, commander of the naval forces in the Mariana Islands, and civilian officials of the U.S.-controlled island.

It was late afternoon Sunday Guam time when the President's jet touched down. After brief arrival ceremonies, Nixon and his wife, Pat, motored to Pugh's residence on Nimitz Hill to spend the night.

Nixon has warned that his week-long talks will not produce a permanent detente. But there is little doubt the President considers this trip to be the foreign policy high point of his administration.

As he reached Guam, Nixon

US raids denounced

HONG KONG (UPI) — The Chinese foreign ministry Sunday issued a formal statement denouncing American bombing raids against North Vietnam just one day before President Nixon's scheduled arrival in Peking.

The foreign ministry statement and a commentary from the Peking People's Daily, the official newspaper of the Communist party, were broadcast by Peking Radio and

Revenue increase forecast

BOISE (UPI) — Told it could be safe in estimating between $130 million and $134 million in tax revenues to the general fund next year, the House Tax Committee raised its projection to $132 million today.

In so doing, the committee accepted a subcommittee report that predicts a net $1 million extra revenue than earlier anticipated — primarily from corporate income taxes.

Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, who called for a showdown with the subcommittee and three tax experts, disagreed with the projection.

"Mr. Chairman," Haakenson said, "I think they (subcommittee members) were pushed into it actually."

Rep. William Onweller, R-chairman of the subcommittee, said he felt the taxwriters could predict from "$130 million to $134 million (from present tax sources) and be reasonably right."

He said the subcommittee felt it was correctly conservative in projecting a total $132 million.

Legislative Auditor James A. Deschamps said he was with Dockers approve new pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — West Coast longshoremen Saturday voted overwhelmingly to accept a proposed contract with the shipping industry to end the nation's longest dock walkout.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said its rank and file voted 71 per cent in favor of the pact and ending a 134-day strike which has crippled ports from the Canadian to the Mexican border.

The 18-month pact which included a $1.12 an hour pay hike and a $5.2 million annual package guaranteeing a minimum weekly wage, covered 15,000 dock workers in California, Oregon and Washington.

Earlier the Pacific Maritime Association, representing ship owners and stevedoring firms, ratified the contract subject to resolution of the "steady man" issue. An arbitrator, previously agreed upon, will rule Sunday on this facet of the contract.

"Steady men" are those skilled dock workers who are employed by individual firms and not drawn directly from the hiring hall.

The announcement of the ratification was made by William Ward and Fred Hunsinger, labor relations committee members of the ILWU.

They said they did not expect any problems with the federal Pay Board over the terms of the agreement.

Britain remains in dark

LONDON (UPI) — The British power crisis remained acute Saturday despite tentative settlement of a six-week coal miners' strike and the reopening of blockaded power plants.

Trains and trucks rushed tons of desperately-needed fuel to the reopened generating stations, but it was expected to take several days to restore conditions to normal.

Government officials said the electricity rationing which has blacked out a third of the country at a time and thrown 2 million men out of work, will become even tighter next week.

Shortly before 1 a.m. leaders of the 280,000-member coal miners' union accepted the government's offer of a 20 per cent wage increase and improved fringe benefits, which will add $320 million a year to the costs of the ailing, state-run coal industry.

TF clean air reports halt

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Writer
BOISE — The Idaho State Department of Health will no longer make daily Twin Falls air pollution reports to the press until it can determine whether its reports have any meaning.

The pollution report published each day by the Times-News is from information supplied by state officials.

Murray Michael, air quality specialist with the division of air pollution for the state department, said Friday the office is "temporarily suspending" reporting the numbers to the news media, pending tests to determine whether the numbers were any more than a reflection of the immediate area around the sampling site.

The present site is at Twin Falls City Hall. The report Friday showed a reading of 431 micrograms of suspended particulates per cubic meter. Federal guidelines call for an average reading of 10 micrograms for human safety and list 200 as a hazardous level.

A volunteer at the Twin Falls site, Roger Perotto, told the reading Friday was the highest he could remember.

Michael said there is a question in the state department of health concerning whether the figures reported were an accurate gauge of area wide pollution. He said another testing site in Kimberly consistently showed much lower readings than the downtown site.

He said another station, recently established at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, is too new to allow for any conclusions.

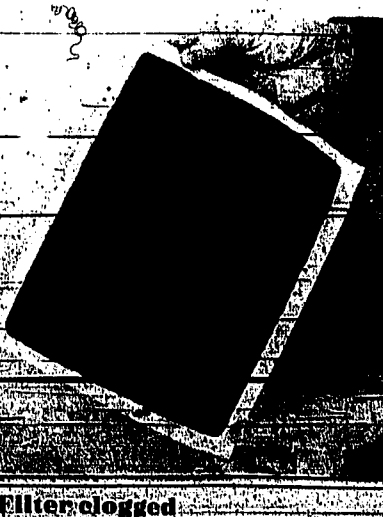

He said laboratory tests in Boise show the samples being taken from the air at the downtown site showed only 10 to 20 per cent of the "pollutants" would definitely cause harm to humans.

The remainder of the pollutants being taken from the filter were dust from highway construction, and said. The specialist said these particles were large enough — up to 200 microns in size, that they might be of no harm to people.

Particles in sub-10 micron range, he said, can be absorbed into the lungs, adversely affecting health.

Michael said "the whole particulate problem is much complicated than a single number can show. He also said the Twin Falls sampling station is started by volunteer help, and "there is a limit to what we can ask them to do."

"I'm not saying there is no problem," he said, but added the decision to stop reporting the numbers to the media was made because nobody really knows whether the particles we're getting are doing any harm.

Rivals chide Sen. Muskie Seen... for campaign absenteeism

By United Press International
Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Democratic party's front-running candidate, was under attack Saturday on charges of absenteeism from the campaign in New Hampshire where the nation's first presidential primary will be held March 7.

Muskie was strongly chided by his rivals for failing to show up at a candidates' night Friday in Manchester, N.H. Only two presidential hopefuls, Sen. George S. McGovern and Vance Hartke, appeared at the affair sponsored by the Manchester City Council.

McGovern commented: "I only regret that the man who is regarded as the front runner for the presidency has seen fit to ignore this debate."

Hartke also took Muskie to task.

"If they don't care enough to visit us, how can we expect them to care enough after the nomination and election?" the Indiana senator told the Manchester audience. "I say to you, Mr. Muskie, you tarnish your own image by being afraid to debate."

The only announced woman candidate, Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., declared herself a deliberate absentee from a coming politically oriented event—the annual dinner of Washington's traditionally all-male Gridiron Club on March 8.

Mrs. Chisholm said she was spurning one of the 13 invitations extended to women by the club because of the absence of women and minority members from the group of newsmen was "symbolic of the racism and sexism which pervades the news industry."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson urged enactment of his proposed antibusing constitutional amendment and said, "The time has come for us to affirm the right of parents to decide that their children will attend their neighborhood school."

In a speech at the Washington Day Democratic dinner in Topeka, Kan., Jackson said that Congress must deal with the "bitter and divisive" busing controversy. "We cannot stand by while busing issues are fought through the courts on a case-by-case basis."

Muskie gets Idaho nod

BOISE (UPI) — Presidential candidate U.S. Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, received the endorsement of all 16 Democratic state senators and all but six of the 29 Democrats in the house Friday.

The support was announced during a joint news conference held by Democratic leaders in the legislature, including Senate Minority Leader John Evans, D-Malad; Assistant Minority Leader John Mix, D-Moscow; Senate Minority Caucus Chairman C.C. (Cy) Chase, D-St. Maries, and Reps. Larry Looney, D-Coeur d'Alene, and Don Brennan, D-Pocatello. They said they had formed a "Legislators for Ed Muskie Committee" and they were serving as co-chairmen.

Evans said those supporting the Maine Democrat want to deliver him 17 delegate votes from the Gem state at this summer's Democratic convention in Florida.

Evans said, "We feel that Senator Muskie represents the feelings and desires of nearly all Idaho Democrats." Mix added that only Muskie of all democratic contenders has expressed a genuine interest in Idaho.

But not everybody was getting on the Muskie bandwagon. At least not yet as State Auditor Joe R. Williams, himself a Democrat, expressed a bit of concern.

He said he thought it was "too early" for Democrats in the legislature to announce support of the presidential bid by Muskie.

Williams said Muskie "may be the best man. But if there is a change, you're in a much better bargaining position at a convention if you're not fully committed."

HUMPHREY — In Milwaukee Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., accused the Nixon administration of trying to deny voting privileges to 50 million Americans by opposing legislation that would let people register by filling a post card.

Condition listed

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County commissioner, Heber Loughmiller, is listed in fairly good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he is being treated for chest pains. He was admitted to the hospital Feb. 14.

Also listed in fair condition is Jean Thompson, 53, Filer, who was injured in an automobile accident Feb. 13 west of Twin Falls. In good condition are Albert Schroeder, 70, and his wife, 63. They were injured in the same accident as Mrs. Thompson.

Poet gets 'small coin'

Russian poet pushed off stage at college

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Russian poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko was pushed off the stage by a group of demonstrators during a poetry reading session at Macalester College Friday night, but escaped with only a scratch on his chin.

"Free the Ukraine" and "Freedom to the Ukraine," the demonstrators shouted as they leaped onto the stage.

Two persons were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. Their names were not released by the police.

The incident was planned by a Ukrainian youth organization, a spokesman for the group said early today.

The spokesman said the group was composed of about 50 members. He said the group had no intentions of harming Yevtushenko but merely to read a series of demands for Ukrainian independence over the microphone.

"We weren't after Yevtushenko himself," the spokesman said.

the liberal arts college, said several persons climbed up on the podium while Yevtushenko was reading the second poem of the evening, "Stolen Apples."

Robinson said the demonstrators knocked the poet off the platform, threw down a microphone and knocked over a glass of milk. Order was quickly restored, however, and most of the crowd of 4,000 gave the poet a standing ovation.

"I apologized after the reading and he understood," Robinson said.

Bids called on Cassia project

BOISE (UPI) — A painting of highway directors. Lord E. Barron said the work consists of painting steel handrails, steel shell piling and structural steel on the Overland Bridge, Burley interchange and the Heyburn bridge, on State Highway 27 and U.S. 30 North.

Bids are to be opened March 7 in the office of the Department of Highways.

The project will be under the supervision of district engineer Howard Johnson of the Shoshone office.

Work is expected to be finished with 60 working days after the order to start work has been given—the successful bidder.

Hijack attempt foiled

AMMAN (UPI) — Security guards aboard a Jordanian Airlines Caravelle Saturday foiled an attempt to hijack the aircraft to Benghazi, Libya.

Amman airport officials said.

They blamed the attempt on Jamil Hussein Ayoub, whom they described as a member of the Al Fatah guerrilla group.

The plane was on a regular flight from Cairo to Amman, they said. It was carrying 30 passengers, including five Britons and Italians, and seven crew members.

Fifteen minutes after it left Cairo, the would-be hijacker pulled out a hand grenade, shouted that he was a "commando of the front for the liberation of Jordan," and ordered the pilot to change course to Benghazi.

A security guard surprised him from behind, wrestling the grenade from his hand, while another guard hit him on the head.

When he was overpowered, the man shouted there was a time-bomb in the luggage compartment that would blow the plane to bits.

But the plane landed safely and no bomb was found.

The would-be hijacker was taken to prison. Officials said he is a Lebanese national but of Palestinian origin.

WASHINGTON — On the subject of soaring food prices — and no faltering guff from the White House on use of that adjective, please — it is mandatory to take a stand beside the housewife. She has discovered that President Nixon's Phase II controls are tilted in favor of the monopolies.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butte, who seems determined to fight his way to obscurity, has been touring the country championing the cause of what he calls the "average farmer," and speaking loftily of administration efforts to bolster "rural income." The man's stance is preposterous. He is, in fact, left-handedly coating as a villain the guy in Iowa or Indiana with 100 acres. In fact, it is not the smaller farmer who is profiting from rising food prices. It is the food monopolies, the big corporations from General Mills, General Foods, Swift and Co. down to the friendly neighborhood supermarkets. These are the middlemen who make the fast buck, not the guy trying to eke out a living on 100 or even 500 acres.

I find it impossible to understand the attitude of the Justice Department's antitrust division. Even a government lawyer should be capable of nourishing suspicious thoughts about a situation whereby all food retailers charge identical or virtually identical prices for every item on their shelves. If this does not constitute monopolistic control of Main Street's dining table, then I'm Betty Friedan and may as well take the hemlock.

Among other mischievous activities, Butz has been criticizing the news media for "focusing attention" on food price increases. He cited a "Today" television program that carried a consumer report on East Coast efforts to reduce food prices through customer boycotts.

In a Des Moines speech to farm representatives, Butz whined: "That's the kind of thing we're up against in the news media. It made me mad."

Too ruddy bad, Butz. Other things being equal, I'd just as soon you were happy. But I trust the news media will continue to rap the administration's knuckles for the phony "controls" it has foisted upon a hapless public. I am also glad that the complaints annoy Butz; he sounds like a guy who should be annoyed. However it may be material to inform him that some in government do not share his belief that the public has no rights.

At a press conference the other day, even Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson, one of whose duties is to soothe the multitudes, turned agitator. Conceding that the exempt meat prices are causing public concern, Grayson advised consumers to either stop buying meats or shop more selectively. Take that, Butz!

Grayson also has acknowledged a crisis of credibility in another field by suspending for 30 days all increases in utility rates except those made effective prior to Feb. 10. Under the rules, utility companies are permitted to raise rates subject to review, and they have done just that, often with a greed that might embarrass a heroin pusher. One sample of more than 900 rates before the commission, Grayson noted that approval had been granted by regulatory agencies for four rate boosts over 30 per cent, eight over 20 per cent, 16 over 15 per cent and 22 over 10 per cent. Nice dough, if you've got an amiable regulatory agency on your side.

At the White House, qualified sources have leaked the intelligence that the administration is preparing a strategy in case the Nixon economic game plan collapses. As part of his reelection campaign, the President is prepared to blame both business and labor for sabotaging Phase II, and will blame the Democrats if Congressional spending increases Nixon's whopping budget deficit.

In a squallid way, this might be good politics, but with housewives in an uproar I doubt the effectiveness of Nixon's proposed application of the theory that the best defense is a good offense. The stiffs are demanding the lower prices they were promised, fellows, and on the vultures front the way to do that is to adopt the extreme Secretary Butz says he "fears"—namely clap a ceiling on food prices. Period.

Wise And Great

"Treacherous in private friendship and a hypocrite in public life" was the verdict of one eminent American.

Thomas Paine, pamphleteer and patriot, was delivering what he probably sincerely believed to be final judgment on George Washington.

That the first chief executive was the target of seething attack in his own time is a fact of American history largely forgotten by all but historians—but fact, nonetheless. Political hatchetmen of any time would be hard put to match the abuse heaped upon the least political of presidents.

Washington himself, writing in the last year of his presidency to Thomas Jefferson, complained that the partisan press referred to him in "such exaggerated and indecent terms as could scarcely be applied to a Nero, a notorious defaulter, or even a common pick-pocket."

Yet the Washington reputation not only survived, it has grown through the years. While the debunking school of historians has been industriously cutting down to size other greats of America's early years, recognition of Washington's indispensable contributions to the fledgling nation has become clearer, respect greater.

Why? He certainly lacked the intellectual brilliance of Jefferson, the political and economic genius of Hamilton. He was not a great speaker or writer, not one to fire men with his words. He would be considered dull, unimaginative today. Why should this sober, even-stuffy, country gentleman be revered as have few other presidents?

It is simply that because without Washington there would have been no country, no subsequent presidents.

Washington, who had been the indispensable general in winning independence in war, was now to be the indispensable civilian in securing that independence in peace—both as a prime mover of the Constitutional Convention that established the framework of the new nation and as its first president.

Washington, the military hero enjoying the gratitude of his countrymen, knew he had far more to lose than to gain by entering the political arena.

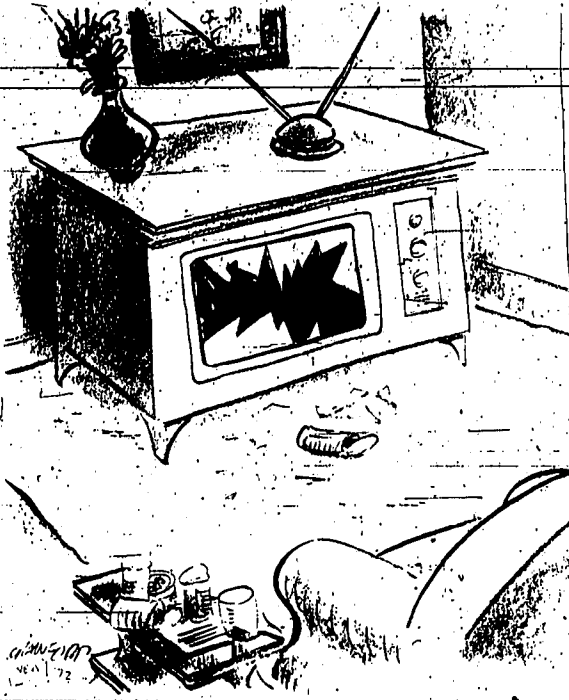

Yet no ideal moved him so deeply as national unity. And by accepting the challenge, with the calmness that inevitably followed, he, more than anyone else, maintained unity during the crucial early years, doing so by sheer force of person and character.

The service to the nation of the man who always thought of himself as president of all the people, who was president of the entire United States as none to follow could hope to be, cannot be debunked.

Jefferson, not Paine, delivered the judgment that was to be history's.

He was, in every sense of the words, a wise, a good and a great man.

ART BUCHWALD

The Lobby Crowd

WASHINGTON — Whether President Nixon planned it or not, his trip to China has created an elite White House press corps that has split the correspondents in Washington asunder.

By choosing 87 TV commentators, technicians, newspapermen and columnists out of 2,000 applicants, Mr. Nixon has conferred the nearest thing to knighthood on the correspondents making the trip.

For the past week the White House press room has been divided between those who got their cholera shots and those who didn't.

"The Red China Lobby Crowd," as they are bitterly referred to by the newspapermen who aren't going, were easy to identify because they kept waving the Little Red Books of Mao-Tse-tung during last week's press briefings.

They also could be found in the Executive Office Building cafeteria eating their chili and beans with chopsticks.

In fairness to the Red China Lobby Crowd, they tried to keep a low profile once the list of those who would accompany President Nixon was posted. Many went out of their way to be nice to those who hadn't been chosen. One of them gave out free fortune cookies during Henry Kissinger's briefings.

Another served jasmine tea during a poker game in the lounge. Others handed out bowls of rice to their news-hungry fellow correspondents. But despite this outward display of friendship, there was a feeling on the part of those who weren't going with President Nixon that the Red China Lobby Crowd was patronizing them.

There was nothing anyone could put his finger on, but there were little things that added up. One correspondent who was making the trip refused to take off his quilted Mao jacket in the press room. Another had his name in Chinese plastered on his portable typewriter, and still another kept referring to those who weren't going as "counter-revolutionaries."

Adding insult to injury, the 87 elitists did exercises every morning in front of a portrait of Mao in the White House lawn. This was followed by a 10-mile swim down the Potomac, where they shouted slogans of support for the Cultural Revolution.

As if this weren't enough, some of the Red China Lobby Crowd started to confess their sins publicly in front of Ron Ziegler and asked to be sent to state farms after their trip so they could be "rehabilitated."

One White House correspondent who had been turned down said, "I don't give a damn how the elitists behave now. But it's when they come back from the trip that they'll be insufferable. After eight days in China they'll all be experts, and God help us when they start spinning their tales of what happened to them when they visited a tiry factory in Peking."

Another disgruntled White House correspondent said, "I can't just hear future White House briefings when every question by the elitists will be preceded by 'Ron, when Chou En-lai told us... or As you recall, Ron, you demed in Shanghai.'"

It is obvious that the White House press room will never be the same again. By making his trip to China, Mr. Nixon has been able to destroy the morale of the press corps forever. Using divide-and-conquer tactics, he has managed to turn brother correspondent against brother.

When the elitists return from their trip and start talking down to those who didn't go, there could be a lot of blood spilled on the White House press room floor. The President may not have resolved his diplomatic problems by going to Peking, but he has put the men covering him at the "White House" in disarray and that, as Vice President Agnew would agree, is worth all the tea in China.

Overburden

The welfare overburden is drowning us.

Cities are sinking in a morass of fiscal mismanagement and big city politicians keep pulling aboard more free-loaders.

The question is no longer what, in a spirit of generous helpfulness, we "want" to do; we've reached the outer limits of what we "can do."

There are now more New Yorkers on welfare than there are people in Houston, 1.25 million.

And the politicians are offering nothing more imaginative than more of the same.

There are crooks and parasites on the welfare rolls; they are vastly outnumbered by the deserving needy; this discussion is not concerned with which is which. That debate always generates more heat than light.

The acute crisis, just beyond which is chaos, is the fact that welfare costs last year jumped another 27 per cent.

Despite decreasing unemployment, in spite of the fact that more Americans are working than ever before in our nation's history and every metropolitan newspaper is bulging with jobs for workers:

Despite those factors, the big city states are going broke trying to upkeep people who, for whatever reason, are not working.

The federal government is kicking back a billion dollars a month of your money to try to pay off the promissory notes of all those Lindsays. But that's not enough.

Now the Administration is offering another billion dollars to advance welfare payments to the unemployed.

At best this is an election year palliative, a political pacifier, a bone for all those welfare voters to chew on.

And the disorganized, dues-paying, working majority looks on, its collective mouth agape, wondering where will it all end.

And now in addition to the benefits for aged, blind, disabled, dependent children and the medically needy—

Democrats and Republicans are closing ranks in support of a new plan to give additional money to people who are working. Aid to the underpaid, so to speak.

The Nixon Administration and Democratic Sen. Ribicoff have negotiated a trial run of this idea—government payments to the working poor.

If this encourages workers to get its investment back in the increased tax take. As is, welfare payments are tax free, nothing comes back.

But there is already evidence in several states indicating that this is not the way low-wage workers will react to supplementary payment; on the contrary they will merely stop working as much overtime as now.

What has reduced welfare rolls in 18 states and the District of Columbia was when the state ran out of money, and arbitrarily reduced benefit levels to low enough so that they don't compete with low-level wages. That way you preserve the incentive to work. As is in many states it has been more profitable not to pay and that is down the inexorable

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Meal A Day

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband refuses to eat anything for breakfast and quite often goes without eating through lunch time, but will eat a well-balanced meal at dinner time. I say this is nutritionally unsound and could contribute to malnutrition. This is an unending disagreement in our home. What do you say?

I'll have to answer with two or three "ifs."

If he gets a really balanced meal for dinner, and gets enough calories to supply his body's need for energy, then getting along on one meal a day or sometimes two will not contribute to malnutrition.

But whether a person who often eats only dinner will have a truly balanced diet is another question. It's possible, but it takes some doing.

For one thing, perhaps the main question, what about his intake of vitamin C? A daily supply of that vitamin is wise; and prolonged deprivation of it leads to trouble—as was found out a long time ago when sailors on long voyages, deprived of vitamin C, developed scurvy.

The custom has grown up generally of having citrus or tomato juice for breakfast, just to make certain of getting vitamin C, although other vegetables contain some.

Second reason I'm suspicious of one-meal-a-day regimens is that a person often is not as efficient as he could be unless he has some nourishment in the morning.

Third reason: eating one meal a day, instead of three, has been tried by a good many folks as a means of reducing weight. Studies show it doesn't work, and that actually a person is more likely to gain weight, probably because such people, being hearty eaters by nature, too often develop such an appetite by evening that they eat too much—although not necessarily the foods they need for good health.

For those reasons I cast a jaundiced eye at trying to get along on one meal a day, even though, if a person is careful, he can get along safely that way. The trouble is people aren't always as careful as they need to be.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he's unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated into his column whenever possible.

MR. SPECTATOR

The Rubber Knees

Officials of Boise State received a protest from a nameless young lady that there was sex discrimination on the campus.

She claimed in a letter she originally sent to the Idaho Commission on Human Rights, that the College had discriminated against her in awarding a "better" scholarship to a male who had a lower grade point average than she.

Faced with this stinging accusation, the college officials wondered whether scholarships were being awarded to men at the expense of the women. So the investigation got underway.

At last a clerk in the Financial Aids Office put a tabulation on the desk of her boss.

It showed males were being discriminated against. In the summer of 1971 the scholarship committee had approved 188 awards—48 to males and 84 to females.

Now we understand there is another move on foot. A male student is going to protest that, in fact, he is being stepped on—not the girls.

DISAPPEARED?

Dear Mr. Spectator:

Through you, I have a request for city officials:

In your quest to upgrade the streets of Twin Falls would you please keep an eye out for a 1964 white Buick convertible? Mipe!

It was last seen traveling down Shoshone Street West with my wife driving. It disappeared into a large hole and has not been seen since.

There have been, I understand, a number of other cars disappear into some of the large holes of our streets. Please keep a lookout for all of them.

George Hansen Believes This Year Of 1972 Is His

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

George Hansen is sure this is his year. He's optimistic he will win the Republican primary in his quest to capture the United States Senate seat being vacated by the retirement of Len Jordan.

His campaign is based on an appeal to the farmers and an appeal to youth. He says it is "high time" for Agriculture to get out of the back seat and take its rightful place "in the power structure of this nation." The nation needs, he says, more able and forthright agricultural spokesmen in "the high councils of government." He believes an effective Senator for Idaho should "hold both the agriculture and interior committees."

He says when a farmer can't harvest his crop, or sell it, or sell it for a decent price, then everyone suffers.

State Prosperity Depends On Farmer

"Every businessman and laborer — anyone who depends on the farmer — suffers. It is a matter of joint concern," Hansen said.

He was talking to the Times-News in an exclusive interview made during a trip through the area. It's early for campaigning — but Hansen is out early. He says he's getting more help now than in any previous campaign since he entered politics.

"I feel financial backing is coming along in good order. It's early but I have had so many people interested this time — more than any other election I was ever in. Money has been coming in even before we have asked for it. This will mean a lot of participation and that government will be by the many instead of the few. This is democracy in action. I'm relying on the grass roots and the average man."

The former Second District Congressman and Department of Agriculture official, discussed a wide range of subjects. These questions and answers were a part:

Education Lobby Must Be Careful

Q — What is your feeling relative to the education lobby?

A — With five children of my own I'm very much for education and I want very much to give them, and all children, every advantage and possibility to compete in this world. In Idaho, when you talk about an education lobby, there has been a great effort to upgrade teacher salaries and facilities. I find in many cases, however, that many things have been pushed pretty hard and pretty fast. I think those trying to improve the lot of education are going to have to be very careful in the days ahead so that we do not cause a reaction among the people who have to support educational projects and schools with their tax money. We must have a more balanced approach to education if we are not going to lose any of the advantages we have realized.

Q — What can be done to encourage Idaho youngsters to remain in Idaho after completing their education or after they decide on their life work?

A — We must make a great effort to bring every kind of prosperity into our state. They shouldn't have to leave Idaho unless they really want to. Federal legislation helps other states and we should make sure that such legislation helps our state. Outside the halls of Congress we can attract new, light, industry.

Q — Is it possible to curtail federal spending and still satisfy the wants and demands of most of the citizens of Idaho?

A — The government is way out of hand so far as some of the spending programs are concerned. People read in the paper all the time that certain government programs have not gone well and that there is a waste of money. I believe that government can be operated in such a fashion that we can still balance the budget and still have prosperity. Somebody is going to have to bring the budget into balance. Statistics show incomes have been cut 30 per cent the past five years because of inflation. This means farmers are going out of business, small businessmen are going out of business and older people cannot live on their set incomes. We must step up the battle against inflation.

Primary Route Good For Idaho

Q — Do you think the best election procedure is through the primary route?

A — I think a good direct primary is a healthy thing. I hate to see government so restrictive and the candidates so party controlled, that you do not have a little bit of free wheeling. It should be that any citizen can offer himself for election and the people make the final decision. The vitality we get from this kind of race is a very healthy thing for the state.

Q — How is your campaign being received over the state?

A — I've never felt so good about a campaign before. I've had pure people come up and not only ask but insist upon helping me in all the other elections combined.

Youthful Voter Backing Required

Q — Do you look for support of your campaign from first time voters from youthful voters?

A — I feel I have real strong support among youthful rural people because I feel I have the credentials they like. I believe, too, that the campaign is catching on with all young people. They are looking for someone who is interested in them, and I am. Anyone standing for election in this state will surely pay prime attention to the wants of the young voters, as well as those of the small businessmen and the farmers. My campaign is based on programs which will appeal to, and aid all these groups.

Q — Do you anticipate any "dirty" tactics during the primary campaign?

A — I hope it will be a horse race. No one likes dirty tactics. In order to avoid this I'm making a really strong stand early on what I believe are the prime issues. If we stay out of personalities then we can stay out of politics.

The Predator Situation

Editor, Times-News:

Special interest groups such as sheepmen appear concerned about the possible national legislation dealing with predators. Rigorous predator protection is an extreme measure and these groups may have just cause for anxiety. If enacted, the result of the next few years might seem to indicate that the opposite course of predator eradication and bounties was the proper one.

Is it unusual that the proposed control measures are analogous to the populations which they intend to regulate? Almost everyone in this area is familiar with the cycles of extremes in wildlife abundance that characterize the local predator and prey populations. Surveying the world, this instability is usually found in north temperate and arctic climates which are themselves characterized by extremes. There are only a few types of predators and prey compared to the tropics where these population fluctuations aren't pronounced. When one prey population starts to explode, it takes a while for the few predators to effect their control and when predators become over abundant, there are not many types of prey species to buffet their activity. Because there are so few types of predator and prey to interact, wildlife populations are frequently regulated by less classical predators such as disease and through overuse of browse.

Man has the opportunity to serve a beneficial function instead of his more detrimental function in the environment. If man acts as wise predator, he can increase the complexity of the local predator-prey relationship or "food web." This is good. Addition to that complexity can help stabilize population fluctuations just as it does in the tropics.

Being a wise predator is quite a responsibility. Application of bounties to your fellow predators isn't (or hasn't been shown to be in a cause-effect sense) wise. If nothing else, it causes excessive reduction in predators where they are easily accessible and often little control where needed.

Complete protection of predators is often folly. Instead of increasing food web complexity by interacting with both the predator and the prey, we simplify it if we combine the efforts of two predators (ourselves and the other against one prey).

Foreign and a policy not based on science is indicated. The law in the above consideration concerns population size. Any particular species probably has a low population in the tropics. From the viewpoint of various individuals it is desirable to see a deer, sheep, pheasant or coyote behind every bush. And the maintenance of a complex balance doesn't really allow any desired animal to be found in the quantities sometimes seen in fluctuation peaks. Where animal numbers are strictly regulated, domestic animals, plant growth and disease must also be controlled. This can't be done with wildlife.

However, if any good has been done by the recent emphasis of ecology, most people realize that any natural population being too large is not good. A pheasant behind every bush for the sportsman can be a headache for the farmer. Too many deer can destroy their own browse. Too many sheep under the guidance of an irresponsible person can be a local disaster and too many coyotes can directly compete with man too strongly for a desirable prey. The instance of disease and similar catastrophe must again be emphasized. Hopefully, enough people have benefitted from the attention environmental study has recently received.

An Open Letter

Editor, Times-News:

This is an open letter to our good and fair lawyers and judges — of which are few and far between in this state of Idaho.

I would like to know why we must be blessed with these high priced men — who do so little or nothing at all and then expect the moon for payment. Many times nothing is done for the client except to sell him up the river.

How come in this good state of Idaho can one person sell a ranch to one party and then, several months later, sell an acreage off this ranch to another party? And then to have the judge say this person was within his rights. Is this justice in Idaho? Then your lawyer says that he has his hands tied and says "I know it's wrong but the judge has ruled on it and we are all human."

Gooding's Problem

Editor, Times-News:

Just because the Idaho State Land Board has set the price of $300,000 for the old Idaho State Tuberculosis Hospital at Gooding, and were offered only $25,000 for it, is no reason to turn down the offer. The difference of $275,000 could mean the difference of helping many over come alcoholism and drug abuse.

As for Gooding Mayor Harley Crippen stating the proposed alcoholism and drug rehabilitation center is something he would like to see as a last resort if nothing else can be found — many of our citizens need that "last resort" to become constructive citizens again — not remain alcoholics or drug abusers.

Does he have any idea how many people it would take to operate such a worthy rehabilitation program? He must remember it would require 24 hours of work force per day, seven days per week, whereas a firm would work eight hours per day five or six days per week.

Gooding should be grateful to have the facilities they have available to offer for the benefit of all citizens of Idaho, not just the economy of Gooding.

To further state my feelings, why not create legislation that would require a drug abuser to a sentence of rehabilitation, rather than a jail sentence in the county jail or State Penitentiary. A person on illegal drugs needs to be rehabilitated and helped, how can they get it without proper legislation to enforce it, because not all abusers will go on their own, and if he is sentenced to a jail term, it has not cured the problem.

Why not give B. L. Lower a chance to tell us more about the operation he is offering to Gooding and Idaho, and if we can help just a few people, is this not worthy?

Prayer For Today

Dear God, someone said, "courage is faith." I like that. If a person has the courage to go on in spite of obstacles and difficulties, he is showing faith. Life is often difficult and courage is required to live with it. Then, having that courage must be faith. Maybe we have more faith than we think. Help us, God, to have the faith and courage we can receive only through dependence on you to see us through every experience of life.

Against "TIP"

Editor, Times-News:

That any person should be subject to anonymous accusation is a complete denial of any veneer of "civilization" or "enlightened" society that man has built, or hopes to build. Progress towards lawful freedom is never made in the freezing air of suspicion. Whether that suspicion is founded or fanciful, it is a master that rules unmercifully. It leads to stereo-typing, division, violence among factions.

A program such as the present "TIP" is nothing less than the deliberate provocation of suspicion. In conjunction will be the fear of being named, in guilt or innocence. Here enters the pseudo-logic that the good derived will eventually overcome the bad. But, think, has suspicion ever been the basis of any good? The root of strife and disorder, surely. Suspicion, justification for back-biting, spying in the name of "common good," that is the seed from which social reform and good for all is sprung?

The drug abuse in this area, in all areas, demands our concern and action, but here I will call for a continuation of open confrontation rather than the clandestine method that has been initiated. All citizens are equally responsible for the keeping of order. If they witness a violation of that order, they are under obligation to report that breach. But to so act and remain anonymous is to fail in the role of witness, and assume that of assassin. This is the ground rule of American justice.

Anyone who agrees that the accused has no right to face his accuser has locked himself in a closet, and without a prayer, hopes for the best. "TIP" could be a well adapted tool if the persons that called in the names of suspects were also called on to face same in court. I believe that is what the courts are for. If people haven't the time to appear, to get "involved" then why should they even care enough to point the finger? one is not willing to be a full witness, then much better in the long to keep a tight lip.

My Dog Lost

Editor, Times-News:

Gentlemen — I hope you will print this note as it is my last hope of finding my dog.

Well, it's been over three weeks since I lost him. After advertising for his return, and offering a sizeable reward, I had no luck. I can only consider that the person who has him wants to keep him.

Being quite attached to him, I would like to pass along some history about him. I'm doing this so his new home might be as good as his old home. He is a registered Weimaraner and a good hunter. He likes to ride in the front seat of the car. He is quite peaceful at one time. He sleeps quite peacefully at the foot of a three-year-old girl's bed. Again, please be careful because it can be hard to get that girl to sleep if he comes up missing.

He is five years old and has had the same owner since he was a puppy. His rabies shot is due next month. He eats a soup can of Chukwagon dog food every three weeks. He also eats two cans of food a day — preferably Friskies. If he eats less he's probably homesick or just sick.

His name is Skip. In case you lost the tag that was fastened to his choke collar. Both we know were impossible to have lost. Please take good care of him because one of these days I hope to find you with him. The day is the day you have bought a one-way ticket to hell.

Do not consider this a threat. It's only a promise. Detray L. Furell

A Clear Point

Editor, Times-News:

I would like to thank Mabel Doramus for bringing to our attention the workings of Rep. Orval Hansen's amendment. I overlooked it. But it brings up a very clear point which those of us who feel there is a definite need for unions to make business responsive to not only the wages of its workers but also to the conditions under which they work may clearly pat Rep. Hansen upon the back for seeing the further domination of the working man by corporate structure.

It's Humane

Editor, Times-News:

Magic Valley will do well to support the proposed Humane Society and I intend to support it wholeheartedly. The animals that people so cruelly dump in rural areas belie the intelligence of ignorant citizens. Littering is a criminal offense yet littering the roadside with starved, bewildered and dead dogs seems to be a current occupation of many.

I believe the Humane Society should try to dwell on educating the public on how to dispose of unwanted animals and providing some sort of birth control for pets available to those who cannot afford to pay high fees for such services. This would help hold down the costs of building shelters — if we all work together the cost to help animals will not need to be $300,000.

I want to note also the efforts of our radio stations and newspapers in bringing to the public the plight of "Man's Best Friend" in need. Thanks to them many animals have good homes now.

Mrs. Ed. K. Meyer
Buhl

This is an old kick and a popular one too, I might add, of one jumping upon the unions to gain local notoriety and for that brief fleeting moment be rid of their antagonistic anguish, most likely brought about by the union saying to that individual, no you cannot treat a fellow human in that way. He is an individual with pride and dignity.

Everytime there is some disturbance brought about by some malfunction of the governmental system there are individuals such as you, Miss or Mrs. or perhaps Ms. Doramus, who construe the ailment in a misguided way upon the political demon, UNION. Why I don't know. We're not perfect, anymore than you are. We make mistakes, but these are few when balanced against the good done for all workingmen. The others who are not union members and read this might well consider where your wage scale might lie if it weren't for the competition of collective bargaining.

Hansen is one of the most responsive Representatives we have had for quite some time. And I am sure that any decision he made concerning this measure was in the realm of true and natural justice. To make laws that are not responsive to the people is not the job of our legislative branch and to outlaw something that is going to exist anyway is not right.

We all know of the lobbies of big business whether legal or illegal and the facts are so that such action does take place. It's much better for a law to govern an action than to not, and ignore the action. I call your attention to the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution and later the consequence the twenty-first amendment correcting prohibition.

Nixon Praised

Editor, Times-News:

I am glad to note, in spite of all lobbies, that President Nixon had the fortitude to ban the shooting, poisoning, or trapping of eagles, hawks, coyotes, falcons and other kinds of predators on federal lands.

As an early banker in Idaho I have had many occasions to question stockmen as to range loss due to predators. Most of the stockmen agreed that the loss was minimal. One sheepman, I distinctly recall, stated that out of approximately 3,000 sheep he could not actually point out that coyotes had killed more than 25 or 30 sheep or lambs.

A year or so ago I was hunting sage hens (sage grouse) in Owyhee county. My hunting companion and I ran into lit-terly thousands of jackrabbits. I asked a stockman why they were so plentiful and he stated "We just need more coyotes." One back pasture piece was all eaten by the rabbits.

Perhaps if we kill off more coyotes we may be able to ship more rabbits to Italy.

In my opinion, the calling of coyotes, or bobcats by a dying rabbit mechanized call is an unsportsmanlike means of blasting them at short range.

Before coming to Idaho in 1908 I grew up on a ranch in Wyoming. I loved to hear the lonely call and howl of the coyotes at night. Maybe I am just sentimentally to wild creatures.

Thank You

Editor, Times-News:

(This is an open letter to Frank Barnett, Chief of Police, Twin Falls)

I want to thank all of the police officers who participated in the apprehension of the burglars who entered our store last Sunday.

The officers who were in the store were very alert in recognizing the suspicious actions of the suspect. If they weren't on the job we would have lost a substantial amount of jewelry.

Please express my appreciation to everyone concerned. The other police work is a thankless job but I for one believe without police department is a credit to the community and deserves everyone's support.

JAMES

Christian history is very honest about the rejection of the people who were said to be Jesus' brothers and sisters toward Him. Ministry of teaching and healing. They were opposed. Jesus observed on one occasion that a prophet was without honor in his own house. At least one Scripture source recalls the time that His family tried "to take him away," so, worried and apprehensive, had they become over His public ministry.

Heading the family opposition may have been James, the oldest, and direction may have fallen on his shoulders. Joseph is no longer mentioned, believed to have died years earlier. Jesus' determination to preach the coming of the Kingdom of God must have annoyed James intensely, more work and supervision for him of a poor and struggling, fatherless family. Yet in God's providence, James is among the first to see the Risen Christ, to believe in the Resurrection and to take his place in church history. As head of the Jerusalem Church, he was wise and courageous—the hallmark of belief.

Soviets drilling deepest

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union is trying to drill the world's deepest hole to find out what exists nine miles down in the earth's crust. The hole is supposed to go 48,000 feet into the Kura River Valley of southern Azerbaijan, which borders Turkey and Iran and harbors some of the Soviet Union's most important oil fields.

Oil-seeking is the hole's primary aim. Scientists hope it will also provide fresh specifics about the layers of the earth's crust, its mineral content, pressure and temperature.

Scientists are concerned with studies of the abyssal (bottomless) structure of the earth's entrails, problems of oil and gas content of mesozoic (dinosaur-age) deposits and the compilation of a specified section of the earth's crust, scientist Ali Aliyev told the government newspaper Izvestia recently.

3 Irish stores damaged

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Terrorists damaged three shopping centers in Londonderry with bombs in 30 minutes Friday after warning shoppers to flee. In Belfast, a quick thinking hairdresser picked up a bomb placed in his shop and casually hurried it into the street.

An army spokesman said the Londonderry bombs contained an estimated 10 pounds of gelignite each and that the extremists warned staffs of the shopping centers the bombs would explode within 30 minutes. They fled and no casualties resulted.

Bernadette Devlin, the civil rights leader who is a member of the British Parliament, appeared with 12 other persons in a heavily guarded court today on charges they had taken part in an illegal parade in Belfast on Christmas Day. The case was continued. She had faced similar charges on Wednesday for taking part in an illegal Roman Catholic march in Newry. That case also was postponed.

Birch society founder not discouraged yet

SAN MARINO, Calif. (UPI)—Robert Welch, 72, founder and for 13 years undisputed head of the John Birch Society, says he is not discouraged.

Even though President Nixon is embarking on missions to Peking and Moscow.

Red China has been admitted to the United Nations.

A Republican administration is backing an economic and welfare program that a few years ago would have been considered socialist.

The United States is withdrawing from a Vietnamese War whose avowed purpose was to contain communism.

"No, I'm not discouraged," Welch said in an interview at the Birch headquarters in this Los Angeles suburb. "On the contrary."

"The more these things happen, the more people are beginning to listen and to realize that our warnings were right on target."

"What we are talking about is the survival of the United States and its resistance to a takeover by a worldwide Communist conspiracy. We started from scratch 13 years ago. We knew we couldn't bowl them over. At the time I said the odds were about one to 100 that America could resist the takeover."

By 1962 I estimated the odds of our survival had improved to 1-8. Today I think the odds of a Communist takeover are about 3-2 and I think what we have done has played an important part in shortening them."

The image of the John Birch Society has undergone a drastic change since the "glare" of publicity was turned on it in the early 1960s. It had sprung out of a meeting in Indianapolis on Dec. 8 and 9, 1958, where Welch talked two days straight to a small group of businessmen friends.

The society was formed in 1959 and for the next few years it was a close knit, close mouthed group whose existence was unknown to most Americans while it wielded behind the scenes pressure for right wing causes.

The "exposure" of the Birch Society peaked in 1964 and centered around a letter in which Welch had termed President Eisenhower and a number of other prominent Americans Communists or Communist dupes.

Welch has said it was a private communication whose words were taken out of context and completely misunderstood. He said he did not regret having written the letter although it is apparent he does regret it became public.

"The publicity about the society nosed off in 1966 after a period of extreme vituperation," Welch said in the interview. "I think our enemies thought we were all washed up as a significant anti-communist force. And we did have a period of great trouble so far as losing members and not gaining enough new ones."

Nixon talks won't bind Taiwan aides

TAIPEI (UPI)—The Nationalist Chinese government said Friday it will not be bound by any agreement President Nixon might reach with Communist China during his visit there.

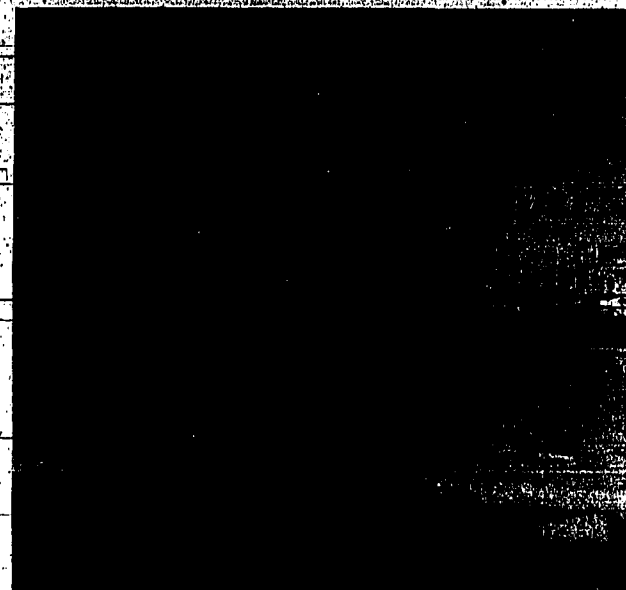

In a statement issued by the Foreign Ministry, the government said, "Insofar as the Republic of (Nationalist) China is concerned, the so-called question of unification is a question as to how to destroy the Communist Chinese rebel regime and thus enable our people on the mainland to regain their freedom."

It added that "at this point there is absolutely no room for compromise or negotiations."

Patch holes

STATE HIGHWAY Department maintenance crews completed patching of Shoshone St. S. at the south end of the "slating bridge" over Rock Creek Friday afternoon. The workmen put in two days patching deep holes created by cold, wet weather and heavy traffic. Asphalt patches were placed in the holes.

State hospital chief dismissal recommended

BOISE (UPI) — State Hospital North in Orofino was called "a needless institution" Friday in a report released by a task force of the Mental Health Association of Idaho, which called for dismissal of hospital superintendent Dr. William V. Vanduyne.

The report, based on a six-hour inspection of the north Idaho facility made Monday, Association executive director James E. Manser, Boise, was one of five association members.

and officials in the task force.

The "evaluation inspection" was made at the institution because of its state of transition, the report said, from general mental health care and treatment to intensive treatment for acute mentally ill patients.

The association is a voluntary citizens' organization concerned with mental illness, and monitors such programs to improve mental health of Idaho residents.

Last summer the Board of Health voted to change the role of the institution to diagnosis, evaluation and treatment of inpatients up to 60 days after which time they would be discharged to their homes or community facilities or transferred to State Hospital South in Blackfoot for long-term care.

The report said "the program at State Hospital North does not meet any reasonable test of intensive treatment and is in fact little more than barely adequate custodial care."

Task force members cited a lack of regular individual or group therapy "except for a limited alcoholism program" as well as "recreation therapy."

They said in addition a "number of specific abuses exist at the hospital" including "the detaining of children in an institution designed and staffed for adults and the penance of patients in maintenance work disguised as industrial therapy."

Scout fete slated

SHOSHONE — Girl Scout Thinking Day will be observed by all Twin Falls troops, with a special program at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at City Park.

Family members of the girls and interested friends are invited. Thinking Day is observed each Feb. 22 in recognition of the birthday anniversary of Girl Scout founders, Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, who had the same birth dates.

The program at the park band shell will feature the flag ceremony, an international folk dance, explanation of Thinking Day, and reviewing of the Girl Scout and Beowulf promises. The program will be presented by the girls, Mrs. Gayle Bennett, a cadet Girl Scout leader. Guardians of the troops will handle preparations.

Sentence suspended T.F. council sets meet

TWIN FALLS — Terry Richard Hartley, 24, Twin Falls was sentenced to 15 years in the state penitentiary Friday but execution of sentence was suspended by Judge Theron W. Ward.

Judge Ward placed Hartley on probation for five years and ordered full restitution of more than $3,000 taken in the robbery to which he pleaded guilty.

The sentence was pronounced following the plea of guilty a week ago and a pre-sentence investigation ordered by the court. Judge Ward said the man's employer testified on his behalf indicating he has a good job and is successful in it. The judge said this was the first time Hartley has been involved in a crime and was taking medication and had been drinking the day of the robbery and is unable to fully recall details of the event.

The council will also establish March 20 as the date for a public hearing on the 1972 city budget.

The agenda includes consideration of the adoption of the 1972 pay-plan resolution and the revised lease agreement with the South Central Health Department.

Angela's attorney asks bail

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—An attorney for Black militant Angela Davis says her client may soon be free on bail because of the California Supreme Court's ruling striking down the death penalty.

Attorney Doris R. Walker said the court's ruling Friday "removes the single obstacle to setting bail" and said she would apply immediately for Miss Davis' release on bond.

Miss Davis has been denied bail under a state law which prohibits release in capital cases, Miss Walker said. "If there are no longer capital cases in California," Miss Davis should be released, the attorney said.

George T. Davis, a noted constitutional lawyer, said the court's decision meant Miss Davis was eligible for bail "as a matter of right. The only question will be the amount."

First China trip telecast tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — At 8:30 p.m. EST Sunday Mr. and Mrs. America will get their first "live" look at China when NBC television cameras begin broadcasting pictures of Peking's airport.

For the next eight days, the three major networks, ABC, NBC and CBS, will broadcast via satellite relay live coverage of President Nixon's historic China visit.

The networks reported Friday they have been asked by the White House not to reveal in advance the events to be covered on their special programs, for which regularly scheduled programs are being pre-empted.

But the major coverage is expected to begin with the airport welcoming ceremonies Sunday evening and will conclude Monday, Feb. 28 with his departure.

Following are the times allotted by the networks for special programs of the Nixon visit. All times are Eastern Standard Time.

Sunday, Feb. 20: NBC—8:30-9 p.m. and 10-11:30 p.m. CBS—9:30-11 p.m. ABC—10:30-11:15 p.m.

Monday, Feb. 21: NBC—1:30 a.m. to conclusion, 6-7:30 a.m., 11:30 p.m.-midnight. CBS—2-3 a.m. (approximate), 6-7 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to midnight (if events warrant.) ABC—8:30-9 a.m., 7:30-8 a.m. and a 20-30 minute portion of the Dick Cavett Show between 11:30 p.m. and 1 a.m. will be taken over for a live China broadcast; exact time uncertain.

Tuesday, Feb. 22: NBC—the Today show each weekday will present live China telecasts, exact time undetermined, between 7-9 a.m.; 11:30 p.m.-midnight. CBS—7-8 a.m., 10:30-11 p.m., if events warrant. ABC—7:30-8 a.m., and again during the Cavett show.

Wednesday, Feb. 23: NBC—Today show and 11:30 p.m. to midnight or possibly later. CBS—7-8 a.m. and 11:30 p.m. to midnight. ABC—7:30-8 a.m. and midnight to 12:30 a.m.

Thursday, Feb. 24: NBC—Today show and 9-10 p.m. CBS—9-9:30 p.m., time approximate. ABC—7:30-8 a.m. and 9:20-9:35 p.m., time approximate.

Friday, Feb. 25: NBC—Today show and 8-9:30 p.m. CBS—6:30-8 a.m. and 11:30 p.m. to midnight, if events warrant. ABC—6-7 a.m. and 7:30-8 a.m. No evening ABC telecast.

Judges favor state

BOISE (UPI)—A panel of three federal judges ruled in favor of the State Board of Education in a suit testing the constitutionality of the state's law requiring nonresident students to pay tuition.

The ruling said student John W. Orwick failed to file a proper application for resident status.

"Had he done so," the opinion said, "We entertain no doubt he would have been admitted without payment of nonresident tuition."

California death penalty out

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court today ruled that the state's death penalty is unconstitutional because the 107 men and women on Death Row in the state will never see the inside of San Quentin Prison's gas chamber.

While the issue of capital punishment is also before the U.S. Supreme Court, the California court, in issuing its decision Friday, said that regardless of what the high court does "death may not be exacted as punishment for crime in this state."

The court emphasized it was ruling on the basis of the state constitution only and not the U.S. Constitution. The state constitution uses the words "cruel or unusual punishment" while the U.S. Constitution says "cruel and unusual punishment."

In the 6-1 decision, the California court said "punishment in today's world."

"It degrades and dehumanizes all who participate in its process," the court said. "It is unnecessary to any legitimate goal of the state and is incompatible with the dignity of man and the judicial process."

The court ordered that all death penalties be changed to life imprisonment at once.

Gov. Ronald Reagan assailed the court's decision and announced the state would petition for a rehearing of the case. But court observers felt it was unlikely the court would grant another hearing.

Reagan said if the decision goes unchallenged, the judicial philosophy inherent in this ruling could be an almost lethal blow to society's right to protect law-abiding citizens and their families against violence and crime.

But Reagan's predecessor in office, Edmund G. Brown, a one-time prosecutor who strongly opposed the death penalty, called the decision "the best thing that's happened in the field of criminal jurisdiction in the last 100 years."

The decision lifted the shadow of the gas chamber from 107 condemned criminals in California, including Sirhan Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and Charles Manson, cult leader convicted in the Tate murders in Hollywood.

Although the death penalty remains on the books in many states and countries, it is seldom carried out, the court said, noting that there have been no executions in the United States for four years.

Hughes hideout probed

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI)—Conversation Saturday in Howard Hughes' closely guarded quarters in the Intercontinental Hotel:

Hughes: Good morning. Is Mr. Hughes in?

Guard: (after a pause) "I don't know."

Reporter: Mind if I take a look?

Guard: That's not allowed. You'll have to ask the manager.

Reporter: Whose manager?

Guard: Ah... well, the hotel's.

The exchange took place in the eighth floor service area, the closest any newsman has come to Hughes since the reclusive billionaire bolted from his hideaway in the Bahamas Thursday to a new $400-a-day eighth-floor bastion in Nicaragua's only luxury hotel.

The hotel, which had at first listed Hughes among its distinguished guest, now refuses to confirm he is in residence and says the eighth floor is closed because the air conditioning is being repaired.

Sources at the American Embassy said, however, they had "helped to arrange for Hughes' arrival by chartered plane."

Doubtful

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. officials said Saturday they will be surprised if Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung appears at Peking Airport to welcome President Nixon on his arrival in China.

They noted that Mao, who is 79 and has been in mediocre health in recent years, has not greeted anyone at the airport since the late Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev arrived in the fall of 1959 from a visit to the United States.

If Mao does join Premier Chou En-lai at the airport welcoming ceremonies, his presence would appear to mean that the top Chinese leadership was going all-out to improve relations with the United States.

Airplane races Friday will finish at Jackpot

JACKPOT, Nev. — About 30 planes and 100 persons are expected to participate in the third annual timed race between Lander, Wyo., and Jackpot, Nev. Friday.

Planes will fly from Lander, Friday arriving Saturday at Jackpot and the pilots and occupants will stay in the Nevada resort town overnight, departing the following day at their own leisure for their home towns.

Al Huber, Cactus Pete's, chairman of the Nevada portion of the program, said the event is open to all interested pilots in Idaho, Wyoming and other nearby states.

Prizes will be awarded in four categories for the planes completing the flights in the shortest time. Planes will be timed on take-off and as the wheels touch down on the runway at Jackpot.

Awards include $100, $75 and $50 in cash in each of the four divisions.

All aircraft must meet FAA regulations as to passenger and load limits and must fly with all seats occupied, Huber said.

A breakfast will be held in Lander with a briefing about the competition prior to take off. Cocktail parties, prime rib dinner, and other events will be held for those taking part.

Classifications of competition include single engine, two place craft; four place, single engine; six place single engine, and twin or multi-engine craft including jets.

Al Robinson, Lander, is in charge of Wyoming arrangement. Huber said any pilot, man or woman, wishing to participate may contact the chairman in charge.

Nixon's world speech keeps Russia priority

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
It was more than a decade ago that a bellicose Nikita Khrushchev proclaimed to a startled Western world in general and to the United States specifically, "We will bury you."

Belatedly it was explained that he meant economically rather than in nuclear warfare and that it was part of a new Communist doctrine that abandoned the theory of the inevitability of war and substituted for it the theory of peaceful co-existence.

Ever since then in steps painfully slow because neither trusted the other, the United States and the Soviet Union have sought agreement in those areas where agreement seemed possible and to avoid collision in those areas where it was impossible.

It was within this framework that President Nixon presented to Congress his far-ranging State of the World message which bore the subtitle "The Emerging Structure of Peace."

If doubt remained, the President made it clear that he is his country's final voice in

The President explained the order of his priorities and his hopes and fears in paragraphs such as this:

"If the ultimate prospect for a stable world peace requires accommodation between China and the United States, both the immediate and the long-term hopes for world stability rest on a more decent and mutually beneficial relationship between ourselves and the Soviet Union."

The President found it less than reassuring that since 1969 the Soviets had more than doubled the number of their sea-borne missiles and increased the number of land-based ICMs substantially while U.S. figures remained the same.

Specialist accused of murder

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI) — Police Friday charged a Jordanian eye specialist at the Victoria Hospital with the murder of Deborah Carson, 4, one of three children killed in a knife attack in the hospital children's wing.

Ahmad Alami, 32, appeared in court handcuffed to a constable. In a three-minute hearing he was ordered held for another court appearance on the charge Feb. 25.

Defense lawyer Barot Woods said he had no applications to make on behalf of Alami, whose place of birth was listed as Jerusalem.

The charge sheet listed his address as Victoria Hospital, Hospital staff found Martin Langhorne, 2, and Nicholas Scott, 2, dead Thursday in the same children's wing in which Deborah died.

Hospital staff members said Darren Quamer, 2, also received severe slashes and two nurses were critically injured.

Police at first refused to identify Alami or give details of his arrest.

The children were slained to death in their cribs by a man who wandered in, saying he was a staff member and was trying to get some sleeping pills.

Mark Corby Simpson, 45, the nurse on duty in the ward, asked the man for identification. Instead, he stabbed her in the chest, then slashed Catherine Nuttall, 4, a student nurse. Simpson also tried to shoot him.

Resignation timing surprising

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — Resignations of Dr. Terrell O. Carver as state health administrator and Fred Humphreys as Health Board chairman are surprising only in their timing.

Neither is the type of man to bow out under fire.

But, for those who wanted to read it, all the handwriting was on the wall and the only question was when and not whether they would step down.

It is significant that Dr. Carver declined comment when newsmen asked him whether he received an ultimatum before he resigned.

Both the legislative and executive branches of government have shown growing discontent with the board, the department and the way both were being run.

Generally regarded as one of the ablest of administrators in Idaho's state government, Dr. Carver in recent years has become one of the more auto-critical.

Intellectually a cut above most with whom he dealt, Dr. Carver has an understandably strong ego. He used to exhibit signs of it when he would comment and advisory council, was especially popular and the health department got more than its share.

Not only did Dr. Carver disagree with Samuelson and his policies he felt the former governing. As time went on he found it more and more difficult to conceal this feeling. More than once newsmen watched Dr.

Carver's public person-ality began to change.

As the work load grew so did the need for money and Dr. Carver found the department fighting with its own sub-agencies for funds. It was then he talked the legislature into lump sum funding of health—with the board to make the allocations. He said it, however, on the premise he could save money and took a $1 million cut from what had been proposed for the total budgets.

This marked the beginning of new budget problems for the department—one Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has recommended solving in part by a return to line item appropriations.

When the allocations of money began to pinch some agency operations dissension grew in the ranks.

Sub-agency heads went to their favorite legislators and pleaded for help and the intra-agency warfare sprang up again.

One of the functions hurt during this period was the program on mental retardation and operation of the Idaho State School and Hospital at Nampa.

Dr. John Marks, former head of the Nampa institution and former director of mental retardation programs, cried loudly for help. Then, last year, he resigned from the Health Department and Andrus appointed him commissioner of public assistance.

Since then, the governor has offered emergency fund help to the Nampa school and asked the legislature to move the child development centers and money to run them from health to public assistance. Dr. Carver fought this move—arousing the ire of the governor and the legislature.

Nevertheless bills to accomplish this are moving through the legislature.

Andrus also recommended making the health administrator a cabinet officer appointed by the governor with consent of the Senate and the board an advisory body. He also called for consolidation of environmental programs.

Dr. Carver was suspended for 30 days a year ago by the Andrus 'surprised'

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Friday he was surprised at the resignation of Dr. Terrell O. Carver as state health administrator, but said the resignation of Health Board Chairman Fred Humphreys, Boise, was not unexpected.

Andrus, who said he had not asked for either resignation, said he learned of Carver's decision Thursday afternoon when he received a carbon copy of the resignation letter.

But he said Humphreys had asked to leave last fall, but added he had asked Humphreys to remain on the job until the Health Department budget request was presented to the 1972 legislature.

Andrus said Humphreys called his office shortly after the budget presentation had been made before the joint finance-appropriations committee to warn of his intentions to leave.

Less for food:

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The average American spends only 15 per cent of his take-home pay for food, compared with 26 per cent in 1950, according to the California Farm Bureau.

Consumers in England and Western Europe spend about 40 per cent of their net income for food, the bureau estimated. In Russia, and Eastern Europe generally, the report said, consumers "must pay 50 per cent or more for food products, yet their choice is not as great as here."

Lawmakers bridled over 'talking down' by health administrator

Carver — who worked for a board and not the governor — walk out of Samuelson-called meetings in disgust.

It was not too long before his attitude toward the governor began to affect his relations with others in government — especially the legislature. Many lawmakers have bridled at what they considered was Dr. Carver's "talking down" to them.

A position of strength when properly used, intellectual brilliance and strong leadership can become the crumbling stone of weakness unless buttressed with diplomacy. Dr. Carver, the past few years, has lacked that buttress.

Although appointed by the Board of Health, Dr. Carver for many years virtually ran the board as well as the department.

A dozen or so years ago this part-time board used to assign individual members to study some program or institution run by the department. Veteran reporters can recall how the board member assigned the project would get up and read his own report on the program written by one of Dr. Carver's own public relations men.

During this period, forcing many new duties and responsibilities on the department — chores piled on by piecemeal legislation. This was a time when creation of boards, committees and advisory council, was especially popular and the health department got more than its share.

As the work load grew so did the need for money and Dr. Carver found the department fighting with its own sub-agencies for funds. It was then he talked the legislature into lump sum funding of health—with the board to make the allocations. He said it, however, on the premise he could save money and took a $1 million cut from what had been proposed for the total budgets.

This marked the beginning of new budget problems for the department—one Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has recommended solving in part by a return to line item appropriations.

When the allocations of money began to pinch some agency operations dissension grew in the ranks.

Andrus also recommended making the health administrator a cabinet officer appointed by the governor with consent of the Senate and the board an advisory body. He also called for consolidation of environmental programs.

Dr. Carver was suspended for 30 days a year ago by the board after unilaterally and publicly proposing creation of health and environmental programs.

Dr. Carves was suspended for 30 days a year ago by the board after unilaterally and publicly proposing creation of health and environmental divisions of the department. An investigation of his administration ensued and finally he was reinstated. But there was a change—the part-time board and now Dr. Carver began running things.

A legislative interim committee looked into proposals for creation of a department of Ecology. Finally, it recommended—and the House State Affairs Committee has introduced—legislation creating from the Health Department a Department of Environmental Health, with a seven instead of five-member board and a gubernatorially appointed health administrator. Each would have specific duties and responsibilities.

With all this handwriting on the wall—the resignations themselves are not surprising, just their timing is.

Hearing scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee will hold a public hearing March 1 on legislation to require filing prices of real estate sales with the county assessor.

The hearing will be at 7 p.m. in Room 420 of the Statehouse.

The measure would make the information confidential once it is given to the assessor.

Andrus approves grant

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus announced approval Friday of Idaho's grant application for $80,000 in intergovernmental personnel services.

Andrus, who said confirmation came from the Seattle regional office of the Civil Service Commission, said the money will be used for improving personnel systems of the state and local units of government.

Andrus said the money will be used for training and upgrading city, county and state personnel.

Andrus said the cooperative agreement between the state, cities and counties made it necessary to have only one administrative unit and would allow for joint training sessions so the money can be spent more efficiently.

Liquor change proposed

BOISE (UPI) — First defeating a motion not to print, the Senate State Affairs Committee reluctantly voted today to introduce legislation to end the requirement that all liquor sold in Idaho carry an identification stamp.

The legislation would leave it to the discretion of the commissioner of law enforcement to decide whether to place the stamp on bottles. It also would increase to four quarts from two the possession limit for unstamped—which presently means out-of-state—bottles.

Sam Kaufman, Boise, representing the Distilled Spirits Institute, said the stamps which must now be placed on all liquor sold in Idaho serve no useful purpose and, in fact, add to the cost of the liquor since all stamps must be placed on the bottles by hand.

Memorial rites held in senate

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate held memorial services Friday for former members of the body, inviting relatives of the former members to the ceremonies.

Those eulogized by the senator's included former Sens. Alfred Derr, D-Bonner; Harvey Schwindman, R-Fremont; Harleigh Wallington, R-Blaine; Holger Albrechtsen, D-Blaine; George F. Brocke Sr., D-Latah; and John B. Thompson, D-Bonner.

House approves tumor registry

BOISE (UPI) — Despite contentions it amounts to socialization of bookkeeping and secretarial services for doctors, the house approved 56-4 Friday a bill to finance a central tumor registry.

The measure, which goes now to the senate, calls for a penny per carton tax on cigarettes. Floor sponsor John Edwards, R-Council, said "only $40,000 would be spent on the registry and any override would go to the general fund."

While the registry at present is supported by the Mountain States Regional Medical Program, Edwards said, that assistance will end after May 31 because of a cut in federal funds.

Rep. John Reardon, R-Boise, called the measure "necessary legislation," saying it is one of those rare cases "where an evil tree bears good fruit."

But he strongly criticized the federal government for creating a program and then backing out and making the states pick up the tab once it was started.

Rep. Wayne Loveless, D-Pocatello, said the measure simply would subsidize doctors without helping the patients. He said it amounts to socializing the bookkeeping and secretarial services for the medical profession.

Edwards agreed with Reardon that this was another program started by the federal government and then abandoned to the states but he said that was no reason to penalize cancer patients.

He disagreed with Loveless about subsidizing doctors. He said the tumor registry actually creates more work for doctors.

Spud tax set

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Agricultural Affairs Committee introduced the result of an interim study committee's work Friday, a proposed raise in the potato assessment to support advertising and promotion.

Hearings on this measure and another to allow purchase of surplus Idaho potatoes are scheduled at 2 p.m. Feb. 22.

To support the advertising program, the bill provides for a rise in the current 2 1/4 per cent per hundredweight assessment to five cents per hundredweight by 1975.

But twice during the graduated hikes the question would be submitted to growers in a referendum if 20 per cent of the eligible growers petition for the election.

Officers training to spot drivers

BOISE (UPI) — Twenty-six state policemen specially trained to observe habits of the drinking driver may be ready for duty in time for the July 4 holiday.

The "alcohol emphasis" patrolmen are an important phase of the Alcohol Safety Action Project in Idaho, traffic officials were told Thursday.

The program was discussed during the final session of the third annual conference of the Idaho Traffic Safety Coordinators' Association.

Governor vetoes hospital bill

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus vetoed Friday a bill relieving county hospitals from paying unemployment insurance for their employees and the house sustained his action.

To override a gubernatorial veto, requires two-thirds approval of both houses, beginning with house that originated the bill. The house managed to muster only a simple majority of 32-30 to pass the bill over the objections of the governor and the veto therefore was sustained.

In rejecting the bill, Andrus said that it would relieve county hospitals of the obligation while private enterprise medical facilities are required by law to pay the universal rate required of all private employers.

"I do not believe we should, by legislative act, create or foster further preferences in governmental institutions competitive position over free enterprise, religious and charitable institutions."

Hearing set about tax plans

BOISE (UPI) — A public hearing has been scheduled Feb. 25 on a proposed constitutional amendment to require classification of property for tax purposes as operating, residential, or non-operating.

The hearing will be in room 430 of the statehouse at 7 p.m. before the senate local government and taxation committee and the house revenue and taxation committee.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked for the constitutional change in an effort to relieve the tax burden on homeowners.

RETIREMENT ALLOWANCE

Some old water heaters seem to go forever, but really should be put to pasture as they lose their efficiency. To help you get a new 52-gallon electric—fast, clean, quiet, dependable and free of care—Idaho Power offers for a limited time a twenty-five dollar trade-in allowance. It's "the neater heater," using the clean energy another among the many ways electricity serves you best.

Rules for water heater retirement allowance:

1. $25 offer applies only to water heaters connected on Idaho Power lines and in operating condition.
2. A customer wishing the $25 allowance must call Idaho Power for an inspection of his present water heater. After inspection, a certificate will be issued. An inspection of the new water heater, installed, will be made before payment.
3. Purchase may be made through the plumber or dealer of your choice.
4. The $25 retirement allowance applies only on a new 52-gallon or larger, quick-recovery, flameless electric water heater purchase.
5. The offer is open from February 14th through March 10th, 1972. It is not open to Idaho Power customers in Oregon.

Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, tried unsuccessfully to get the committee to call in State Auditor Joe R. Williams for his estimate of the revenue outlook. He said Williams has been closer to being right about such matters during the past 10 years than anybody else.

Rep. Angus Condie, R-Preston, said Williams told him he felt the present general fund tax structure would produce $133.4 million the next fiscal year.

Clyde Koontz, former state tax collector, once a member of the State Tax Commission and now the commission's executive secretary, said a straight mathematical projection based on historical data indicates corporate income will be up the amount suggested by the subcommittee.

But Koontz made it clear he was strictly using a mathematical projection based on historical percentage increases in income.

Defenbach and Childberg, who disagree mainly on what a combination of lesser taxes will produce, said they would stick with a lower figure they earlier used in projecting corporate income, tax revenues.

Childberg and his assistant, Larry Seale, said they took economic factors into consideration in making their projections.

Public help approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved and sent to the House Friday a bill to authorize the attorney general to represent the public in any action involving the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

The bill was approved 25-8 despite questions over whether the measure would mean a conflict of interest for the attorney general.

Sen. William Crookham, R-Caldwell, said present law requires the attorney general to be the commission's legal representative and charges the commission to approve rates that will return a profit to the utilities involved.

But floor sponsor Vern Brassey, R-Boise, said if a conflict develops, the commission could hire a private attorney.

Brassey said there are times when the public needs someone to present their case to the PUC.

Bill amended

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Commerce and Labor Committee sent to the House Friday a bill to make it a misdemeanor to hire illegal aliens in Idaho.

Sen. William Crookham, R-Caldwell, said one of the changes would remove the presumption of guilt against the person who hired more than one illegal entrant.

Title guard OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved 24-0 and sent to the House Friday legislation to protect title holders who discover the title procedure was defective and the land belongs to another.

Sen. Herman McDevitt, D-Pocatello, said the complex legislation will protect the faulty title-holder as to any improvements he may have placed on the land under question.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said under the legislation someone who acquires title to a cabin site and erects a cabin — only to later discover the title procedure was defective — will be protected as to the value of the cabin placed on the land.

Ski area drinking approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate passed 16-14 today a measure it killed Feb. 14 which would allow liquor by the drink licenses to be granted to certain ski resorts.

Shortly afterward, Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grandview, served notice he may ask for reconsideration of the amended measure.

The legislation was killed 14-24, but placed in the amending order. The amended measure, which must go to the House for concurrence, requires eligible ski resorts must have accommodations for 100 rather than 50 people and gives county commissioners once the commissioner of law enforcement grant the license 15 days in which to approve or disapprove the licensing.

As originally written, the bill was intended to provide licensing for Bogus Basin, Shwitzer Basin and the planned Elkhorn development near Sun Valley.

The word textile comes from the Latin verb texere, meaning to weave.

Budget set

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved 25-7 Saturday a $416,031 budget for the Idaho Personnel Commission in fiscal year 1973, funding Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, said would make a "modern, efficient personnel system."

The budget, includes $446,255 from the dedicated fund and $167,776 from federal monies. High said the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee is discussing changes in the Personnel System Act which would provide for training, program coordination, strengthen the classification staff and strengthen the classification procedures.

Transfer approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate passed 27-5 and sent to the House today legislation to transfer $75,000 from the other current expense category to the salary and wages category of the Fish and Game Department.

Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, said the 1971 legislature cut the department's salaries and wages request about $500,000. He said unless the transfer was approved the department would have to lay off some of its permanent personnel.

Tax boost approved

BOISE (UPI) — A bill to increase the cigarette tax by one penny a carton to fund a state fire marshal's office in the Labor Department won House approval 31-9 and went to the Senate Saturday.

Rep. Karl Koch, D-Hammitt, said the measure would match the number-one cause of fires to a tax to fund fire inspection and investigation.

But a non-smoker, Rep. Wayne Tibbitts, D-Lorenzo, said he felt the bill was unfairly increasing the tax burden on those who smoke.

Tax hike shelves tot class

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee has tabled a voluntary kindergarten program because the program under the foundation formula would involve a tax increase.

Members of a committee task force indicated the program under the foundation formula of the public school income fund would cost over $3 million.

The committee did, however, endorse a House Education Committee proposal for current funding of the public schools. Instead of basing the funding on the previous year's average daily attendance.

Under the proposal, remote and necessary school districts of less than 100 elementary or secondary students would be designated by the state board of education and funded through special allowances.

Members said the proposal would strengthen and implement education of retarded and exceptional children.

T.F. County adopts cut budget

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners voted late Friday to adopt a $5.67 million budget for 1972, a reduction of $145,938 over the tentative budget announced two weeks ago.

Commissioners, following two days of public hearing, voted to cut out a $130,000 item for construction of a county nursing home and reduce planned jail reconstruction allocations by $15,978.

Members of the Tax Equality Assn. and interested taxpayers had asked for a $35,000 reduction in the jail remodeling, budget on grounds the work could not begin until late in the year and would require only part of the total $85,000 budget for the improvement.

The $130,000 reduction was in the poor fund aid which was budgeted in the event the county was able to go ahead with building of a nursing home to house indigent elderly nursing home patients. Eliminating the item from the budget has delayed construction for the year, commissioners said.

In other departments, county commissioners left budgeted items as shown in the tentative budget. Included in the overall increase this year is a five per cent salary increase for all county employees.

The $5.67 million figure compares with $4.94 million in the final 1971 budget. Included in the budget is $3.84 million for Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, all but $175,000 of which comes from hospital revenue. The $175,000 in tax revenue is earmarked for building improvements.

Solid waste is budgeted at $101,000 this year, compared to $75,000 in the budget, a year ago. County officials said they felt the full amount must be retained because of having to conform with state law concerning disposal of solid waste.

A complete new disposal system, including taking over the Twin Falls city sanitary landfill, may have to be carried out this year.

Still in question, pending the outcome of a legal suit is the $52,000 budgeted by the county for public health. The South-Central Idaho Health District had asked $69,000 and the county has declined to budget more than $52,000. A year ago the budget for public health was $34,118.

County Clerk Harold Lancaster said items in the final budget are still somewhat tentative in that monies budgeted but not needed are not levied for and thus not received as tax collections.

Water depth high

SHOSHONE — Magic reservoir contains 161,000 acre feet of water this week, compared to 133,000 a year ago on this date, Leon Grievie, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co., said Saturday.

The reservoir actually has more water in it for this time of year than has been recorded there in the 60 years of the reservoir's history. In 1966 it contained less but only because the gates had been opened in December and January to hold the water down.

Magic gates will be opened on or about Feb. 21 to lower this water level. There is 19 inches of ice on the reservoir, which could damage the spillway should water get too high.

The streamflow forecast is for 150 per cent of normal inflow into Magic or about 400 acre feet total inflow during the spring and summer. This forecast is subject to change depending on the weather.

Jerome budget up 9 per cent

BY CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Jerome County commissioners approved a budget of $488,417 in a special meeting Friday afternoon. The budget is 9.8 per cent higher than the 1971 budget of $444,895.

The approval of the 1972 budget was delayed several days when opposition was raised by several farmers at a budget hearing Monday to the county levy half a mill for the regional airport board.

County commissioners Monday decided to wait until they received an opinion from the attorney general's office on the authority of the interim regional airport board.

The opinion was received Thursday. It said that the board has the authority to levy a half mill against Jerome county and other counties which passed the authority at the last election.

The increase in this year's budget is due to several factors, according to Mrs. Ella McVey, county clerk. One item is an increase of $9,750 in the airport budget for the possible purchase of 15 acres of land for future expansion and other airport improvements.

The increase in the airport budget also met opposition Monday from James P. Kelly, Jerome, who thought the county was spending too much money on the airport for the benefit of only a few Jerome county residents.

Last year's budget at the airport was $3,050 and the 1972 airport budget is $12,800. Mrs. McVey said part of the money will be used to seal coat the runways this spring.

There is also a blanket salary increase of 5 per cent for county employees in the budget.

An increase of $3,421 is indicated in the prosecuting attorney's budget for a total of $14,150. The Prosecuting Attorney's budget also came under fire by Kelly at the hearing. Kelly said he felt the prosecuting attorney should be located in the county court house so he would be available to the public at all times. He also questioned the amount spent for a secretary for the prosecuting attorney.

Mrs. McVey said $5,200 was added to this year's budget to pay the cost of filming records at the court house.

Because of the new state law placing board of health funding on a per capita basis rather than on property valuation, an increase of $5,322 is in this year's health district budget, for a total of $21,923 as compared to $16,601 in 1971.

Lincoln valuation increases

SHOSHONE — Assessed valuation of all personal and real property in Lincoln County in 1971 was $7,893 million, up almost $600,000 from the year before.

Total assessed valuation for all real and personal property in the county was $7,301 million in 1970, according to figures released by Mrs. Leon Pagoga, deputy county clerk.

Taxes receivable in 1971 from all assessed properties totaled $688,939.45, an increase of $39,101 from $649,838.45 in taxes receivable in 1970.

Assessed valuation of all Lincoln County real property in 1971 was $7,768 million, compared with $7,145 million in 1970. That is an increase of $622,100, due in part to the reappraisal of property being carried out within the county but not yet completed.

Properties on farm rolls in 1971 were assessed at $2,661 million, compared with $2,834 million in 1970. Properties in towns in 1971 were assessed at $824,729 in 1971, up from $691,605 in 1970. Corporation properties were assessed at $1,281 million in 1971, an increase from $1,069 million in 1970.

Personal properties were assessed at $125,457 in 1971, a decrease from $155,557 in 1970.

In Shoshone, the assessed value of properties other than mobile homes was placed at $207,042 in 1971, an increase of $162,512 from the 1970 assessment of $144,530. Some of that increase in valuation is attributed to the reappraisal of real property which has been almost completed in Shoshone.

Mrs. Claude Chess, city clerk, said taxes receivable on real property in 1971 amounted to $35,185.86, compared to $33,512 in 1970.

Assessed valuation of mobile homes in Shoshone was placed at $4,912 in 1971, generating taxes of $207.41. Valuation of mobile homes in Shoshone in 1970 was $3,206, generating taxes of $203.01.

Shoshone slates assessment meet

SHOSHONE — The Needs Assessment Program of the Shoshone School will feature a special public meeting at 8 p.m. on March 27, Supr. Kenneth Crothers said Saturday.

Dr. Terry Armstrong, a professor in education at the University of Idaho, Moscow, will be the principal speaker.

He will be working in sessions with junior high and high school students at 9 a.m. that day, then will meet with the public at the evening meeting at the high school building.

The concerns committee of the needs assessment program is sponsoring the meetings, all a part of the current evaluation of the school system being carried out between now and the end of school.

Miss Idaho

TWIN FALLS — Karen Herd, present Miss Idaho, will be aboard the Hughes Airwest jetliner scheduled to land in Twin Falls Tuesday, re-establishing limited air service here.

The plane is scheduled to arrive at 1:47 p.m. from Salt Lake City. It will be the first Airwest service here since Dec. 15, when the mechanic's strike shut down the line's service to Idaho.

Miss Herd, of Idaho Falls, is serving as vacation coordinator for Idaho for the airline.

Gooding holds Hereford show

GOODING — John Hayes, Rockland, was elected president of the Idaho Hereford Breeders association Friday night at the Lincoln Inn.

Other officers named include Irvi Harrop, Rigby, vice president, and Otto Wagner, Nampa, secretary-treasurer.

Awards for the grand champion bull went to Ernest Olsen and sons, Logan, Utah. The reserve champion bull is owned by Naugle Herefords, Nampa.

The champion heifer sold for $410 to John Bryan, Gooding. The reserve champion heifer sold for $540 to Don Franz, American Falls. Seven heifers were sold, averaging $328, Wagner, said.

He said there were 91 bulls sold for a total of $67,830, with an average price of $740 per bull.

The champion heifer trophy was presented to Fisher Herefords, Salmon, with reserve champion heifer owned by Ernest Olson and sons, Logan. The get-of-sire award went to Naugle Herefords.

Top bull at the sale Saturday at the Gooding Fairgrounds brought $2,500. He was consigned by Wallace Hayes, Rockland, and purchased by the Idaho Hereford Ranch, Gooding.

The champion bull consigned by Olsen and sons, Logan, brought $1,300 from the Idaho Hereford Ranch, and the reserve champion bull was sold for $1,450 to U. X. Livestock, Ruby Valley, Nev.

The high selling heifer, owned by Naugle Herefords, brought $800. It was purchased by Richard Clark, Boise.

Minidoka board to meet faculty

RUPERT — Trustees of the Minidoka County School District will confer with faculty representatives Monday evening in a negotiation session.

Keal Severe, president of the Minidoka County Education Association, spokesman for the teachers, said the negotiation session will work toward agreement on the procedures to be followed in later bargaining over wages and working conditions.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the school offices, and will be open to the public, according to Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent of schools.

Developer sued

BOISE — Brennan Const. Co., Pocatello, is suing the developer of the Turpewar plant at Jerome for more than $80,000.

Defendant in the action filed in federal district court here is Dart Industries, Inc. The construction firm asked in its petition that the case be heard in Pocatello. The defendant has been given 20 days to file an answer to the petition.

The complaint asked for recovery of $85,357 on an allegation that required excavation work was not in the plans for the plant. Also sought is an award of $14,772 allegedly owed for services performed by the construction company.

Wood River group sets Friday meet

SHOSHONE — The annual meeting of the Wood River Resource Association will be at 8 p.m. Friday, at the Lincoln County Court House.

Don Fredericksen, Gooding, chairman, said officers will be elected.

Lincoln, Blaine, Camas and Gooding counties are represented in the Council, along with county commissioners, county planning commissions, soil conservation districts and 12 towns in the four counties.

North Side meet called

SHOSHONE — North Side Communities, Inc., will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Manhattan Cafe, Shoshone.

After the dinner, L.R. Simpson, Shoshone, a state patrolman, will present a special program.

Kenneth Blackburn, Shoshone, program chairman, said the topic of Patrolman Simpson's talk will be of interest to all delegates.

Bids asked

SHOSHONE — Shoshone Highway District No. 2 has issued a call for bids for a 1972 three-quarter ton pickup.

The bids will be received until 7:30 p.m. March 2 by secretary-treasurer of the district, R.W. Grove.

American party hopeful in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — The American two-party political system is "decadent," Richard Kay, American Party Presidential candidate, said Saturday night in Twin Falls.

Kay, a Cleveland, Ohio, attorney and the only American Party candidate for President, is running on a strong anti-Nixon platform, charging the President with "immorality, dishonesty and deceitfulness," among other failings.

Kay also bemoans the "mass media press" is working to "decieve the American people," whether deliberately or unconsciously. As one of two civilian attorneys who volunteered to join the defense team with news slanting by the press, he said in an interview with the Times-News.

Using Newsweek Magazine as a prime example, Kay said a newsmen asked L. Calley to pose for a photograph "typical of all American military men."

Nixon's trip to Red China is a thinly disguised move to unite China and Communist Russia, and will do just that — draw the would be enemies of the Communist world much closer together, Kay charged. The trip can serve no useful purpose for America, he insists.

Nixon has also made the prisoner of war issue a "major issue of his campaign" in order to distract the American public from the 50,000 dead, the many hundreds of thousands of wounded, and the many young men in our veterans' hospitals.

By contrast, Kay pointed out, a Newsweek cover a few months later of Red Chinese Premier Chou En Lai carried

Kay is visiting a number of Handouts "swinging 180 degrees" in his political affiliations — he was national vice president of the Wendell Wilkie Youth Campaign in 1940, and worked as field organizer for Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon in 1952.

Carl Richard Kay is elected President of the United States? "I believe in miracles," he says confidently. "If I can gain the nomination of my party at the national convention, I know the American people are getting fed up with the decadence of the two-party system."

Just might become president, Kay said in Twin Falls on Saturday afternoon.

BUHL — Four Buhl area men were honored Saturday evening during the annual Distinguished Service Awards dinner of the Buhl Jaycees.

Jennings Pierce, Castleford, and Richard Bencken, Buhl were cited for their community service as the senior and junior DSA winners. John Efsunsa, Castleford, was named Outstanding Young Farmer and Ralph Hatch, coach and science teacher at Castleford High School, was named Outstanding Young Educator.

Met Miller, Payette, Idaho Jaycee programming vice president, was guest speaker for the event. He discussed the attitudes parents pass on to their children during the children's formative years.

He said the Jaycee creed has many of the attitudes that should be passed on to children such as "faith in God, the brotherhood of man, freedom through free enterprise, government of laws rather than of men, that earth's greatest treasure lies in human personality and that service to humanity is the best work of life."

Thoe Pence, mayor of Buhl, spoke briefly on the need for communication between the residents of Buhl and the city council. Ken Patterson, Buhl Chamber of Commerce president, called for support of the Jaycee sponsored Sagebrush Days celebration in July and invited the "exhausted rooster" Jaycees to join the chamber.

Pierce, nominated by the Castleford Men's Club, was instrumental in the formation of the Balanced Rock Park and served as publicity chairman for the park's dedication.

He is a trustee of the Castleford Baptist church, serves on the board of directors of the Buhl Kiwanis club and is publicity chairman for the Twin Falls County Resource Planning and Development sub-committee. He also served as president of the chamber of commerce and Kiwanis club in Medford, Ore.

Nominated by the Buhl Jaycees, Bencken has served in nearly every Jaycee office. He is a board member of the Buhl First Christian church and secretary of the minister's official board. He serves as Cub Scout pack leader for Pack 4 and is an assistant coach for the Pee Wee baseball team. He is currently serving as chairman of the Jaycees and Sagebrush Days committee.

The Outstanding Young Farmer award is the second award for Efsunsa, who last year was named junior DSA winner. He farms 520 acres south of Castleford, growing row-crops and livestock. He is a graduate of the University of Idaho, majoring in agriculture economics.

Hatch has been with the Castleford school district since 1965. He graduated from the University of Idaho in 1960 majoring in physical education and minor in biological science and psychology. He is a member of the Castleford Men's Club and the Masonic lodge. He resides on an 80 acre farm where he raises registered Angus cattle.

General chairman for the awards dinner was Mike Thomas who also served as master of ceremonies. Calvin Wilber served as OYS chairman, Larry Bencken, OYS chairman and Marvin Lively, junior and senior DSA chairman.

The Green Thumb

by George Abraham

Up until recently, home gardeners have had one big problem, diseases of vegetables for which there was no practical control.

Growing crops in the same backyard year after year has built up soil-borne diseases so bad that it's been impossible to grow items such as tomatoes, cucumbers, etc. The picture has changed today.

Plant breeders have been putting emphasis on disease resistance instead of on size, quality, flavor or growth habit. A disease resistant variety is worth selection. When you order seeds from the catalog be sure to see if they are listed as disease resistant. Varieties that are resistant have long with their names the letters VFN.

These letters mean the plant is resistant to Verticillium wilt, or Fusarium or Nematodes. These are troubles for which there is no chemical control.

If you've been having trouble with cucumbers, try the new "All-Female" hybrids such as Concorde or Victory. These varieties tolerate powdery and downy mildew, scab, and mosaic, and they also have some tolerance to leaf spot and anthracnose.

Southern corn leaf blight has had a lot of publicity the past two years but hasn't been serious in the home garden. Yet, if you want to beat this blight, grow Silver Queen, not only resistance, but also highly delicious. It's a white corn, rather late. Incidentally, if you've never eaten a "white" corn, try a few rows of Silver Queen.

(GROW HERBS-NEPEL) MOTHS: Rosemary? Rosmarinus officinalis is an easy herb to grow. It's supposed to bring good luck and also to have disinfectant properties. Fresh, dried and frozen leaves are used for flavoring. Here's a recipe for an excellent moth repellent: 1 lb. rosemary, 1 lb. mint, 1 lb. tansy, and 1 lb. thyme. All are dried, and mixed with 1 tablespoon of ground fresh cloves. Store in airtight containers. Scatter among woolens to repel moths.

HOME GROWN GRAPEFRUIT TREE: It's easy to start a grapefruit from seed stuck in a pot of soil. The real problem comes when the shoot gets a couple feet tall and has no leaves on the middle. Pinch the tip out to induce leaves to form on the middle stem.

SAVE-NEWSPAPERS! Here's another good use for old newspapers. "Roll and twist about five thicknesses of papers, then soak in water thoroughly and drain. Store them a while before using so they won't be soaking wet. They make a very hot fire for fireplaces or outdoor grills, and no fly ash to worry about. They are just like kindling wood for cottages, etc."

Good tip: Any more uses for old newspapers? Please send them along.

FREEZING TOMATOES-AGAIN: A reader writes: "I don't agree with your method for home freezing of tomatoes. The best way is to scald, and peel and cut in quarters. Add no water and let come to full rolling boil. Let set in pan till stone cold. Now pack in ice cream containers, leaving 1 inch room at the top. Put cover on and place in deep freeze. They will keep a year or more and are delicious. I've done this way for years."

GREEN THUMB NOTE: Thanks for your tip. We'll try this trick in autumn. Hope more people will continue to send me their tips. We get some good ones.

GREEN THUMB NEEDS HELP: A reader asks for information on a "Ki-Wi" plant. Can some one give me the botanical name for this so we can carry it in the column? Sorry I've never heard of a "Ki-Wi" plant.

GARDEN FINE FOR YOUTH: A clergyman writes: "Your garden columns provide food for thought. Yes, the natural desire of youth for adventure and new experience can truly be satisfied by intelligent, devoted gardening, and without the tragic results of drug abuse."

Youngsters learn many things in gardening. There is therapeutic value in handling the soil. A high schooler can get an education in studying the chemistry of dirt in the botany of seed and growing plants, in the satisfaction of fresh vegetables and fruits, in the business of marketing.

Last week a family in our church brought us several home-grown tomato plants. The two half-grown sons had started them. Those boys are going to grow a garden of tomatoes to sell in late summer. They radiated health, optimism, personality and character; and they are developing those qualities through digging in the dirt. They are learning self-discipline by careful planning and hard work. I predict a successful future for those lads, and for their sister, who grows flowers.

"Whether a family lives in town or country, a small garden plot for each boy and girl, carefully tended in spring and summer, can provide a wholesome education that cannot be matched in any other way. My gardening education began at the age of 8. Today at 73, I'm still at it, and still learning."

QUESTION: Do we need a better reason for getting young people interested in gardening? Get your children to join our giant pumpkin contest. I'll send you a package of free pumpkin seeds, made available through the kindness of the Men's Garden Club of America. Just send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for your package. It's better that your son reaches for a hoe now rather than a gun later.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. R. of Alameda: "We have a Red Delicious apple tree which produces a good crop each year. Last fall most of the apples had a brown spot inside, and they are hard and bitter. Is something missing in the soil?"

I think your trouble is due to bitter pit (also called "stippin"), a physiological trouble. That is, it's due to internal water stresses inside the apple fruit itself, and has nothing to do with the soil. Certain varieties are susceptible, including Baldwin, York Imperial, Northern Spy and your Red Delicious. McIntosh and Golden Delicious almost never get it. In fact, the disease is sometimes called "Baldwin spot."

CONTROL: Not much. Fruits on young trees are more apt to have the bitter, corky spots than the same variety on old trees. Other factors which enhance bitter pit are heavy nitrogen feeding, large fruits, harvested immature, excessive shading, heavy pruning, ringing, heavy late summer rains and a low humidity in storage.

The bitter pits are embedded in the flesh, just beneath the skin, and are often more prominent on the bottom half than on the top half of the fruit.

If your apples have long lines of brown streaks throughout the flesh, it's the work of the apple maggot, ("railroad worm"). Control: Spray with all purpose pesticide in early summer.

C.F. of Rockland: "We cut our own Christmas tree this year and as the pine cones opened, the living room carpet was covered with winged seeds. My ten-year old son would like to know if these would grow into good pine trees if the seed were started indoors. What care do they need?"

Yes, they'll grow into fine firs. Keep seeds in your refrigerator a couple months, then sow seed outdoors. Many gardeners gather the seed in fall and store in glass jars (not sealed tight) until spring when seed can be sown in a half and half mixture of sand and peat moss.

Keep the seeded well watered for first four to six weeks while seeds are germinating. A dry spell is apt to be fatal to tender seedlings. The above directions apply to all evergreens.

Most seeds will produce plants similar to the parent, except the blue spruce. Seed from the spruce will produce a good share of plants with a "muddy" or green looking foliage.

Mind Your Money

By PETER WEAVER

"Except for persons with special medical needs," says the Food and Drug Administration, "there is no scientific basis for recommending routine use of dietary supplements (vitamins and minerals)."

This means that most of us get enough nutrition in our daily diets and don't need vitamin pills to maintain good health. Still, FDA readily admits, there are special situations where persons with special needs should take vitamin supplements on a daily basis.

Let's take a look at the kind of people nutritionists feel are often in need of vitamin supplements:

CHILDREN: How do you know if your child needs vitamins? "Have the child's diet and physical condition analyzed by your pediatrician," says Dr. Jay Arena, president of the American Academy of Pediatrics. Usually, if a child is eating well and getting plenty of vitamin D fortified milk, there's no need for extra vitamins.

The danger periods, according to Dr. Arena, are "the explosive growth stages." These run from infancy to ages 3 or 4 and from around 12 on through the teens. Teen-age girls with poor eating habits are usually deficient in iron, calcium, vitamin C and other nutrients.

They should drink more fortified milk, eat more vegetables and fruit and eat iron-enriched bread. If you can't get a teenage daughter off snacks, sweets and carbonated drinks, you have to resort to supplemental vitamins.

Infants need adequate amounts of vitamins A, D and C. If they're not eating well or can't take enough milk, supplements may be, in order. Infants who breast feed may need extra vitamin D and babies on canned formula might get colic because vitamin B6 is burned off during the sterilizing process.

Clouds, rain may dampen Valley

Twin Falls and vicinity: North Side, Burley-Rupert area: Cloudy today and tonight with a chance of scattered showers; cooler; partly cloudy Monday. High today 42 to 52; low tonight 25 to 35; high Monday 38 to 48. Chance of precipitation 20 per cent tonight and 30 per cent Monday.

Camas Prairie, Halley and Lower Wood River Valley: Cloudy today and tonight with a chance of showers by afternoon; partly cloudy Monday; cooler. Snow level 7,000 feet elevation. High today 35 to 45; low tonight 20 to 20, and high Monday in the 30s. Central Idaho mountains, south of the Salmon River: Cloudy today and tonight with scattered snow showers likely; partly cloudy Monday, with a chance of a few snow showers and cooler. High today in the 30s; low tonight 10 to 20; high Monday 25 to 35.

Weather synopsis: The ridge of high pressure aloft moved eastward Saturday from Southern Idaho, urged aside by an incoming frontal system moving in from Washington and Oregon which will bring increasing cloudiness with a chance of widely scattered snow showers over the mountains and rain showers over the valleys. Saturday's temperatures were springlike over most of the area, ranging from the lower 60s in the west down to the 50s in the eastern portions. Boise's high of 61 was the warmest for the year. The extended outlook for Tuesday through Thursday calls for a chance of rain on Tuesday, with scattered rain or snow showers Wednesday and Thursday, and with a cooling trend.

'Don'ts' important to job seeker

NEW YORK (UPI)—In looking for a good job, the "don'ts" are more important than the "do's," the author of a new book on the subject said today.

Richard A. Payne of Princeton, N.J., is the author of "How to Get a Better Job Quicker" (Taplinger, New York $5.95) and also conducts classes in various cities on sophisticated job hunting. He enrolls around 20 persons in a class and charges them $60 to $75 for services for which he says some career counselors ask as much as $3,000.

Since resumes are the obligatory way of finding a job opening in most businesses, Payne says a good resume is equally obligatory and right there is where the don'ts become vitally important. Here are the don'ts he lists——Don't attach a photo to your resume. A photo just gives the employer another reason to toss your resume aside. He's no longer curious about what you look like.

—Don't state your salary objective, let the employer try to guess. Of course, if you're applying to a job-finding agency, you may have to state your salary aim.

—Don't reveal your current salary. Keep 'em guessing about that as long as you can.

—Don't list your references. It may subject them to annoyance. Also it's better to pinpoint references for a specific job after you get a nibble.

—Don't list all your previous jobs and everything you can do.

—Don't give your age.

—If you're black or belong to some other minority, don't mention the fact in the resume.

—Don't include much personal data in a resume for general mailing.

The do's, Payne said, are simple: Concentrate on a single stated job objective and devote 40 per cent of the rest of the resume to your present job and your achievements in it.

In other words: lead from your strengths. Don't mention any possible weaknesses and regard everything else as only marginally relevant. Your job is to stir any employer's curiosity. Once that's accomplished, the tactics to win down the job can be executed.

Red Steer earnings, sales up

BOISE — Sales and earnings in 1971 set records for Red Steer Drive Inn, Inc., company officials said Friday.

Sales in 1971 were $3.39 million, up from $2.79 million in 1970. Net income, after taxes was $155,600, an increase of 49 per cent over $104,300 in 1970. Earnings increased to 8.5 cents a share, a rise of 54 per cent.

Company officials said five new restaurants were added in 1971 and from three to seven units are planned in 1972.

The firm operates 18 take-home restaurants in Idaho, Nevada, Washington, and Oregon and 7 Kentucky Fried Chicken franchised restaurants in Idaho and Oregon.

Tax firm big gainer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Death and taxes, it is said, are inevitable.

Had investors considered that inevitability 10 years ago and put $10,000 into H-R Block, Inc. stock (NYSE) they would be millionaires today.

Growth of the income tax service company has been one of the Wall Street success stories of recent years.

Figuring splits which come to 15-to-1 over that period and dividends, $10,000 in H-R Block stock bought at the high 10 years ago would be worth $1.45 million today. Bought in at the low that year the stock would be worth $1.57 million; a fantastic 150 per cent annual increase.

Such growth is even more remarkable when you consider that the Kansas City-based company produces only about 105 days of the year, when Americans are worrying over tax bills.

Henry and Richard Bloch (the last name spelling was changed for easier corporate recognition) have come a long way since 1946 when they opened United Business Company, a bookkeeping service. Individual tax return preparations were thrown in free then as a customer courtesy.

The Blochs eventually learned there was more interest and profit in tax returns. In 1955, they dropped bookkeeping to deal solely in tax returns and changed the company name to the present one. They took in $20,500 from one office that first year.

In 1971, the company prepared tax returns for 6.98 million Americans, or about 8.2 of all those returning tax forms. It had 5,284 offices in the United States, Canada, Guam, New Zealand, Puerto Rico and West Germany. This year it works out of 6,000 offices, including several in Australia.

Last year H-R Block earned $8.9 million, up more than $2 million or 37.6 per cent over 1970.

Brother Dick handles people: Henry, the business mind of this dynamic duo, is reserved, conservative and direct.

It was Henry Bloch who called the 1969 Tax Reform Act the biggest hoax Congress ever pulled on the American people. That was in connection with statements that the act would simplify the tax laws.

He spoke just as loudly a few months ago when Johnnie M. Walters, commissioner of the Internal Revenue Department, said that this year's 1040 form was so simple "Your daughter in the fifth grade could fill it out."

"An enterprising reporter queried a fifth grade class, Henry noted, and the pupils didn't know what taxes were all about let alone the first thing about filling out a 1040."

Top issues slated by Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court returns Tuesday from a four-week recess to hear arguments on issues of national security, including the sanctity of a reporter's confidential news sources and unrestricted government wiretapping in the name of national security.

The court, now up to full strength with nine justices, had been saying some of these cases because of two earlier vacancies. One died Jan. 7 by Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist. Some cases heard in January may be decided Tuesday. The court also will catch up on a backlog of petitions for review with announcements about which new cases it will hear.

The justices will call up three cases Tuesday testing whether journalists can be subpoenaed to testify before grand juries about information they received in confidence from their news sources. The cases involve Earl Caldwell, a New York Times reporter in San Francisco; Paul H. Hunter, a Louisville Courier-Journal and Post-Copias, a newsman-camera-man for WTVF-TV, New Bedford, Mass.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a precedent-setting decision in the Caldwell case, held that a reporter need not appear before a grand jury if the public's First Amendment right to be informed would be jeopardized, unless the government shows "a compelling need" for his presence. The Justice Department appealed. In the other two cases, the Kentucky Court of Appeals and the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court ruled the other way. The Kentucky court said the grand jury itself is "a bulwark of freedom specifically recognized in the U.S. Constitution" and is "deeply embedded in the philosophy of human rights."

Later in the week, the court will weigh the Justice Department's claim it should have blanket authority to engage in electronic eavesdropping without court authority in any situation where the national security demands it, including threats from domestic as well as foreign subversives.

Analysis

The department under President Nixon has insisted that what it calls the government's right of self-defense must prevail over the individual's right to privacy.

One of several civil rights cases before the court concerns the right of private clubs, specifically Moose Lodge No. 107 of Harrisburg, Pa., to exclude blacks and still carry a state liquor license. The Constitution prohibits states from discrimination on account of race. Moose lodges specify white membership.

Another pair of appeals involve school districts in North Carolina and Virginia which were split so that in-town white children had an improved numerical advantage in enrollment over blacks.

Federal district courts refused to go along with the newly created districts in Scotland Neck, N.C., and Emporia, Va. But the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the lower courts in both cases on the ground that the "primary purpose" of the new alignment was to end segregation.

The votes of Powell and Rehnquist will be watched with interest between now and the end of the 1971-72 term in June in view of predictions that in civil liberties cases they will line up solidly with Nixon's two other appointees, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun. Both are conservatives in this legal area, particularly in criminal cases. Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White were likely to vote with the conservative wing when Earl Warren was chief justice.

The Warren court's liberal bloc is now reduced to three—Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.

Keeping warm takes effort

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Sherman Day has received word from her son-in-law and daughter in England. Airman J.C. and Mrs. Ronald Dennis, concerning problems of the coal miners strike.

Mrs. Day said her daughter, Carol Ann, and the couple's two small children are able to keep warm by means of a paraffin stove furnished by the air base at Woodbridge, England, where they live. Many others in England are going without heat and cooking fuel, Mrs. Dennis said.

As for cooking, the families cook as much as possible during the three days per week they are allowed gas or electricity and eat cold food the remaining four days. Airman Dennis has been in England since last February and his family since June.

He is a graduate of the Bush High School and of CSI with the first graduating class. Airman Dennis is the son of Mrs. Monte Dennis, Buhl.

Mrs. Dennis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Day and a graduate of the Twin Falls High School. She works as a beauty operator at the airbase in Woodbridge.

The Merry Pet

By LINDA MERRY, D.V.M.

Question: Our German Shepherd recently had nine puppies. She doesn't seem to have much milk and I'm worried she can't take care of them all. Would it hurt to feed them some milk with an eye-dropper?

Answer: It won't hurt if you're talking about dog's milk. If you were thinking of popping open a carton of good old homogenized, pasteurized, cow's milk — don't. Over 10 years ago studies showed that feeding a puppy cow's milk stops his growth for a week.

Cow's and bitch's milk are about as different as calves and puppies. Cow's milk has too much sugar and not enough protein or fat for a puppy.

You can convert cow's milk into a suitable puppy formula in several ways. The easiest is probably to take one cup (8 oz.) of the top portion of non-homogenized, unshaken, pasteurized egg's milk and add the yolk of one large egg.

If you can't find unhomogenized milk, you may use 4 ounces evaporated milk, 4 ounces water, one egg yolk, 0.5 ounce corn syrup, halibut liver oil, and thiamine HCl (1 mg.).

If you and Julia Child are buddies you can get out your beater and whip up 27 ounces whole cow's milk, 6 1/2 ounces cream, one egg yolk, 1 heaping teaspoonful of white, steamed bone meal, 3,000 units of Vitamin A, 500 units vitamin D, and 1 small teaspoonful of citric acid.

If, however, you think feeding the formula to the pups every three hours is enough of a sacrifice (without producing it, yet), you can take the simplest and best way out.

You can buy commercially produced bitch's milk substitutes in powder or liquid reasonably. Carnation and Borden both put out excellent products called Orphalab and Eablab. These closely approximate bitch's milk, don't stop growth, won't cause colic if the pups take half their meals from your bill of fare and half from Momma dog, and are not unduly expensive.

Tracks kept warm

UNION Pacific Railroad Depot appears deserted, but tracks in front are still busy with between 28 and 35 freight trains going through Shoshone each day.

SHOSHONE — The Union Pacific Depot at Shoshone may look deserted and empty, but the tracks in front are still running through Idaho, but "those railroad tracks running through Shoshone are still kept pretty warm with traffic," says Dennis Everett, railroad agent.

With this statement Everett calls for the public to be aware of the traffic hazard and danger of a train-auto (or truck) collision at the railroad crossings. He said he observes way too many motorists having "close calls" with the freight trains that go by the tracks in Shoshone lately.

Maybe the fact that people know there are no longer passenger trains, they assume there is no need to observe the safety precaution of watching for trains approaching the intersections. The engine on the freight alone weighs about 200 tons and they are pulling between four and eight tons, at a speed of 35 miles an hour through town. He said it takes an average freight only three minutes to go past the Shoshone depot, so the driving public should realize that it is virtually impossible for the train engineers to stop for a car or truck on the tracks. Between 28 and 35 freight trains go through Shoshone during the average 24-hour period, Everett said. Stock and wheat are main products loaded here, only one stop in Shoshone besides the local switch engine, but all are on proper business and the driving public should be very alert to the possibility of the train-car collision and its results, Everett points out.

Half-lit

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Half the men and women in the world over the age of 18 are illiterate, according to an international trade-union official.

Vijendra Kabra, an official of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, told a seminar here there are 750 million adults in the world who cannot read and write.

Census report notes how students differ

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Freshmen and sophomores attending four-year colleges and those going to one of the increasing number of two-year colleges may look alike as they go to and from class — but a report issued today by the Bureau of the Census shows that they differ in many respects.

The bureau is a part of the Commerce, Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

The report notes that students at two-year colleges are twice as likely to be 20 years old or over; twice as likely to be married; almost three times as likely to be attending classes on a part-time basis; and more than twice as likely to live in the west.

Based on a national survey, the report says 6.3 million students were undergraduates in October, 1970. 1.7 million (27 per cent) were enrolled in two-year colleges, and 2.2 million (36 per cent) were in their freshman or sophomore years at four-year schools. The report compares social and economic characteristics of these two groups of students and arrives at these findings:

— 47 per cent of the two-year college students were 20 years old or over, compared with 23 per cent of freshmen and sophomores at four-year colleges.

— 30 per cent attended classes part-time, compared with 11 per cent in four-year schools.

— 23 per cent were married, compared with 11 per cent in four-year programs.

— 45 per cent were from suburbs of metropolitan areas, compared with 37 per cent of students at four-year colleges.

— 34 per cent lived in the west, compared with only 14 per cent of the four-year students.

— 92 per cent attended public-supported schools compared with 73 per cent of four-year college students.

— 15 per cent of the two-year students came from families in which the head of the family had completed college, compared with 28 per cent of the students in the first two years of a four-year college.

Copies of the report, "Undergraduate Enrollment in Two-Year and Four-Year Colleges: October 1970," Series P-26, No. 231, are available for 30 cents each from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, or from Commerce Department field offices in major U. S. cities.

Years treat man lightly

BY MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times News writer

CLOVER — The years sit lightly on Jens Lassen, pioneer Clover farmer, who recently turned 85. Many of his closest friends insist he hasn't changed at all the last years and looks just as he did 30 years ago.

Lassen was born in Denmark and in 1910, as a young man of 23, came to the United States. "It was everyone's dream to come to America and I am glad I did. I have never wanted to go back to Denmark except for short visits," he said.

Upon his arrival in the United States, Mr. Lassen settled with relatives in Deshler, Neb. In 1915 he came to Idaho because, he said, of the many stories of the "fabulous Western farmland." He arrived in the Clover area shortly after the first nine Nebraskan families who had chartered an entire train to bring their livestock, machinery and household possessions to their new homes.

Lassen worked initially as a farmhand. He recalls how, during an influenza epidemic, he contracted the deadly typhoid fever, greatly feared since there were no antibiotics to combat it. He recovered from the disease in time to greet his fiancée, Hulda Kleunder, who arrived from Nebraska for the couple's Sept. 24 wedding.

The young couple was the first to be married in the Clover community. Their wedding took place in the small school house which then served as both school and church.

Lassen says he can recall when the town of Clover was laid out with the mile-long main street named "Nebraska Boulevard." A large hotel was built by the High Line Seed Farms, later to become the Clover store which served the community for years until it was destroyed by fire a number of years ago.

The people had high hopes for the little town of Clover and even envisioned street cars on the streets. However, due to the proximity of Buhl and Filer it never grew beyond a small country village.

The farming land proved to be all the people had expected of it though, and Lassen recalls in the early years when he raised contract beans which made 50 bushels to the acre.

He helped a local ice concern store ice in the winter, and remembers several winters that were so mild that the ice never froze hard enough to be cut up for use. All the water for farmhouse use had to be dipped by long-handled pails from the canals, poured into large tanks and then emptied into the farm cisterns. One day Lassen drove to town and purchased five dollars worth of lumber. He built a long wooden flume from a head gate in the canal and the gravity brought the water down to fill his tank, thus eliminating the tedious hand-dipping.

Mrs. Lassen died in 1947, and shortly afterwards her husband moved from their large farm house into a smaller house on the farm of his son, Raymond Lassen. He still does his own housekeeping and cooking, and during the summer, assists with some of the irrigating in the fields.

Four of his six children still live in the area. Norbert Lassen, Twin Falls, operates a farm machinery store. Vernon Lassen and Raymond Lassen both farm in the Clover area, and a daughter, Mrs. John Ortel, her husband and family, live near Filer. Two other daughters, Mrs. Lucille Latta, Independence, Mo., and Mrs. Dorothy Schwarz, Sweet Home, Ore., visited their father this winter. He has 15 grandchildren and one great grandson.

The U.S. Office of Education estimates there are 7 million children in America with handicaps that prevent them from learning.

TF businessman named outstanding representative for 3-state area

TWIN FALLS Max I. Brown, Twin Falls, has been named 1971 American-Bankers Man of the Year, an outstanding representative in Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

The Twin Falls businessman, who also maintains an office in Boise and will soon transfer his headquarters there, was honored by the American Bankers Life Assurance Co. of Florida in an award dinner in Salt Lake City Saturday night. The presentation was made by John P. Walsh, executive vice president of the company.

Brown received the award for producing more new accounts for the company of any of the firm's representatives in the three state area. This was his first year with the company. He joined the firm Jan. 1, 1971.

Only police and soldiers are allowed to carry guns in the Arabian country of Yemen.

Twin Falls 733-3811

Groves lifts T.F. past Skyline in overtime

Darrell Groves, the only senior starter for Twin Falls, this year, bowed out by hitting a rare four-point play to throw the game into a tie, and then swished a 25-footer with four seconds remaining in overtime to lift the Bruins past the Skyline Grizzlies 61-50 Saturday night.

Groves made his biggest play with Twin Falls down by four and 25 seconds left in regulation game. He made a steal, drove for a triple, and then was topped afterward by a Skyline defender. Groves appeared to have injured his ankle but after a timeout, stepped to the line and dropped in both free throws. Skyline missed its last chance and Twin Falls' last-second shot never had a chance.

In overtime, McGinnis scored first to put Skyline ahead, but Landy Haynes tied it with a long set shot with 1:51 remaining. The teams traded turnovers and missed shots over the next few seconds with Twin Falls getting the ball — and calling time out with 13 seconds left. After three passes around the Skyline zone, Groves decided to...

It was a weird ball game with Skyline, ripe for a heavy drubbing in the early going but Twin Falls losing its cool over the first six minutes of the second quarter and failing to take advantage. In the second half Skyline felt behind 29-15 a minute and one-half into the third quarter, then rode the scoring of Mike Palmer back.

Over a 12-minute span, Twin Falls hit only six points, and Skyline caught up at 37-all and went ahead on two Palmer free throws. Steve Chapman then got Twin Falls going with a short jumper and Groves and Kent Schmidt chimed in with quick field goals. But Palmer then came up with six straight points to give Skyline a 45-43 lead with 1:44 left and it appeared about out of reach when Peterson drilled two free throws.

Skyline then controlled the ball for over a minute before Groves came up with his big play.

Friday night Twin Falls fell behind in the second quarter and never was able to overhaul Pocatello in bowing 77-68. The Bruins started within three points at 24-21 midway through the second before the Indians, paced by Gene Sanders, coming off a one-game disciplinary suspension, waxed hot and along with Dave Cernock pushed Pocatello ahead by 12 points. The Indians saw that melt to six points in the third quarter then came back to a 16-point margin at one time.

Top names missing in Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Some of the top names in NASCAR competition will be missing Sunday when Mrs. George Wallace leads a pack of 40 cars under the green flag to start the $200,000 Daytona 500.

Donnie Allison, Pete Hamilton, Lee Roy Yarborough, Fred Lorenzen and Richard Brooks — all familiar names to NASCAR fans — will not have rides for his grueling 500-mile chase, the biggest event in stock car racing.

Only six drivers are given a good chance of winning the race, which was marred by the death of veteran driver Raymond "Friday" Hassler of Chattanooga, Tenn., in a 12-car pileup during one of the 125-mile qualifying races Thursday.

Bobby Isaac, winner of the firecracker 400 here last July, and A. J. Foyt, three-time Indianapolis 500 winner, will start on the front row after posting the fastest qualifying speeds. Isaac hit 186.63 miles per hour in his 1972 Dodge and Foyt was clocked at 184.653 mph in his 1971 Mercury.

Coo Coo Marlin, who finished second to Isaac in the tragedy-marred 125-mile Thursday, will start third in a 1972 Chevrolet. Bobby Allison, winner of the other 125-mile and also Friday's Florida Citrus 250 for Grand American cars will be on the outside second row in a 1971 Chevrolet.

In addition to himself, Isaac said he felt Foyt, Allison, Charlie Glotzbach, Richard Petty and Buddy Baker, had a chance of winning the race.

Glotzbach will start 6th in a 1971 Dodge but the STP team of Baker-Petty will start in the 31st and 32nd positions.

Sweet-led Camas rips Gooding St.

FAIRFIELD — Senior Shane Sweet, making his last appearance on the home court, came up with the best effort in his career Saturday night as he scored 27 points and gave the Camas County Mushers a revenge 85-65 victory over the Gooding State Redskins.

Gooding State, the only Northside Conference team to defeat the Mushers this year, found the hosts redhot in their shooting and fell behind by 16 points at intermission.

Much of that lead was traceable to the 20 points split by Coates and Gill. Sweet was a picture of consistency as he scored three field goals, a quarter and added three free throws.

Both teams had four men in double scoring figures during the offensive-oriented game.

BYU downs Utah to near title

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Brigham Young went to its strength, Kresimir Cosic and Bernie Fryer, to down Utah, 79-66, in a Western Athletic Conference basketball game Saturday.

Utah stayed with the 10th-ranked Cougars until midway into the second half. The Utes had tied the game, 55-55, with 10:36 remaining, but their tight defense resulted in too many fouls.

That forced the Redskins to lay back and lose their momentum.

Fryer topped all Cougar scorers with 22 points, 12 in the latter part of the second half. Cosic had 21 points and 18 rebounds.

Cosic, the Cougars' giant center, hit 10 of 12 free throws prior to intermission and added one more in the second half to go with his five field goals.

Marquette overpowers Creighton

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — It took the Marquette Warriors just one-half game to get over the loss of 6-foot-11-center Jim Jones Saturday night. Once they did they went on to beat Creighton 70-61.

The Bluejays took a 37-33 lead at the half and it looked like the second-ranked Warriors were in trouble.

Playing for the first time without Jones, who quit college basketball two days ago to sign a reported $1.5-million contract with the New York Mets of the American Basketball Association, the warriors looked unorganized in the first 20 minutes.

But after time to regroup during intermission, Marquette found its way and outscored Creighton 20-4 in the first 13 minutes of the second half to take a 53-41 lead. The Warriors did it largely on the strength of a superb defense that forced Creighton into numerous turnovers.

Six-foot-9 Larry McNeill, who moved over from his usual forward spot to take Jones' place at the pivot, led the Warriors with 24 points. McNeill also dominated the backboards at both ends of the court.

The win for the Warriors was their 22nd without a loss this year and their 72nd in a row at the Milwaukee arena. Creighton, now 13-9, was led by Gene Harmon with 22 points.

Shields KO's foe for title

POCATELLO — Earl Shields, ex-Filer football player, knocked out Browning in the second round Saturday night to win the 165-pound AAY state championship for the fourth time and take the first step toward national competition.

Shields, who has had some tough fights with Browning, now advances to the regional tournament in Great Falls, Mont. If successful there Shields will move to the national tournament.

Jacklin ties Blancas for lead in Phoenix golf open

PHOENIX (UPI) — England's Tony Jacklin toured the Phoenix Country Club course in a five-under-par 65 Saturday to tie a frustrated Romero Blancas for the lead after three rounds of the $125,000 Phoenix Open.

Jacklin shot a consistent 33-33 over the par 36-57 layout to run his 54-hole total to nine-under-par 204 while Blancas, who had tied the course record of 61 Friday, ballooned to a 37-38-73.

Gene Littler, three-time winner of the Phoenix event, was the only one of four golfers who entered the round tied for second place who gained a stroke. He had a 33-37-70 and was alone at one stroke off the pace entering Sunday's final round for the $25,000 first prize.

1970 Phoenix winner Dale Douglass, who was with Littler, George Boutell and Jerry Heard at 135 after 36 holes, had an even par 71 to tie with Paul Moran and Marty Fleckman at 206.

Moran, a first-round co-leader with Douglass, had his second 66 card of the tourney, and Fleckman came in with a 69, his third sub-par round.

Jacklin's sub-par included six birdies and a bogey on the par-three 214-yard No. 8 hole. The 1970 U.S. Open winner said he was "lucky" not to have lost another stroke on the par three 210-yard 13th.

"I hit a bad tee shot to the left on the 13th, but it hit a post and bounced back into the bunker and I was able to chip up for my par," he said. "These short holes are playing really long for me. They are a difficult distance, somewhere between a two-iron and four-wood."

"I changed putters this week, and I'm putting more solidly. I made three or four good short putts. The gallery doesn't realize how tough they can be. It's a strong grain, and can make your ball jump. If you miss a couple, it can get your morals down."

Blancas was disgusted with his two-over-par round. "I played bad. I played horrible. I never had it close to the hole," he said.

"His only birdies were on the par three second hole, where he putted from 20 feet, and on the par-five 18th, when he saved his share of the lead with a five-foot putt."

Hometown favorite Boutell and Heard each fell to a 73

Saturday and into a six-way tie at 208 which included Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Billy Casper, one of the few "names" in the Phoenix event, had his second 73 round and was far back in the field at four-over 217.

Steve Melnyk got the second hole-in-one of the tournament, using a three-iron on the 196-yard 15th. His round of 67 still left him in a cluster at 210.

Georgia Tech shellacked

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Georgia Tech threw its entire roster into the game to try to solve the puzzle of a superior Florida State squad, but came up on the short end 108-50 for the Yellow Jackets' worst drubbing of a lack-luster season.

Senior Roland Garrett, playing his last home game of his college career, led the Seminoles to victory with 21 points and 14 rebounds.

The Yellow Jackets are now 5-17 on the season and the loss was their worst since North Carolina destroyed them 118-73 earlier in the season.

BSC avenges Big Sky losses

BOISE (UPI) — Boise State College used a balanced scoring attack and superior rebounding to overcome the University of Idaho 84-66 Saturday night in a Big Sky Conference clash before 2,015 fans.

All five Broncos starters hit in double figures led by Steve Wallace with 17 and Greg Bunn with 15 as BSC improved its league record to 5-6.

The game was tied 10 times in the first half as Dean Ecklund rifled in three straight just before intermission to give the Broncos a 43-35 lead. BSC stretched it out in the opening minutes of the second half, moving to a 53-37 bulge. The Vandals never came closer than 15 points through the remainder of the contest.

BSC overwhelmed Idaho on the boards 42-27 led by Wallace with 14 rebounds and Bunn with 10. For the Vandals, Adrian Wagner led with 10 points and Steve Ton added 19.

In the freshman game, Cal Clevenger scored 24 points to lead the BSC Colts to an 81-60 win over the Idaho Frosh. Dana Laferriere scored 23 for the Vandals.

Boise State college frittered away an 18-point lead in the second half before coming back in the final minute to edge Gonzaga University Friday night 63-57.

Boise State scored the last five points of the contest, to break a 78-78 tie with 1:38 remaining.

The lead had changed hands eight times in the first half and the game had been tied six times before BSC pulled into a 44-35 halftime lead. The Broncos pulled away to a 13-point lead before Gonzaga mounted their comeback that caught the Broncos at 66-64.

Greg Sten spurred on three shots from close range to bring the Zags into the tie situation. But a three-point play by Bob McCollum and two foul shots by Greg Bunn gave the Broncos the lead again with just two minutes to go.

Money Box

By Frank Schell

It is interesting to this columnist to note the increasing popularity of collecting in the foreign field.

For a good many years, most of our questions have concerned the money of the United States, but more and more letters are about foreign coinage. This is due no doubt in part to the fact that dealers in United States coinage have almost priced the small collector out of the market, and also in part to the fact that so many young men have visited foreign countries while in the armed forces, bringing back coinage which formerly was never seen here in the West.

Foreign coinage is a good, collectable item, especially since prices are very low — which is quite an item to the new, young collector.

From D. D. Kimbly, Idaho: I have a bronze or copper coin with a hole in it. On one side there is a crown, over the hole. On the left side of the hole "Ck" and on the right side, "R". Underneath is the date 1943 and the word "Denmark" on the other side "25" and "Ore." Will you tell me about this coin?

Answer: This is a regular issue coin of Denmark, minted under the reign of King Christian the Tenth who ruled until 1947. It is a "Twenty Five Ore" piece, one "ore" being equal to 1/100th of a "krone," which in turn is now worth about fourteen cents, United States money. If the coin is made from copper, collector value is about 25 cents.

From H.A.S. Buhl, Idaho: I have several pieces of Cuban money. One looks real shiny, like silver, but says "Cantavo" on it. Also around the top "Republic De la Cuba" and there is a shield and wreath in the center. The other side of the coin has a five-pointed star on it, with a "1" in it, and the words "Patricio Y Libertad" above the star, and the date 1936.

Then I have a coin which looks like this one, only it is copper and dated 1943. Also one which is like it, only it says "In the star, and "Cinco Centavos" on the other side. What is the value of these coins?

Answer: Values in collector's figures are between 10 and 15 cents. The first coin you mention is made from copper-nickel, not silver. Since we have no reciprocal agreement with Cuba, now, the coins have no value other than collector value.

Later, issues of Cuban coinage, under Castro, have been in small quantity and bring fairly high collector prices — that is in the one and two dollar ranges — which is high for most minor foreign coinage strikes.

From R.L. Twin Falls: I have some French money I would like to know about.

One piece, about the size of a half dollar, made of brass, has a woman's head on it and the words "Republique Francaise," a woman seated on the other side, the words "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite" and the date 1911. There is a large "5C" next to the seated woman.

Another coin, a woman's head with "Republique Francaise" around it, on the back "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite" above a large "2" with France under it and dated 1931. This coin looks like it is aluminum.

Answer: The first coin was standard "5-franc" issue from 1898 until 1920. Collector value is about 10 cents. If the coin is in "very fine" condition, the second coin is, indeed, aluminum bronze, value 2 francs, and collector value is about 20 cents. Actual value of the "franc" is now about nineteen cents.

8 Jerome youths named for meet

JEROME — Eight Jerome students, representing the greatest number of local students chosen during the past six years, will attend the Idaho Music Educators Convention at Moscow.

Seven seniors and one junior have been chosen to participate in All-State Chorus and Orchestra March 23-25.

The students auditioned in person last November and were screened by the local and then the state committees before the appointment was made, according to Carson Wong, music director for Jerome School District.

He said the students selected include Mary Alice Burkhalter, second soprano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Burkhalter; Linda Ellis, first alto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winnard Ellis; Karen Hadlock, first alto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hadlock; Mary Allison, baritone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allison; David Young, second tenor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Young; Dave Hill, baritone, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. Dean Hill, and the junior student, Donna Church, first soprano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Church.

Brian Daw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Daw has been chosen to play second trumpet in the All-State Orchestra, Wong said.

Dog licenses due at Jerome

JEROME — Acting Chief of Police Johnny Hayes reminds Jerome residents that dog licenses are due March 1 and will be delinquent after that date.

Hawes said the licenses may be obtained at city hall, male and female dog licenses are $5. "In the past the city had required a $10 fee for unspayed females but with the leash law the fee is now just $5," Hawes said.

He said owners will be penalized for dogs without tags will be reported after the March 1 deadline.

"All dogs three months old and over must be licensed," the acting chief said.

Hawes also reminded residents that police department still has some of the pocket-size narcotic identification guides which were purchased by the city recently.

"The guides are available free to clubs and churches as well as individuals," Hawes said.

slide rule, list physical symptoms for various drugs, types of containers from which the drugs are used and health dangers.

Hawes said the guide describes identification and symptoms of heroin, morphine, cocaine, misused medicines, marijuana, LSD, DMT, STP, amphetamines and barbiturates, along with slang terms used to describe the various drugs.

Community becomes classroom for 20 seniors at TFHS

By NORMA HERZINGER

TWIN FALLS — The whole business community becomes a classroom for Twin Falls High School seniors participating in the office occupations class.

Professional men and expert tradesmen serve as instructors as they give the students on-the-job training, a realistic experience in the world of work.

This is the eighth year in which this class has been offered at Twin Falls High School and there are 20 girls employed in various offices in Twin Falls, working on a parttime basis from 15 to 20 hours or more per week.

On Monday, these 20 girls will host a banquet at the Turf Club for their employers and their wives in appreciation of their training. This is the seventh annual banquet and Thelma Patz will serve as mistress of ceremonies.

Students participating in the class are selected from among interested applicants during their junior year. Selection is based on overall school record, recommendations from their teachers and upon a clerical aptitude test. They must have had at least one year of typing and at least one other business subject such as bookkeeping, shorthand or office machines.

As local businessmen have become acquainted with the program and the high quality of the girls involved, more and more of them have requested that a girl who is going to be in the class the next year, work during the summer months. Last summer, 11 of the 20 girls were already working before school began.

During the first month of school, the class meets during fifth and sixth period, during which time they are given practice on two office machines and brushup training on the typewriters. They also cover material such as telephone technique, duties of a receptionist, basic filing rules and the interview. During this time, they do not report for work until after school is out at 3:15 p.m., but after the first month, they are excused at the end of fifth period at 2:15 p.m.

They are evaluated at the end of each quarter by their supervisors during an interview with Mrs. Dorothy Pressey, teacher-coordinator for the program. Suggestions are made for improvement which are then brought to the attention of the class members individually.

They are paid the regular minimum rate of pay of the other employees in that particular

Valley team prepares for competition

VALLEY HIGH SCHOOL — A gymnastic team from Valley High School will compete in several tournaments this year for the first time, according to Mrs. Shirley Gibbons, gymnastics teacher.

Mrs. Gibbons said "Gymnastics is the up and coming thing in girls' sports and the Valley High School team has been working hard on preparations."

The team, which consists of 10 girls, has performed synchronized tumbling presentations at basketball game half times and has been greatly accepted, she said.

Mrs. Gibbons said that as a competitive sport, gymnastics is rapidly expanding to all areas. The Valley team will attend competitions March 4 at Highland High School; March 18 at Idaho State University; and an all-Idaho meet March 25 at Vallivue High School, Caldwell.

She explained gymnastics competition includes balance, beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting and floor exercise, a combination of tumbling, skills and dance movements to music. Levels of competition are beginning, intermediate and advanced.

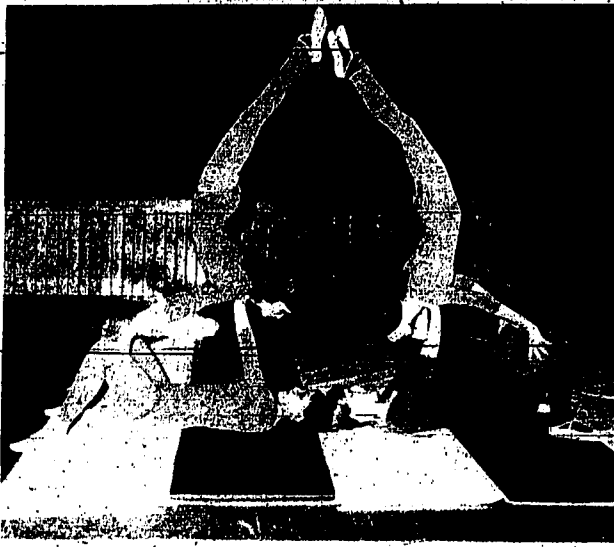

Mrs. Gibbons said a great deal of interest in the class has been shown by other girls and expects next year she will have to limit the class to 20 students.

Dr. Tom Utterback, superintendent of schools, said the program was started four years ago, but that interest in the class was not generated until two years ago when Mrs. Gibbons took over the class.

He noted that schools provide a number of athletic activities for boys and very few for girls, and that this was one of the main reasons the class was started.

"We have all the equipment that is needed for this type of class and if more is needed, we'll get it," Dr. Utterback said.

Team members include Anne Teater, Ramona Taylor, Jeannie Sellers, Debi Cline, Joyce Harral, Debbie Harral, Elaine Dean, Darja Brewer, Pam Grant and Rita Cleveland.

Jerome HS girl receives award

JEROME—Jerome High School student, Elizabeth (Betty) Lloyd, has been named Jerome's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for 1972, according to school officials.

Miss Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lloyd, was chosen on the basis of her score in a written knowledge and aptitude examination taken by senior girls Dec. 7.

She will receive a specially designed award charm from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational program. Miss Lloyd will now compete in national honors representing Jerome High School, and will compete with all school winners in the state for the State Homemaker of Tomorrow.

A $1,500 college scholarship will be awarded to the winner, and the school sponsoring her will be given a complete set of Encyclopedia Britannica.

A scholarship of $500 will go to the second-ranking girl in the state.

In April, the 51 Betty Crocker Homemakers of Tomorrow winners representing every state in the union and the District of Columbia, each accompanied by a faculty adviser, will be given an expense-paid educational tour, added to the earlier state-level judging results, will culminate in the announcement of the 1972 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow at the conclusion of the tour.

The winner will receive an additional $5,000 scholarship and the three runners-up will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

A special $1,000 nutrition scholarship has been added to the program this year.

BURLEY — Nine visiting chapters were represented at the Friendship Night of Evergreen Chapter No. 46, Order of Eastern Stars, at Masonic Temple.

Theme for the special event was "Hearts and Flowers." Presiding at the meeting were Mrs. Anne Sands, worthy matron, and Hans Forscher, worthy patron.

The Choraleers from Burley High School directed by Elden Wood sang several selections. A program was presented by Mrs. Sands, Mrs. Delores Couch, Mrs. Carmen Cutler and Mrs. Florence Crouch.

Honored guests were Mrs. Zula Gregory and Mrs. Erna McFarland, past grand matrons, and Lon Clayton, past grand patron of the Grand Chapter of Idaho, Order of Eastern Stars.

Other honored guests were Mrs. Doris Icenbice, Mrs. Blanche Beare, Mrs. Hazel Loucks, Mrs. Betty Jensen and Mrs. Mary Eklund, George Kenaston, Elmer Terry, Mrs. Ida May Terry, C. C. Baker, Mrs. Genevieve Schodde and Snow Cuffin.

All presiding worthy matrons and patrons were introduced. Refreshments were served in the dining room after business meeting. Decorations included paper mache roses in pink and red on white tablecloths.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Billie Lou Forscher and Linda Hinz. Committee members in charge of the refreshments were Mrs. Irene Thornburg, Mrs. Arnetta Powers, Mrs. Mary Eklund and Mrs. Carlene Clayville.

Dr. Robert E. Steward, director of the Veteran Administration's Prosthetic & Sensory Aids Service, says there is no "best" hearing aid for all individuals.

SELECTING CHAIR FOR YOUR LIVING ROOM

Many people select a chair because they are lovely to look at. Others select chairs strictly for comfort.

Wadsworth

The chair buyer buys chairs that combine both beauty and comfort.

It's not always as simple as it seems. Generally, the wife will select chairs for size, color and to coordinate with everything else in the room. The husband will want chairs that he can use and which he likes to sit on.

Fortunately, the average living room has room for just one chair that can please all parties concerned. Just pick a set of chairs or a single chair that will do the job.

Let's go on. We're going to use that chair. We're going to keep it around for years. So, let's select a chair that is nice when used in matching pairs. This is not only a matter of attractive decor, but has its own advantage. Many people are more at ease talking to each other while sitting in separate chairs than they are when sitting together on a sofa.

One of the attractive ways to group a pair of chairs is to use a wedge of the chair's table between them. This makes for a curved grouping instead of a lined-up two chairs and the table straight against the wall.

We invite you to see our latest selection of living room chairs and table sets, without prearranging ideas on using chairs in your living room to get both beauty and comfort.

Area couple weds in Clover rites

BURL — Clover, Trinity Lutheran Church was the setting for the Feb. 4 marriage of Ruth Simmons and Rocky Burkhalter.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. June Simmons, Burl, and the late Lynn Simmons, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Burkhalter, Castleford.

Rev. T. D. Johnson officiated at the evening ceremony.

The church was decorated with two gold candelabra with blue and white candles and baskets of white chrysanthemums and blue carnations.

Given in marriage by Lloyd V. Cox, the bride wore a floor-length gown of icy blue velvet. The empire-styled gown was enhanced by two rows of wide white border lace down the front and had fitted long sleeves. The train was also of the blue velvet. She wore a four-tiered waist-length veil of nylon illusion borrowed from Carole Burkhalter, cousin of the bridegroom, and carried a cascade bouquet of white spider chrysanthemums and white carnations surrounding a giant white chrysanthemum.

Peggy Larragan was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Debbie Pool, Belle Burkhalter and Macarena Brown.

Jeffery and Christy Burkhalter, brothers of the bridegroom, were candelights.

Best man was John Ineck, Caldwell; Larry Burkhalter and Ron Jones, cousins of the bridegroom, and Nick Butler were ushers.

Ivan Schroeder, cousin of the bridegroom, was organist.

MV Easter Seal campaign slated

JEROME — The annual Easter Seal campaign in Magic Valley will be conducted Feb. 28 through April 2. Mrs. Ruth M. Peterson, Jerome, campaign coordinator, said today.

Activities scheduled in connection with the campaign, proceeds from which benefit cripple children and adults of Idaho, include the annual benefit smorgasbord at the Turf Club March 28; a Magic Valley all-star basketball game at College of Southern Idaho March 17; and lily sales by youth groups in the various counties.

Mrs. Tom Davis, Twin Falls, will have charge of recruiting volunteers for the door-to-door "parade" when seals will be delivered and contributions accepted.

Mrs. Richard Carlson, Rupert, and Mrs. Charles Sutton, Burley, will be in charge of activities in those towns. Mrs. Frank Stearns will direct the Lincoln County campaign and Mrs. Peterson will direct the Jerome County campaign.

Mrs. Melvin VanNoy will arrange lily sales in Twin Falls County. Others affiliated with the Easter Seal campaign and activities include Miss Mary Schmitt, Gooding County delegate; Mrs. Billy Thompson, treasurer in Blaine County; Mike Gray, Ned Garrison, Mrs. E. P. Messner and Paul Taber, all Twin Falls; Roger Ling, Rupert, and Gerald Whitesides, Burley, all serving as county delegates or directors on the state board.

In addition, Mrs. Peterson said, the society provides braces, wheel chairs, crutches, corrective shoes and other orthopedic devices for those who need them. It also furnishes funds to defray transportation costs to medical centers when specialized services are not available in a specific community, and also offers referral services.

Each year, the Idaho society sends 40 to 50 crippled children to Camp Easter Seal at Lake Coeur d'Alene for two weeks.

Richfield LDS present program

RICHFIELD — A variety of musical talent combined in Richfield LDS church to present a program at the Richfield LDS Ward Cultural Hall.

Here is a hand from our files that proves nothing except that everyone seems to like to help out deserving experts in duplicate tournaments. It was played some 30 years ago by John Crawford and needless to say he wound up with a top score.

His choice of a no-trump rather than a two diamond rebid is typical of the Crawford of those days.

West opened the three of hearts and Crawford won the first trick with the queen. A lesser player might have tried for six diamond tricks, but Crawford saw that he would be in real trouble if he played out the ace and king of diamonds and the suit failed to break. So he led a low diamond at trick two.

West was in with the queen and played the five of spades. At this point Johnny could have settled for eight tricks by going up with the ace but he wanted everything—that wasn't nailed down so he played low from dummy. East took his king, and at this point could have rattled off five tricks and set Johnny one trick East.

didn't know that Johnny held all the missing diamonds or that he didn't really have a club stopper. East led his fourth best club. John went up with the queen.

When the queen held John ran off his diamonds. West was squeezed in spades and hearts. He actually unguarded his king of hearts so Johnny came down to the ace of spades and ace-five of hearts in dummy for five odd.

West's choice of two

A—but either five spades or pass, depending on how sound

a bidder's partner is.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Instead of doubling two diamonds, West has passed. Your partner bids two hearts. What do you do now?

Answer Monday

Nerves zig when they should zag

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some times in the kitchen, nerves zig when they should zag. They're entitled to that upset sound—feeling.

When it's going full blast, the kitchen is the noisiest room in the house.

It gets that way when a lot of appliances are on all at once. At such times the noise level approaches that of a factory: 100 decibels, a level noise sleuths mark "danger." By comparison, an elevated train emits 120 decibels of noise and artillery fire, 130.

The ways convenience appliances in the kitchen—in the hearing apparatus—are demonstrated in "Think Quiet." The exhibit in New York's midtown near Central Park.

The report on sound levels of kitchen noise-makers goes like this:

—Refrigerator, 30-40 decibels; garbage compactor, 70-80 decibels; dishwasher, 70-80 decibels; blender, 90-95 decibels; washing machine, 80-70 decibels; dryer, 50-60 decibels; range ventilator, 80-90 decibels.

The exhibit also features "A Calibrated Noise Source"—a life-size doll that gurgles, sobs and bawls via a tape track. The calibrated noise source demonstrates sound generation and noise control.

Noise pollution, as the cry baby showed, is the one pollution man has the technology to do something about. Carpeting, acoustical ceilings and insulation of a sound absorbing sort between walls helps keep the cry baby from splitting nerves.

To help the neighbors (if the cry baby lives in an apartment) there is sound deadening material for the heating ducts. This helps to cut down the noises traveling through hot air heating systems.

Acoustical ceilings mean while, can soak up 70 per cent of the kitchen noise. Carpeting in the kitchen cuts the noise 30 per cent. Another way to curb kitchen appliance noise: Mount appliances on vibration-absorbing pads.

Research showed that when the dropouts were transferred to a model school interior designed for comfort and conducive to study, their destructive tendencies disappeared.

Mini reviews

Miss Crane, Gines make July plans.

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Crane, Twin Falls, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Caren, to Brent A. Gines.

Miss Crane is a 1971 graduate of Twin Falls High School. She attended Ricks College, but is now residing with her parents.

Gines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Gines, Hollister, is a 1971 graduate of Elmer High School. He attended Ricks College and is presently attending the College of Southern Idaho, majoring in agrobusiness.

A July 14 wedding is planned at the Ogden LDS Temple. A reception will be held July 14 in Twin Falls.

Footwear

For the man of taste fashion, Verde offers a gamut of men's footwear for spring. It runs from flamboyance to quiet elegance. It's a well heeled, going from flat to high levels in silhouettes, ties and a wide range of boots. Model in the new line: rose, taupe and brown suede platform shoes with the new semi-high heels.

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls becomes a friendship soon to be tested.

Library officials have issued "mini reviews" for a few of the new books recently received at the library.

"Wunderful, Wonderful," William Carson Kanin. The author wants to share his vision of Tracy and Hepburn, individually and as a team.

"The Alternative," William Hedgespeth. Whether you view the new communal movement as an adventure or as a threat; ultimately depends on your personal vision of the future.

"Ourselves," Jonathan Strong. An original and exceedingly timely novel of young adulthood. The author speaks with the cool and honest voice of contemporary America.

"Game of Patience," Loma Pegram. A novel that can be a lesson in survival for the liberated woman.

"Intercept," Ken Bernstein. Brilliantly conceived and skillfully executed novel of danger and adventure. A chilling, accurate picture of the dramatic plight of two American servicemen trapped in unusual circumstances behind the Iron Curtain.

"Courage and Hesitation," Allen Drury. Here is a comprehensive and revealing work providing a candid portrait of the individuals and institutions that guide the destiny of the nation.

"Dollar Harvest," Samuel R. Berger. For those who don't know about the Farm Bureau, here is a fascinating and shocking account.

"One Man Alone," Richard Nixon. Ralph de Toledano. A full narrative of a full life and exciting political career. It is a close-up portrait of a complex man.

"Americans — and Chinese," Francis L. K. Hsu. Dr. Hsu is an anthropologist who grew up in China and has lived in the United States for more than twenty years. He takes a penetrating look at these two civilizations.

"Come a Long Journey," Alan Fry. This is an inspiring novel about two men of different races. An understanding Martha through the Forest. Marjorie B. Peppard. A biography of the Brothers Grimm that illuminates not only the little known social and intellectual setting for the Romantic movement in Germany literature, but also vividly brings to life two remarkable men.

"Summer Games," Babe H. Deal. A vivacious young couple caught in the frightening new life styles developing in America today. A story full of drama and suspense.

"The Night is a Child," Richard Jewell. This is a fast moving novel of action and intrigue. It has a series of unexpected twists.

"Marianne and the Masked Prince," Juliette Benzoni. Here is an enjoyable, spicy novel of Napoleonic times. Great reading for those who like historical romances.

"Incident at Hawk Hill," Allan Eckert. Story of a sad, lonely boy who survived in the wilds for most of a summer, adopted, cared for and protected by a female badger.

"Absolute Zero," Ernest Tidyman. The reader is treated to a marvelously deft play of satirical humor.

"Letter of Intent," Ursula Curtiss. Chilling psychological drama about a woman driven by ambition.

"Retreat in Good Order," Jane White. From the start, Sarah's birthday — her 39th, the reader senses fissures beneath the surface of an apparently happy marriage.

"The Veiled Sultan," March Cost. One feels, in Miss Cost's pages all the sensuousness and mystique of the East.

BSC's 'Beat the System' contest winner named

BOISE — Boise State Admissions Director Dr. Guy Hunt has been sponsoring a contest entitled "Beat the System."

He's been offering a $100 prize and amnesty to the student who submitted the best way to beat the registration-fee paying process at the College.

The winner, Kurt Hill, 528 Hale, a freshman nursing major, was presented his check for $100 last week. Hill did not object to his identity being revealed because he swears he was not the person who used the system he describes.

Dr. Hunt made public the best method previously used to avoid payment of fees or books and said students should be aware the method described will no longer be effective.

Features of Hill's narrative to beat the system at Boise State included: Non-resident tuition — when moving from out of state rent a post office box and move into a local apartment. Then drive around Boise and locate two or three vacant houses and put a change of address through from these houses to your rented post office box. This is to cover any possible mail the school might send out.

Hill cautioned against lying on a GI Bill application saying the college did not cross check with the Veteran's Administration.

When registering do not register your car to avoid being caught with an out-of-state license plate.

In paying tuition and books, Hill considers that even easier than becoming a resident student. He recommends a non-student who is a friend with a different last name make out two checks to BSC, one for tuition and another left blank for books.

After going through the cashier's line and the bookstore, have the friend stop payment on each check. The student has receipt for payment of tuition and there is no way to tie in the friend or relative. In case the college contacts the student, Hill says tell them you've changed your mind about going to school.

In getting classes, Hill says pick up your packet and fill out the IBM cards and go to the section where the class is assigned. If the class you want is closed, simply initial the master sheet and pickup IBM cards for your other classes.

When going through the check out line, make a show of having lost the IBM class card and show them the initialed (forged) class schedule.

Dr. Hunt says the method described has been considered and students are now warned that checks have been built into the registration system so that these ruses just won't work. Dr. Hunt further warned that, attempts to use them may lead to charges of fraud.

The contest to discover flaws in the registration process at Boise State College attracted 17 entries and all who submitted papers on ways to beat the system were guaranteed amnesty by the college.

What is next? Dr. Hunt has announced a new contest entitled "Improve the System." A $100 prize will be given and the details announced in the "Arbiter," the college newspaper.

Antique Theatre needs costumer

BUHL — The Antique Festival Theatre needs a qualified costumer who can both design and construct.

Aldrich Bowler, director, said the theater staff is now processing applications for jobs and scholarships with the summer 1972 company.

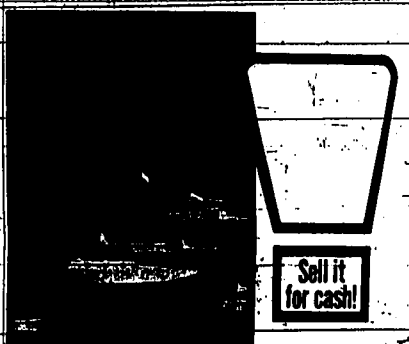

Six qualified theater majors will be accepted on scholarship awards this season with two apprenticeships available through the Federation of Rocky Mountain States.

The theater's winter readers are in rehearsal now for Shaw's "Comedietta for Two Voices" and "The World was Round," a selection of remembrances from childhood by Gertrude Stein, Dylan Thomas, John Steinbeck and John Barth.

Bowler recently was elected treasurer at a regional assembly of the American Craftsmen's Council held in Seattle last week.

Idahoans welcomed

SECOND DISTRICT Congressman Orval Hansen recently welcomed Idahoans to the nation's capital for the annual convention of the United States Savings and Loan League. Greeted by Hansen are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sinclair, right, and Tere Bideganeta, Boise.

Current cues

H. HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — The water heater is probably the house appliance that is most often replaced. Although it's a small thing, it's a big job. If you turn on the water faucet and you get no water, it's time to get a new one. It was designed for, but undoubtedly you are using more hot water than you did a few years ago. The tank may be smaller than you need or it may have a slow recovery rate. It may be time required to build back the hot water you have used.

Did you know? The average person uses about 12 gallons of hot water a day and babies use twice as much as grown ups. A tub bath uses 12 to 15 gallons while a shower uses between 5 and 10 gallons. The automatic washer will average about 25 gallons per load and dishwashing will use about nine gallons.

During a morning or evening rush hour you might use half of all the hot water you'll use all day. Some families find it advantageous to have two water heaters, one in the kitchen-laundry area and another in the bath area. A water heater can be installed in a closet, attic, utility room, under the stairs or the table top models can be fit right into the cabinet area where they are most convenient.

Water heaters come in many sizes, styles and capacities. The least expensive heater may not be the most economical buy. Check the guarantee before you buy. Some models offer a 10-year guarantee for the full value of the tank, while others offer a 5-year guarantee.

The elements are guaranteed for one year, the guarantee applies when installed according to existing plumbing and building codes — installed with a pressure relief valve and a high temperature cutoff. Compare the initial cost of the heater against the number of years it is fully guaranteed to get the best bargain for your money.

Check quality before you buy. A glass-lined tank resists corrosion and rust. The amount and type of minerals found in the water (the degree of water hardness) will have an effect on the life of the tank and elements. A water softener, installed on the water system, will prolong the life of the water heater.

Elements are located at the top and the bottom of the tank and are controlled by thermostats which are usually factory set at 150 degrees. If there is a considerable distance from the water heater to the washer or dishwasher you may want to have the temperature increased to 180 degrees.

Elements vary in wattage up to 4500 watts. The 4500-watt units are known as "quick recovery" and are a great improvement over the older models and will assure you of sufficient hot water for your many uses. A 52-gallon capacity tank is recommended as a minimum for the family use. Capacity may go to 80 gallons.

To assure long life and efficiency the manufacturers recommend draining a small amount of water from the tank periodically, opening the drain valve to allow the water to flush through the heater until it flows clean (this will help to prevent sediment buildup in the tank bottom); check the temperature pressure relief valve to insure that it is in operating condition. This is done by lifting the lever at the top of the valve several times until the valve seats properly and operates freely. In very hard water areas they may also recommend removing the lime (or scale) from the heating elements.

NEW YORK (UPI)—"When we show our slides and make our speeches, we make an impact," Joan Bartl said, fanning herself with a thin report—"Dick and Jane as Victims."

If you have a daughter, the slides, the speeches and the report from the women on words and wisdom task force of central New Jersey NOW (National Organization for Women) may be of more than passing interest.

A staunch supporter of Women's Lib, Mrs. Bartl prefers the title Ms.

"Women usually are shocked," Ms. Bartl of Princeton, N.J., said in an interview. "What we are exposing is concrete sexism in 134 elementary school books."

The green-covered report, in progress since 1970, contains an analysis of sex stereotyping in school books.

"Girls are damaged by this," Ms. Bartl said, "but so are boys. They are taught that they can't be sissies or cry and that they must always be strong."

The school books, from 14 major publishing companies were selected from among those in three suburban New Jersey towns.

"Dick and Jane as Victims," shows that "the typical girl in any reader is a frilly little thing with a smile on her pretty face and a passive attitude toward life."

"And the boy? As the readers portray him, he's one 'with a look of stern concentration'."

"He is busy preparing to be a man."

"At specific issue," Ms. Bartl said, "is the way in which girls are portrayed... the activities in which they engage, the attitudes they display, the way in which people treat them, the generalizations which are made about them... as contrasted with the treatment of boys."

Statistics cited by the task force and based on an analysis of 2,790 stories in the 134 books are as follows:

Boy-centered stories to girl-centered stories, 5:2; adult male main characters to adult female main characters, 3:1.

male biographies to female biographies, 8:1; male animal stories to female animal stories, 2:1; male folk or fantasy stories to female folk or fantasy stories, 4:1.

Particularly appalling is the scarcity of female biographical stories," the task force noted. "There are 27 stories about only 17 different women, whereas there are 119 stories about 88 men."

An analysis of content of the second sex theme, "nice girls finish last," shows clever girls 33 times. But clever boys show up 131 times.

Organic foods taste better

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Organic foods may taste better or fresher in some cases. But they won't make anybody healthier, a government nutritionist warns.

Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, science adviser to the administrator of the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Research Service, couples this caution with a crack at self-made food experts and the flaunting of nutrition as a "plus" in organically grown foods.

Dr. Leverton, in a speech Thursday to the northern district of Virginia Dietetic Association in Arlington, Va., said a recent wave of enthusiasm for the whole subject of food and nutrition — especially organic food — has "enabled certain people to take advantage of those seeking pure food."

"While enthusiasm is welcome, too many people have rapidly become experts in the nutrition field without benefit of training, and with their only experience that of eating," the nutrition specialist said.

Dr. Leverton told her audience of distinctions that while foods grown only with organic fertilizer generally cost more than identical foods found in ordinary markets — at least one-third to one-half more — their nutrition makeup is the same.

"Research has established that generally, elements essential to plant growth enter the plant in inorganic form," she said.

This means that even if a nutrient is put into the soil in organic form, or is naturally present in an organic combination, it is broken down chemically into inorganic form by micro-organisms in the soil before entering the plant, Dr. Leverton said.

"Although the greater cost of organically grown food may buy certain desirable characteristics not always found in the usual food market — it may be fresher and more flavorful — greater nutritive value is not one of them," the ARS scientist said.

Even if all Americans wanted to pay the price for organic foods, the Agriculture Department specialist indicated she doubted it would be physically feasible to supply all needs that way.

Production logistics alone set a limit on potential output, Dr. Leverton indicated.

"It is one thing to grow a few tomato plants on a balcony using organic fertilizer, but it is another thing to grow enough food for the nation by such methods," she said, adding that not all food described as organic is actually grown that way.

Other drawbacks to organic gardening, Dr. Leverton said, included the fact that organic fertilizers are one of the greatest sources of salmonella and other food contaminants, and the conclusion of scientists that use of organic fertilizers alone means "that any nutrient deficiency in the soil will be perpetuated and aggravated rather than remedied."

Candidate

KATHY JO KASEL, Twin Falls, is among five candidates for Western Charolais Queen, to be chosen March 6 at Caldwell during the opening of the Western Charolais Association annual classic cattle show. Mrs. Clark Helms, Jerome, is chairman of the event. Miss Kasel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Kasel.

Spud use reported

BOISE — Potato processing in Idaho, including Idaho potatoes processed in Malheur County, Ore., from July, 1971, through January, 1972, utilized 23.08 million hundredweight of 1971 crop raw potatoes.

According to reports from processors compiled by the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, of this quantity 22.55 million cwt were used in the manufacture of food products and 532,000 cwt. for starch and flour.

Of the total processed 21.85 million cwt. were Idaho potatoes and 182 million cwt. were shipped into Idaho from other states.

The quality of Idaho potatoes processed was up two percent from the same period a year ago.

'Hopper control plans for 1972 being pushed

TWIN FALLS — Grasshoppers may be a serious problem in Twin Falls County and other Idaho areas next summer, Donald F. Youtz, extension agricultural agent, said today.

Surveys made in the fall of 1971 in Idaho by Department of Agriculture personnel show 2.6 million acres were heavily infested.

Keith Evans, supervisor of the USDA Animal and Plant Health Service Plant Protection and Quarantine Programs, said the spring survival of newly hatched grasshoppers will be a key to the seriousness of the infestation, and weather will be a major factor in that survival.

Sudden periods of cold, wet weather, alternating with warm spells during the hatching season could alter the situation, he said.

In 1971, a group of land owners in the Hansen Butte area organized a control committee when grasshoppers caused serious damage. Youtz said he hopes to meet with groups of farmers in other areas of the county this winter to discuss advisability of forming control committees for specific areas.

In order to qualify for the cost sharing control programs, all landowners controlling a solid block of at least 6,000 acres must participate by paying in advance, usually a third of the cost. Control costs on isolated tracts of cropland within the area will be paid by the land owner. Costs on federal and state lands will be paid by federal and state agencies. Only private grazing land, not in crops, can qualify for cost sharing, Youtz said.

In many areas of Twin Falls County and Idaho, checkerboard ownership and land use patterns make it difficult for a solid block of landowners to organize a cost sharing control program, Youtz said.

Because of the requirement that all private land assessments must be collected in advance of the actual control work, organization should start well ahead of the crop season. Youtz said county agents and USDA representatives will meet with growers to discuss organizing control programs. Farm groups wishing to meet should call the county extension office two or three weeks in advance of the meeting date, Youtz said.

Dietrich bull housing set

SHOSHONE — Members of the Dietrich Butte Cattlemen's Association have voted to include a land purchase project in the annual budget to provide a home for the association's 45 bulls.

Valley beans

TWIN FALLS — The Western Bean Dealers Association reported the following prices on beans today:

Pintos, 9.75-10.00; small reds, 10.00; Great Northern, 9.50; pinks, 9.00. Most stations among 25 reporting were on the high side.

Previously the bulls have been kept for a fee by individuals.

Plans are to secure three more bulls before the cattle grazing turnout date this spring.

Regulations per user according to bull numbers were established by the board of directors. One bull is provided for each 25 cows and the ratio basis was set to permit users to establish their rights for grazing accordingly.

Robert Moline, Bureau of Land Management, discussed new methods of nominating the BLM Advisory Board by mail.

Plans were made to solicit aid from civil defense, county, and civic officials to help eliminate problems being created on the desert area by the flood diversion water in the desert out of Shoshone. Water diversion was provided over a year ago by a gate that carries excess out into the lava before it comes into Shoshone and Gooding via a Little Wood River. The water and freezing ice is causing fences to rust and break.

Users were given the responsibility to notify the BLM when their stock goes on and off the range, and by this method more flexibility will be provided to meet needs and range readiness.

Fence projects and repair will be handled by the board of directors with assistance by members when needed.

Farmers, cooperatives borrow record $14.4 billion in 1971

WASHINGTON — American farmers and their cooperatives borrowed a record $14.4 billion through the lending units of the Farm Credit System.

According to Farm Credit Administration, the total farm credit loaned to farmers during the year, up 13.8 per cent from the $12.4 billion in 1970. PCA's had loans outstanding at year end of $8.1 billion, up 14.8 per cent from the $5.3 billion a year earlier.

PCA's obtain most of their loan funds through Federal Intermediate Credit Banks.

Federal land banks, the system's long-term farm real estate mortgage lending unit, had loans outstanding of $7.9 billion, an increase of 10 per cent from $7.2 billion a year earlier. Loans made were up 52.9 percent, to $1.6 billion from the $1.0 billion made in 1970. The large increase in loans made represents a willingness by farmers to return to long term borrowing now that interest rates have receded from their high levels of two years ago, a spokesman said.

Production Credit Associations, which farmers use for short and intermediate term loans, had loans made up 52.9 percent, to $1.6 billion from the $1.0 billion made in 1970. The large increase in loans made represents a willingness by farmers to return to long term borrowing now that interest rates have receded from their high levels of two years ago, a spokesman said.

During the year 626,000 lambs were saved, 17,000 more than in 1970. There were the same number of breeding ewes on hand Jan. 1, 1971, as there were the first of 1970. The lamb crop per ewe went from 112 per cent in 1970 to 115 per cent in 1971.

Plot reports concern labor

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The labor movement is concerned over reports of a plot to kill farm labor leader Cesar Chavez.

The alleged plan of assassination has been investigated by several law enforcement agencies who have found no evidence to support the report.

Labor leaders are taking it so seriously, however, that President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers (UAW) has proposed an FBI investigation.

John F. Henning, secretary-treasurer of the California Labor Federation, has urged an investigation by the California Department of Justice.

Neither California nor America can tolerate the possibility of another assassination," Henning said in a telegram to State Attorney General Evelle Younger. "We are asking you to save Cesar Chavez from the fate of John and Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King, Jr."

Chavez, leader of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO, (UFWOC) and his union regard the reports seriously.

Chavez reportedly is closely guarded and UFWOC attorney Jerry Cohen said the union is offering a $10,000 reward for the conviction of unknown persons behind the alleged plot. The California UAW has added another $10,000 to the reward offer.

But so far, the Kern County Sheriff's office reports no progress in its investigation, according to Chief Criminal Deputy Loren Fot.

Wheat growers endorse farm set-aside feature use in '72

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The National Association of Wheat Growers is asking producers to use the extra set-aside feature of the federal farm program for this year.

Gehe Moos, NAWG president, said producers should take wheat out of production in 1972 because of a serious concern for potential overproduction.

Moos said the association expressed concern last fall when winter wheat planting increased across the United States. When this is added to the spring wheat planting intentions, Moos explained, "it means that the United States could produce far more wheat in 1972 than it could market."

According to present information, Moos said the 1971 wheat crop year will produce approximately a billion bushel carryover and with the wheat crop intentions report for 1972 there is a potential of producing in excess of our needs by about 300 million bushels.

"Consequently, we're faced with a total carryover at the end of the 1972 marketing year of about 1.3 billion bushels—far too much wheat for the United States to carry over from one year to another."

NAWG, which took the lead in asking the Department of Agriculture to consider a voluntary set-aside program for wheat is now trying to reach as many wheat farmers as possible with the message that

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1972

CARROLL RIGNER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Rignier Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES A day when you would be wise to stick to what has been found to work well in the past. If you take any chances you are likely to have a difficult time since confusing influences could get you off on the wrong foot. A day to rest, relax and build up your physical strength.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may have the wrong ideas where finances are concerned now, so don't take any chances. Steer clear of a partner who has the knack of getting you in trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try not to act in a strange manner which could lead others to think that you cannot be trusted. Avoid any unsavory comments. Express loyalty for mate Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to July 21) A good day to take a respite from regular routine. Do some interesting reading. Show courtesy for others and get good results thereby. Take care of correspondence.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time to be with good friends who think along lofty lines. Forget those personal problems for now. They can be handled better later on. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have a very fine talent to put across diplomatically. Don't show off or get adverse results. Show that you are a good citizen. Don't take chances in travel.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to plan for a more affluent and happy future. Do some consulting with clever persons. Forget about a little trip that takes you nowhere. Relax.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Rather than follow your own hunches exclusively, listen to what experts have to suggest. An associate is overly independent, so don't take any risks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your mate or partner is very unpredictable now, so sit back and watch without trying to be forceful, and then you will know just how to proceed. Be understanding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Although you are bogged down with work take the time to help those who have helped you during an emergency. Show that you are appreciative. Take care of health.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although pleasure is on your mind, be careful not to do anything that could lose you the prestige you now enjoy. Think how your actions could be more rewarding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to be tactful and live the Golden Rule if you want to clear up those problems you have at your own dwelling. Get rid of stumbling blocks in a quiet way.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you leave home early in the day you can solve a problem that has been a puzzle to you for a long time. Take an unkind comment in your stride.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants everything fully explained in order to comprehend well. Otherwise, this logical mind could turn to fantasy in utter desperation. Send to the finest schools you can, preferably religious ones for greatest success. A promising chart.

Engaged for 18 Months?

"When a couple of young people strongly devoted to each other commence to eat onions, it is safe to pronounce them engaged."

J. M. Bailey
An engaged couple ought to be required to wait 18 months before they're allowed to marry. That's the recommendation of a pair of Soviet sociologists. A long time. Hereabouts, most of the scholars who have come up with suggestions in this vein think six months is the ideal longevity of an engagement.

AMONG those women who have any children at all, one out of six has one and only one. Further, half the young mothers in this country have their last child by the time they're 26 years old.

MONEY

"I didn't marry him for his money," the former wife of a wealthy oilman told newsmen this week. "I divorced him for it." How apt! Married, she got $1,000 a month allowance. Divorced, she got $4.5 million.

JUST RECEIVED another nomination for that title of the world's best knock-knock joke: "Knock knock. 'Who's there?' 'Sam and Janet.' 'Sam and Janet who?' 'Sing the last line. 'Sam and Janet evening.' Will you accept that?"

TO THAT LIST of famous men who started out as newsboys, please add Arthur Godfrey, Bing Crosby, Joe DiMaggio, John L. Lewis, Harry S. Truman, Frank Sinatra, Red Skelton, Bob Hope and General Omar Bradley.

"IRONSIDE"
Am asked if Raymond Burr, known of late as "Ironside," is married. Not at the moment. But Mr. Burr has made public information of the following: His first wife, Annette Sutherland, was shot down by the Germans in World War II while flying a commercial plane from Spain to England. He was divorced from his second wife, Isabella Ward. His third wife, Laura Morgan, died of cancer.

A "ANYWAY" to tell the difference between a bullet shot from a Colt and a bullet shot from a Smith & Wesson?

A. The six-groove rifling in every Colt winds to the left. The five-groove rifling in every Smith & Wesson, except one, turns to the right. So any detective, even an amateur, can tell which from whatever.

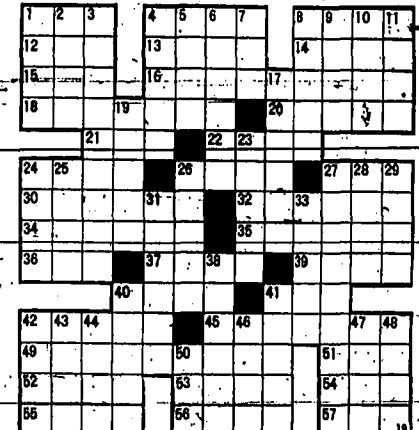

IT'S THE MAN born under the sign of Libra who is expected to be the most ardent lover. It's likely he understands women. And he's apt to offer his affections to more than one at one time, the rascal. Or so contend the star readers.

Photographer testifies

NEW YORK (UPI)—Free lance photographer Ronald Galella, testifying in federal court in his suit against Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, Friday described his tending up to his arrest in photographing the former lady and her son John in Central Park.

Galella, who says he has taken more than 4,000 photos of the Kennedy family, contended that after he snapped pictures of Mrs. Onassis and her son on Sept. 24, 1969 a Secret Service agent approached him and Mrs. Onassis told the agent: "Smash his camera."

Galella said the agent did not follow the suggestion and that Mrs. Onassis and John then took their bicycles toward their Fifth Avenue apartment building and drove away.

He said Mrs. Kennedy then gestured to two more Secret Service agents in his direction, and that the agents started chasing him. He said the agents caught up with him and took him into custody.

Mrs. Onassis has denied asking the agent to smash the camera in her previous testimony in the case. She was present in the courtroom seated at her lawyer's table.

He is suing Mrs. Onassis for $1.3 million, charging that she has interfered with his means of making a living.

Galella has charged Mrs. Onassis with false arrest and malicious prosecution. She seeks a $10,000 fine against him and an order that he stop "harassing" her.

Time for living

By ROBERT FRANKLIN
Do these sound like fun—sweeping streets without pay? Swimming in a 52-degree ocean when you have a cold? Digging a 12-foot hole just to get a rock?

Not just "fun." These happen to be new ways we've found to bring enjoyment to ourselves. Call it a hobby... activity... sport. It needn't be dancing or stamp collecting—it can be ANYTHING you do that's enjoyable, engrossing.

The man who cleans streets for fun is George McPherson of Guerneville, Calif. McPherson, "The Street Sweeper," as he's known, has been keeping his town clean for over 16 years, since he was 67. Three years ago to his 80th birthday, officials agreed that they should show Guerneville's appreciation since then they've been paying him $70 a year.

But, "The Street Sweeper" doesn't care about the money. "This has been good to me," he says. "I don't see why I can't be good to it."

On the other side of the street, so to speak, are the surfing seniors, especially in Florida and California.

One 67-year-old woman in Laguna Beach, Calif., considers the ocean her "doctor." Mrs. Annabelle MacInnis swims practically every day—rain or shine—even when she feels poorly. "I take a good deep swallow of ocean water," she says, "and I always feel better."

There's also a great-grandfather in Houston, Tex., who swims three times a week. Seventy-two-year-old Mrs. Minerva Heard recently completed the last one-quarter mile of a second 50-mile swim.

The "who dig up rocks" like Ruth Henry, a retiree from West— are "rockhounds." Rockhounding is a fascinating activity that appeals to husbands of us who enjoy the great outdoors.

It encourages healthy exercise with a learning experience—an enjoyable way to study geology and mineralogy. Rockhounds learn to spot interesting specimens of rock, go after them by digging and polishing, and often make jewelry items from their finds.

A beginner needs only a few basic tools: $15 should cover everything. A local "lapidary" (listed in the yellow pages) can provide the basic information.

If you prefer indoor activities, how about bowling? Almost every bowler I've ever met has been a faithful devotee to the sport. I wasn't surprised therefore to hear that Hattie Conley of Cheney, Wash., celebrated her 80th birthday anniversary in the local bowling alley. Why? Because it was her bowling night.

Animal owners might be interested in Mrs. Betty Smith's new hobby: dog training. At the age of 80, Mrs. Smith enrolled her Australian shepherd (she has three dogs and a cat) in a dog obedience class; she discovered she enjoys helping him with his homework.

Surely, there's something you've been eager to "try." Whatever it is, have fun.

The American Heart Association says more than 27 million Americans have some form of heart and blood vessel disease.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—Try my easy way if you wish to clean behind a refrigerator that does not have wheels, and there's no one to help you move it. Put some liquid soap on the floor, even with the gliders, pull the refrigerator toward you. You'll find this works fine, with no help needed.—D. G. B.

DEAR POLLY—Use that last bit of mayonnaise left in a jar by placing a few salad or sandwich ingredients in the jar, swirl it around and remove the coated potatoes or whatever with a wooden spoon. There will be no waste.—MRS. E. M. O.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—When two of my children had chicken pox, it seemed my entire day would be taken up with the constant dabbing on of calamine lotion. To speed this up I poured the solution into a wide-mouthed jar, had a child lie on a clean sheet, painted it on his front with a new, soft, two-inch paint brush, let it dry and then painted the back side, let it dry, and then back he went into his pajamas. The brush felt good without scratching, and the job was done quickly. The children thought this was fun. Best of all, they do not have a single scar.—MRS. R. H.

DEAR POLLY—I use our guest room as a sewing room. When something needs mending or fixing, I hang it in the closet in that room, with a note attached saying what needs to be done. My mending is all in one place and ready when I am.—ANNETTE

DEAR POLLY—Our dog got so hot as we drove across the desert in our camper. Finally, we filled a jet spray plastic jar with water and then sprayed a fine mist of water over him from time to time. He loved it and was much more comfortable during the rest of the trip.—FRANCES

DEAR POLLY—A pointer for those who make their own bread and rolls: With air conditioning I found it almost impossible to get the dough to rise, but now I often have hot rolls as I have licked the problem. I unload the dishwasher promptly, and then place my pan of rolls in the dishwasher and close the door. There is just enough heat for them to turn out fine. This enables me to surprise the family, as the rolls are out of sight and the wonderful odor is concealed.—MRS. M. C.

DEAR POLLY—I was left with several small rugs after I bought a wait-for-wait bathroom carpet. I took one of our four rugs and used it as a pattern on the back of each of my rugs. After outlining each one with a magic marker I cut them out. Now I have all the contour rugs I need. A real money saver.—MRS. D. J.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ROMAN POLANSKI, film director and widower of Sharon Tate

How do you justify the use of graphic violence in movies today, such as in your film, "Macbeth," with its explicit beheading and throat-slitting? I have heard that you call this "beneficial." Can you explain?—J. Riley, Bergen, N.J.

● It's pointless to make a fantasy of violence off-camera, as was done in the 1930s and 1940s, when it was against the Motion Picture Code to show a knife enter a body. Because assault, murder and violence seemed pure, people—especially children—became very placid about violence. Children growing up in those years believed that a person could be killed and not hurt. Just point the gun, it goes boom, and the person is dead. But people don't die easily. It is difficult to kill a human being, it is not neat and tidy. The more people realize that, the more they will benefit. Showing graphic violence is a beneficial, educational tool, the first step in stopping senseless wars and personal violence against each other. I have heard the criticism that I portrayed the violence in "Macbeth" only because of the brutal way my wife was murdered. That is not true. The violence is in Shakespeare's story. Read it. I didn't put it there.

FOR BILL MOYERS, former press secretary to President Lyndon B. Johnson

There is currently much controversy over President Johnson's memoirs. What to you was surprising about LBJ's stand on Vietnam?—Robert Johnson, Little Rock, Ark.

● What was surprising was that this man who wanted everyone to reason together finally resorted to force. He took as a sign of weakness the inability of his friends to articulate their deep and vague uneasiness about the war, in contrast to the admiration he showed those who could argue persuasively for it.

FOR LUCILLE BALL

"The Lucy Show" keeps rolling on and on. How do you explain its continuing popularity?—Linda Wiseman, Lancaster, N.Y.

● There are lots of reasons. Our popularity covers three generations of viewers. Little kids enjoy the slapstick, physical comedy. Older people understand Lucy's problems. And there's enough action and story rolling along to keep teenagers and others watching. But the main thing, I think, is identity. Every man tells me he's married to a Lucy.

FOR GEORGE KENNEDY

You attained stardom somewhat late in life. What was the turning point?—Ralph Jackson, Little Rock, Ark.

● In 1959, when I headed for Hollywood, big guys like Jim Arness and Rock Hudson were stars, and they needed someone like me to beat up. If I'd come to Hollywood in the late '40s, during the era of short heroes like Bogart, Cagney and Garfield, I'd have starved.

FOR GORE VIDAL, author

Although you are related to Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, you have been critical of the Kennedys. Now there is talk of Sen. Edward Kennedy running for office. Will the Chappaquiddick tragedy hurt his chances for nomination at the Democratic Convention?—B.A., Waco, Texas

● No. I can see it now: the slogan will be "Chappaquiddick and Muskie too." This business of Chappaquiddick will become an act of heroism, like PT-109. They'll say, "Why, he swam 20 miles while wounded and saved that girl."

FOR EMMETT KELLY, clown

What advice do you give young people who ask how to go about becoming a clown?—D. L., Lancaster, Pa.

● I tell them to get professional makeup, practice before a mirror and don't copy other clowns. They should try to create a makeup that fits their face.

FOR JACK NICKLAUS

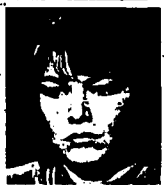

Which five golf courses would you rate as the toughest five on which you play golf?—Glade Overly, Provo, Utah

● Firestone Country Club, Akron, Ohio; Pebble Beach Golf Links, Pebble Beach, Calif.; Harbour Town Golf Links, Hilton Head Island, S. C.; Pinehurst Country Club, Pinehurst, N. C.; Seminole Golf Club, Palm Beach, Fla.

FOR DICK GREGORY

It's been reported that some servicemen are cold toward Bob Hope and his pro-Administration jokes: How does he hit you these days?—John Alexander, Durham, N.C.

● I don't think he's still funny. He doesn't have that rapid fire that I fell in love with as a kid—blip, blip, blip. Hope is an offspring of our degenerate system. Fifty years from now, if this country survives, nobody will know who Bob Hope was.

FOR GLENDA JACKSON

Although you won an Oscar last year, I've heard you had reservations about the award. What are your objections?—Dorothy J. Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● One thing seems excruciatingly cruel—the way the cameras rush to the faces of the losers as soon as the winner is announced. Also, I feel something should be done about the nominations. People should be asked, "Do you want to be nominated?" Perhaps some, like George C. Scott, would not like to be. They should have the choice.

FOR ROY HOFMEINZ, president, Houston Astro dome

Has any baseball player ever hit the Astro dome roof with a batted ball? Has any football player come close to hitting it with a kick or pass?—Steve Hathaway, Neenah, Wis.

● No baseball player ever has come close to hitting the Astro dome roof by batting a thrown baseball. However, by throwing it themselves and using a fungo bat, there have been three players who have hit the roof during practice. They're all pitchers: Ed Roebuck, Don Dennis and Joe Hoerner. No football player has come close to hitting the 200-foot-high Astro dome roof with a football, either thrown or kicked.

How I Pick Jurors

By F. Lee Bailey, For Family Weekly

The first Coppolino trial had opened in Freehold, N.J.; and I was asking prospective jurors whether evidence of extramarital activity would prejudice them against the defendant. The question was an essential one because my client, Dr. Carl Coppolino, was accused of killing his former paramour's husband. But when I put the question to a square-faced mining engineer named George Phillips, I got more than I expected.

Phillips not only answered with an emphatic no, but added: "We're all human beings, and I step off the line myself."

It's hard to say whether I was more pleased or surprised. I leaned forward and looked at him, and Phillips left no doubt about his point of view. "I bet you step out of line, too," he said. "You're the type."

Laughter filled the courtroom. "No further questions," I said. "I'll take the Fifth." But I also took the juror. Later, Phillips became foreman of the jury, which found Coppolino not guilty.

The point is that Phillips was an excellent juror for the case. He was honest, intelligent and eminently reasonable. I knew he would be able to keep the facts of Doctor Carl's dalliance separate from the facts of the alleged crime—a death of which Coppolino was indeed innocent. One of the questions I'm most frequently asked is what do I look for in a prospective juror. My answer is that I don't look for any particular type of person. I look for a human being who appears to be a good juror for that particular case. In this instance, Phillips was outstanding.

However, I do observe some general guidelines. Primarily, I want someone who will be able to follow the rule of reasonable doubt, which is supposed to be basic to our system of criminal law. What this means is that even if the juror thought it probable that the defendant was guilty, he would nevertheless vote for acquittal if there were the slightest reason for doubt. And in questioning a juror, I'm often more interested in his unspoken responses than in his actual answers.

I once gave a demonstration of these guidelines on TV. A woman from the studio audience was picked as a prospective juror, and I told her she would be asked to decide a case of robbery-murder. I said she would eventually be asked not whether my client did it, "but whether or not you're satisfied that he did it to the point where you have no doubt about it." If she thought he probably did it, but had a doubt with a reason behind it, would she vote not guilty? "I believe I would," she answered. I also asked if she thought it possible that police sometimes arrested the wrong man. She said that, on a 50-50 basis, it was "more likely" they would arrest the right man, "but it's certainly possible." When I asked if she would be able to "wipe from your thinking the general proposition that arrest may mean guilt," she hesitated, then said, "I believe that I can."

Finally, I asked her to look at the defendant, played by the TV-show host. What I wanted to know, I said, was "whether or not he really has, in your own mind, a presumption of innocence that won't disappear unless he's proven guilty?"

"Yes," she said, drawing out the word as she replied.

That was a woman I would definitely have wanted as a juror. Do you know why? Her very hesitancy in responding to my questions was a tip-off to her value. The actual, or articulated, answers were not overly important; I pretty much knew what they were going to be. Her agonizing was what impressed me. I could see that she was mulling the concept of reasonable doubt, and wrestling with the conflict between presumption of innocence and the belief that police usually arrest the right man. Such hesitancy usually bespeaks a great deal of soul-searching and honesty. If you draw that sort of reaction from a prospective juror, as opposed to slick or rigid answers, then reasonable doubt becomes a meaningful safeguard.

Sometimes unarticulated response comes down to what it has become vogueish to call "body language." Occasionally, a simple look or action may be sufficient. For instance, I picked one woman on a bunch of Coppolino's—he suggested that I select her simply because of the way she was looking at me. I accepted her without asking a single question. And it is relevant that my aides during the screening of that jury included hypnotherapist Dr. William J. Bryant, an expert in "interpreting" unarticulated response.

Are lawyers ever prejudiced against whole groups of people as prospective jurors? Sometimes, yes.

"In questioning a juror," admits Bailey, noted for such famous trials as the Carl Coppolino case and the Sam Sheppard case, "I'm often more interested in his unspoken responses than in his actual answers."

Most trial lawyers, for example, have strong pro-and-con feelings in regard to women jurors. I developed a prejudice against them early in my career when I was defending an accused bank robber in Plymouth, Mass. During their deliberations on a hot day, the jurors opened a window, and their voices were audible on the lawn outside, where I was chatting with a district attorney's investigator. Inadvertently, the detective and

I became privy to the panel's decision-making process.

As we listened, two of the six women on the 12-member jury started taking years off my life. The first said that she wasn't sure whether my client had robbed the bank in question, but that he had a police record, and "if we don't put him in prison, sooner or later he will rob some bank, so I'm convinced we ought to find him guilty." The other woman said that would be very unfair. After all, she said, you shouldn't convict a man for a crime he has yet to commit. But then she referred to testimony that my client was a racetrack habitué. "Well, it goes without saying," she said, "that anyone who spends a lot of time at the racetrack is a thief of some kind or other." She said that was sufficient reason for conviction.

Fortunately, wiser heads prevailed. Many hours later, and my client was acquitted. But I couldn't forget what I'd overheard, and I made a crass generalization. I decided that putting a woman on a jury was tantamount to playing Russian roulette. For two years, I never allowed a woman on any jury that I had a part in selecting.

Then along came Kitty Fabian. . .

The scene was a Worcester, Mass. murder trial in which my client was accused of dispatching his estranged wife's lover with three blasts from a 16-gauge shotgun. He'd done it all right, but I hoped to convince a jury that it was manslaughter as opposed to first-degree murder. The key element was premeditation. If the jurors believed that my client, a former psychiatric patient, had planned the killing, they would have no choice but to bring in a murder-first conviction.

I felt we'd have a good shot at manslaughter with a responsive jury. What bothered me was that a large percentage of the panel from which the 12 jurors would be selected had listed themselves as "retired." I wanted jurors who could feel some of the emotion that went through my client's mind when he found his wife and an erstwhile pal together. I felt that called for younger, rather than older people. Although retired types often make excellent jurors because of their experience, they can be unswervingly righteous. A panel full of adamantly righteous citizens may be a prosecutor's dream, but it's a defender's nightmare.

Using my challenge carefully, I tried to balance the ages of the jury members. I wasn't doing too well, however, because there weren't enough younger people to choose from. Then a blue-eyed blonde with a model's face and figure took the stand and gave her name and address. She had a twinkling expression, and a charmingly forthright manner. Her name, she said, was Kitty Fabian.

For two years, I'd refused to pick a woman juror. My ban was inflexible, and I hadn't even considered breaking it for this trial. In fact, I had already excluded several women. Now, without the slightest analysis, I jumped up and said, "We'll take her." I said it with a smile. Mrs. Fabian smiled back. It was an exchange of unspoken responses.

With one woman on the jury, I accepted another. My reason was that it somehow seemed indecent to lock Mrs. Fabian up with 11 men for the duration of the trial. The second woman was pleasant in personality and appearance, and I'm sure she never realized she was selected as a chaperone.

From a defense point of view, the case developed beautifully. The police photographer had taken pictures of the murder scene that supported my client's account of finding his ex-wife and ex-friend together in a compromising situation. And we had abundant evidence showing that the slaying victim was a bragging Romeo who preyed on married women. During all this testimony, I kept a close watch on Kitty Fabian. It was plain from her expression that if someone like the deceased had ever made a pass in her direction, he would have been in trouble.

The jurors stayed out longer than I'd expected, and I became nervous about the verdict. But when they filed back into the courtroom, Kitty Fabian was blushing, and I knew it would be all right. Indeed, the verdict was the one I had sought—manslaughter.

Afterward, I talked to one of the jurors, and asked him what had held up the verdict. He motioned across the room to Kitty Fabian. "She did," he said. "We'd all agreed on manslaughter after a short time—all but Mrs. Fabian. She insisted that we find your client not guilty without any conditions. It took us five hours to convince her." The juror shook his head. "She's a stubborn gal," he said. "But she's quite a woman."

I agree. I have never since been afraid to put a woman on a jury. □

What Happens to the Pets Nobody Wants?

By Patricia Ricord

The author and her pets, obviously very much "wanted."

One morning not long ago, two little girls appeared at my door. One of them was cradling in her arms a small ball of black fur that more closely resembled a teddy bear than a puppy. They explained that they had found him wandering around the street and thought that perhaps he was lost.

One look at him made me suspect that he was not lost at all, but more than likely the victim of some unthinking person who did not want him and therefore had dumped him out of a car in our vicinity.

He wasn't more than six weeks old and was so skinny that his ribs showed through his soft fur. His little tummy was bloated and full of worms. The girls brought him into my kitchen, where I offered him a saucer of milk. But he was so frightened he just stood there and trembled.

His young rescuers begged me to keep him, but I explained that I already had two dogs of my own, and, since my husband and I travel a lot, I couldn't possibly care for another. But I instructed them to bring him back to me if they couldn't find him a home, and I would take him to the Humane Society, where at least he would receive food and shelter. But Blackie, as he was later named, was fortunate. He found a home with one of the families in our neighborhood. Regrettably, this happy ending is not the rule for most abandoned and unwanted animals in this country.

Recently on television, a member of the National Humane Society reported that over 10,000 puppies and kittens are born each hour in this country. Most of these are destined never to find a home.

The blame lies squarely on those who own pets but fail to have them spayed or altered. Some people take for granted that their female dogs and cats will produce one or two litters per year, while the owners of male animals permit them to roam freely in pursuit of any female cat or dog in heat. The results of this negligence on the part of pet owners are the millions of unwanted animals born each year.

An impassioned plea by one concerned citizen on behalf of the thousands of neglected pets that today roam our streets and countryside

Some of these otherwise sensible and compassionate persons have shocking and deplorable ways of disposing of the unwanted animals in their care.

One popular method is to put a brick or stone in a sack containing a kitten or puppy and throw it into a river or pond. Other animals are dumped out on highways or busy streets, where the poor creatures, frightened and confused, often meet bloody and painful deaths. Those who manage to survive the traffic often roam the streets, living off of garbage and sometimes forming wild packs that attack sheep and cattle in an effort to survive.

The solution to this pathetic and appalling situation is shockingly simple. If all pets not owned for breeding purposes were spayed or altered, the problem would diminish significantly in a short time. The altering operation is safe and not especially expensive. Costs vary, but the average is about $25, which most families can afford. For those who can't, free spaying clinics are being opened in some areas of the country. If you cannot possibly have your animal spayed, you should keep your female pet confined during her fertile period.

If you don't care enough to prevent the birth of unwanted puppies and kittens, please bring them to your local SPCA. There they will at least have a chance of finding a home or will be put to sleep in a merciful way.

And for those of you in the market for a family pet: before you visit that expensive pet store or breeding farm, why not at least visit your local SPCA? You'll find it's just filled with anxious puppies—of which only about 20 percent are likely to find homes. Chances are you won't be able to resist the wagging tails and friendly, eager little faces begging to be taken home.

Mrs. Patricia Ricord, who describes herself as just an average citizen who happens to love animals, lives with her husband, Ted L. Noel Ricord, at Patrick Air Force Base in Florida. She has two dogs.

IT'S NATIONAL JELL-O® SAVES YOUR BUDGET MONTH.

BRAND GELATIN

Three ways to please your family and your budget at the same time.

Since Jell-O® Brand Gelatin costs less than 4¢ a serving, it lets you serve dessert knowing you're penny-wise.

And Jell-O is so light and un-stuffy, you can do all sorts of extravagant, yummy and fruity things to it that are pound-foolish.

Jell-O. If you're at the end of your bankroll, it belongs at the end of your meal.

Ripple Dessert, about 5¢ a serving*

- | | |
|--|---------------------|
| 1 package (3 oz.) Jell-O® Lime Gelatin | 1 cup boiling water |
| 2 tablespoons sugar | 1 cup cold water |
| | 1 cup ice cream |

Dissolve gelatin and sugar in boiling water. Add cold water; chill until set, but not firm. Alternately spoon gelatin and ice cream into dessert glasses, beginning and ending with gelatin. Garnish as desired. Chill. Serves 5.

Layered Fruit Dessert, about 8¢ a serving*

- 1 can (8-3/4 oz.) fruit cocktail
- 2 packages (3 oz. each) Jell-O® Brand Strawberry or Orange Gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream, slightly softened

Drain fruit cocktail; reserve syrup and add water to make 3/4 cup. Dissolve 1 package gelatin in 1 cup boiling water. Stir in 3/4 cup syrup and water. Chill until thickened; stir in fruit cocktail. Pour into mold. Chill until set, but not firm. Dissolve remaining package gelatin in 1 cup boiling water; blend in ice cream. Stir until smooth and thickened. Spoon over set gelatin. Chill until firm—at least 3 hours. Unmold. Makes about 5 cups or 10 servings.

Thinly Layered Dessert, about 8¢ a serving*

- | | |
|---|----------------------------------|
| 1 package (3 oz.) Jell-O® Brand Gelatin, any flavor | 1/2 tray (7 to 10) ice cubes |
| 1 cup boiling water | 3/4 cup drained canned pineapple |
| | 1/3 cup sour cream |

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add ice cubes and stir until gelatin starts to thicken—3 to 5 minutes; remove any unmelted ice. Measure 1 cup and add pineapple; spoon into 6 dessert glasses.

If desired, stemmed glasses may be tilted in refrigerator by catching base between bars of rack and leaning top against wall. Chill until firm. Add sour cream to remaining gelatin; beat until foamy and soft; spoon over gelatin in glasses. Chill at least 1 hour, tilted as before, if desired. Garnish as desired. Serves 6.

How to Use Dreams to Solve Your Problems

By Colter Rule, M.D., and Jeanne Toomey

The world we enter through the portals of sleep is a dim and ancient land of shadows. Primitive man believed that his soul left his body during sleep, and that he actually visited distant places and long-dead ancestors in his dreams.

Probably not many would believe such a thing today. But dreams are still a mysterious and fascinating subject. The popularity of dream books attests to that. In them, you can still read that a dream of a gypsy is to predict an amorous adventure, or that to look at your own bare foot in a dream is a sign that you will laugh before you cry.

These readings, of course, are pretty arbitrary. But the fact is, dreams reveal clear data about the problems of living; they further the doctrine of "Know Thyself," and they increase your knowledge of how to relate to others.

You can learn to read your own dreams. Persons who have undergone analysis are often encouraged to do this by the doctor.

There is nothing very spooky, mystical or superstitious about it. In fact, it's a little like interpreting today's symbolic movies.

How can dreams have a practical application to your life? How can you use them to be happier, or to solve problems, or to attain a goal? Let's look at some examples:

Dr. Sigmund Freud referred to dreams as the "royal road" to the unconscious. His "The Interpretation of Dreams" is still a classic

Dr. Colter Rule, a member of the governing board of the New York Academy of Medicine and a member of the American Psychiatric Association, gave up a career as a physiologist and physician to become a psychiatrist when he observed that many of his patients' ailments were psychologically triggered. He practices psychiatry in New York City.

There is nothing very spooky about interpreting dreams. In fact, it's a little like interpreting today's symbolic movies.

work of reference on the subject. His view that almost all dreams are secret sexual wishes has been challenged by modern authorities, but he is still accepted as a pioneer and discoverer.

The dreams of soldiers in World War I puzzled Freud. They often were repetitive nightmares concerned with hair-raising danger. It was clear to Freud that these dreams couldn't be secret wishes. It was also clear that they weren't sexual. Freud postulated that perhaps man was driven by some kind of repetition-compulsion instinct. Strongly, investigators saw that dreams like these seemed to be directed toward problem-solving.

From problem-solving, it is only a short step to realizing that dreams can be a pathway to creativity and discovery. History is full of cases where a man's dreams solved problems that eluded him in the daytime:

Dr. Otto Loewi, who received a Nobel Prize in 1936 for his work relating to the chemical transmission of nerve impulses, dreamed the experiment that led to his discoveries. He had the same dream for three nights. On the first and second nights, he woke up and scribbled the experiment on a pad next to his bed. But in the morning, he was unable to decipher his own notes. When he went to sleep the third night and dreamed, instead of scribbling notes, he got up, put on his shoes and went over to the laboratory to perform what he later termed an unbelievably simple experiment involving a frog's heart and stimulation of the vagus nerve. His unconscious had come up with a simple solution to what had baffled his conscious.

There are other instances:

The man who invented the benzene ring, an enormous step forward in organic chemistry, dreamed that two snakes were chasing each other and that they got each other's tails. This symbolized to him how carbon atoms could link together to form a ring.

Robert Louis Stevenson often said that he used his dreams for story plots. Mathematicians have solved problems in their dreams, and children have memorized maps in theirs.

What's the trick? Basically, it's that you must learn to interpret a dream as a flow of symbols. The layman must realize that every item in his dream probably stands for something else. Or he should be suspicious that it does.

It is well to remember that the child we once were still dwells within us and expresses its impulses, often through barely detectable behavior when awake, but clearly in a dream.

Freud tells of a physician in his 30s who told him that a yellow lion often appeared in his dream life. Although the dreamer did not remember the fact, a yellow lion had been a favorite toy of his in childhood.

Freud's theory, in essence, was that the wish gives rise to the dream, and that fulfillment equals the dream. A clever lady patient argued with Freud about this—saying she had a dream in which a wish was not fulfilled. "I dream that I wish to give a supper," she said, "but having nothing at hand except some smoked salmon, I think of going marketing. Then I remember it is Sunday afternoon when all the shops are closed. I must try to telephone to some caterers, but the telephone is out of order. Thus, I must resign my wish to give a supper."

Freud, pointing out that the stimulus for a dream always lies among the experiences of the previous day, dug a little deeper and found that the woman had run into a slender woman friend, always praised by the dreamer's husband, who liked well-rounded figures. The slender friend had often said she would like to be a little stouter. At the meeting, the day before the dream, she had asked the patient, "When are you going to invite us again? You always have such a good table."

Thus Freud was able to point out to the woman that, by putting obstacles in the way of the dream, she was showing she did not want to invite her friend to dine because she did not want the thin woman to get more rounded, and perhaps appeal to the dreamer's husband.

While dreams sometimes seem like enigmas, they can be interpreted. The procedure is a little more complicated than consulting a dream book; but it is true dreams trigger our deepest hopes, threats and passions. Dreams are never about things that are remote from our private lives. Current events, for example, are not what dreams are about (although current events can and often do trigger dreams).

Sexual impulses, the desire for power, fear, religion—these are what appear in dreams. They are the keys that analysts use to unlock troubled and disturbed minds. But, on a simpler level, dreams can also provide solutions to our everyday problems. Try the steps listed with this article, and you'll see.

10 Keys to Unlocking a Dream

1. Before retiring, think of the subject about which you want to dream. Devote 15 minutes, no more, to trying to solve whatever is concerning you.
2. It might be well to write down an outline of what is on your mind.
3. Place a pad and pencil on a table (with a lamp), beside your bed.
4. When you wake up, do not leap to your feet. Lie quietly for a few seconds and try to remember your dream.
5. Then write it down with all the details you can recall.
6. Try free associations to see what the various points in the dream suggest to you.
7. If you think you never dream, think again. The "I never dream" myth has fallen before the new science of dreams. Dreams are not usually remembered unless one is motivated to remember them. It is almost routine for the person consulting the therapist to say, "I don't dream." The analyst simply replies, "Everyone dreams—make an effort to remember." Dream amnesia is due to repression.

8. Now that you know you do have dreams, remember that every dream is a struggle to find a solution for an unsolved problem in living, often left over from the preceding day. This may help to interpret it.

9. A solution may pop out of your dream memories.

10. Assess the solution. You must ask yourself if the answer is a useful one or not. Is it good or bad? Does it help to unify things?

MOUSE TRAPS

are the best way to kill mice. Right?

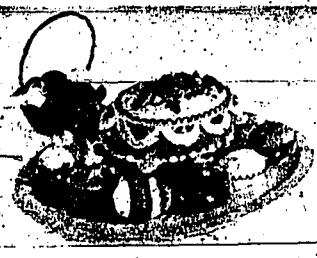

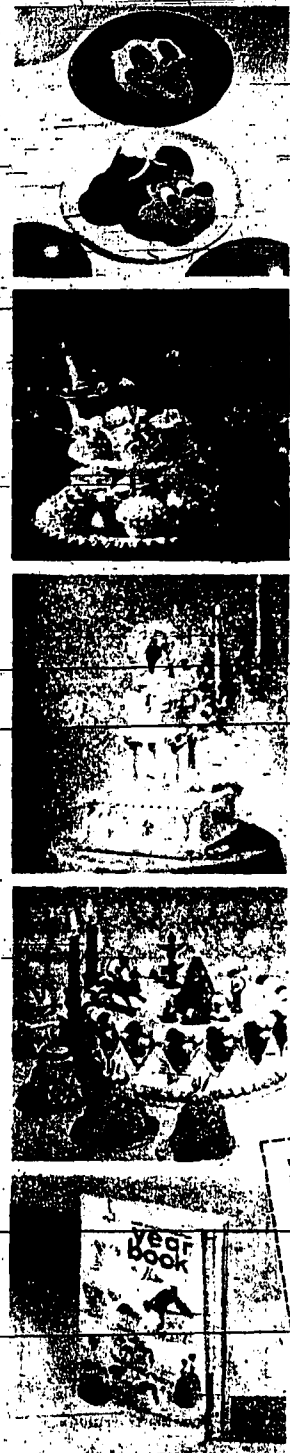

WRONG!

It's a fact, that mouse traps can cause more problems than they solve. If a trap does not accomplish a quick, clean kill, the job of "finishing off" the injured mouse is up to you. Or—if the trap happens to hit the mouse's tail or leg, he may hobble off, dragging the trap into the wall. But not with d-CON® MOUSE-PRUFE®... MOUSE-PRUFE IS CLEANER. No disease-carrying, messy mouse traps around the house... no handling mice. And no disposal problems. MOUSE-PRUFE IS EASIER. Just pull tab on the package and bait feeds automatically. Mice eat 'til they've had enough—and disappear from sight!

MOUSE-PRUFE IS SURE. Because mice always come in family groups, one trap is not enough. But one package of MOUSE-PRUFE can do the job of two, three, or more traps.

MOUSE-PRUFE does not contain violent poisons, so it's safe when used as directed—even around children and pets.

COOKBOOK/By Marilyn Hansen

A tasty stuffing which can be made a number of different ways

Rice and Sausage— A Versatile Stuffing

Rice-and-Sausage Stuffing: begin by trying it with chicken or squash; experiment with other combinations later.

*RICE-AND-SAUSAGE STUFFING

- 1/2 lb. pork sausage
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 1/2 cups cooked rice
- 1/4 cup raisins or currants
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon whole thyme leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

1. In large skillet, combine sausage meat, celery and onion. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, about 10 minutes, or until sausage is cooked.
2. Stir in rice, raisins, salt, thyme and pepper; mix well. Makes about 4 cups

ROAST CHICKEN WITH RICE-AND-SAUSAGE STUFFING

- 1 4 1/2-5-lb. roasting chicken
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Salt
- Pepper
- 4 cups rice-and-sausage stuffing*
- 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
- 3/4 cups water
- 1/2 teaspoon whole thyme leaves
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 onion stuck with 2 whole cloves
- 1 stalk celery with leaves
- 1 carrot, peeled
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon liquid gravy seasoning

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Remove giblets and neck from chicken. Rinse under cold running water, pat dry with paper towels.
2. Sprinkle inside of chicken with lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper.
3. Spoon rice-and-sausage stuffing into wishbone area first. Fasten neck skin to back with skewer or hibachi stick.
4. Fill body cavity of chicken with remaining stuffing; do not pack. (Bake any leftover stuffing in shallow greased casserole, along with chicken, the last 30 minutes of roasting.)
5. Truss chicken: Fold wings under chicken across back with wing tips touching. Close body cavity with poultry pins or wooden picks. Tie legs together at ends with soft cord.
6. Place chicken, breast side up, on rack in shallow open roasting pan. Cover with cheesecloth dipped in 1/4 cup melted butter; roast uncovered, 1 1/4 hours.

7. Remove cheesecloth. Brush chicken with rest of melted butter; roast 40-45 minutes longer. Remove chicken to heated serving platter; keep warm.

8. Meanwhile, while chicken is roasting, cook giblets and neck. In 2-qt. saucepan combine giblets, neck, 3/4 cups water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, thyme, bay leaf, onion, broken celery stalk and leaves, and carrot.

9. Bring to boiling, reduce heat and simmer covered 1 hour, until giblets are fork-tender. Strain, reserve 2 1/4 cups broth, chop giblets. Discard neck and vegetables.

10. Make gravy: When chicken has finished roasting, pour off drippings from roasting pan. Measure 1 tablespoon of liquid and return to pan, stir in flour until smooth.

11. Gradually add reserved 2 1/4 cups broth, stirring until smooth; bring to boiling, stirring constantly.

12. Reduce heat, add reserved chopped giblets, liquid gravy seasoning, season to taste with salt and pepper.

13. Pour hot gravy into heated gravy boat. Serve with chicken and stuffing. Makes 4-6 servings

BAKED STUFFED ACORN SQUASH

- 3 large acorn squash
- 4 cups rice-and-sausage stuffing*
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Cut squash in half lengthwise, scrape out fibers and seeds.
2. Place squash halves cut side down in 15x10 1/2 x 1-inch baking pan. Pour in boiling water to depth of 1/2 inch.
3. Bake squash about 45 minutes, or until fork-tender. Pour off water.
4. Turn squash halves cut side up. Fill each with about 1/4 cup rice-and-sausage stuffing. Dot with butter. Return to oven and bake 20 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings and Pin-Worms!

It's a medical fact that Pin-Worms can attack any family—rich or poor, young or old. Medical authorities say that at least 1 out of 3 persons examined are infected by the troublesome parasite—without knowing it. Even worse, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so ~~as~~ can spread through the whole family.

Pin-Worms can happen to anyone. How can you tell if Pin-Worms have infiltrated your family? The most obvious signs will come from children—nose-picking, fidgeting and scratching to overcome the tormenting rectal itch.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

It all began in Detroit, Mich., in 1940: I was a young would-be radio actor working in beer gardens. I was despairing of God's and man's mercies. I shouldn't have been, because I've always been taught that despair is the only sin God doesn't forgive. But there I was, despairing. You see, I wanted to be in show business. Oh, how I wanted to be in show business! But I had been told over and over that it was no use, I couldn't make it, my looks and everything about me were against it.

Then one day I was talking with a friend of mine, a man whose wife had suddenly been cured of cancer with no medical explanation. He insisted she was cured because of the intercession of St. Jude Thaddeus, the patron of the hopeless. St. Jude? It was just a name to me. But hopelessness—well, that I could understand.

Later that day I went to church and made a vow to St. Jude. I swore that if he'd help me somehow find my way in life, and my life, I was convinced, was show business, I'd build him a shrine. I didn't know what kind of shrine just a shrine. Nor was I interested in attaining money, really, or fame. All I wanted was a life in show business—a feeling of being involved, a feeling of purpose.

Ten days later to the day, I went to Chicago looking for radio work. There, a friend of mine gave me my first job. Soon after, I was offered a one-week job as master of ceremonies at the 5100 Club, a Northside neighborhood nightclub. Fifty dollars for three shows a night, four on Saturday. I took it. I didn't want the guys I was working with in radio to know what I was doing, so when the fellow asked me my name, I didn't tell him my real name, Amos Jacobs. I made up the name "Danny Thomas"—a combination of my two brothers' first names.

That 'one-week job stretched into three years, with a raise every week for the first 26 weeks. Along the way, I turned down offers from a famous downtown nightclub and from a Broadway producer. They'd gone to the club to see this hooded guy who was doing a story about a man with a flat tire and no jack, and throwing a sheet over his head to do a thing called "An Ode to a Walling Syrian." Finally, I was offered a part-ownership in the S100 Club.

By now I had forgotten all about my vow to St. Jude. I'd prayed to him once, and it was good-bye. When the wrinkles are out of your belly, vows of emotion are forgotten.

Then, one Sunday morning at Mass, I spotted in the pew in front of me a brochure announcing the annual novena to St. Jude Thaddeus. All of a sudden I remembered that vow! Whether it was really St. Jude who was responsible for my newfound success, I didn't know—but I wasn't about to quibble. I went home and announced to my astonished wife: "Honey, you know what I'm going to do? I'm going to build a shrine!"

To most people, a shrine is a place of worship, a place of prayer, a place of meditation. Maybe I should build a chapel dedicated to St. Jude, I thought—something big and grandiose. Then I read a newspaper account of a little nine-year-old boy, run over by a motorcycle. By the time they got the boy to a place where somebody could treat him, he had bled to death. That's when I dawned on me: Why build a chapel? What's needed is a hospital for children, a special kind of hospital, where no one would be denied admittance, especially for emergency treatment. My

I went to Paul Williams, a famous architect, and had him draw plans for a hospital. I also consulted some doctors. They convinced me that what was needed was a facility devoted to fighting blood diseases in children. Up till then I had been alone in my dream. But now other people began to believe, too.

I went to Memphis at the suggestion of Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago. He was from that part of the country, and he knew of people there who would lend a particularly sympathetic ear. He was right. But even so, things were slow in coming. We began raising funds for construction in 1946; it wasn't until 1960 that we were able to break ground.

Our next concern was maintaining the hospital once it was built. For this I turned to an organization called ALSAC—American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities. These were people of my own heritage, people I knew would do almost anything to thank America for what this country had done for them. I thought if this very small ethnic group could do something as grandiose as maintain St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, it would be a wonderful contribution to America. Soon after, the initials "ALSAC" came to mean Aiding Leukemia Stricken American Children. Thus, blood diseases became our first big goal, although we since have gone into many other euphoric childhood afflictions.

And so St. Jude Hospital today has become that very "special" kind of hospital I had once dreamed about. It is a hospital where no one need pay because no one is allowed to pay. In other words, it doesn't discriminate, not even against the rich. It's not for underprivileged children; it's for children who are really sick, afflicted and catastrophically ill. I like to think that St. Jude Hospital itself is what democracy is all about—caring for each other regardless of race or creed and not thinking of any pay.

It was gorgeous big for ALSAC to handle. "As we became successful in our research and clinical care and as children began to have that were supposed to die, more and more kids were referred to St. Jude for help. So ALSAC had to branch out for support to other Americans, all Americans. Most of the funds raised to maintain St. Jude Hospital are now collected by teenagers from a concerned public.

How has St. Jude progressed in its fight against leukemia? I'm happy to announce we've now found that leukemia is no longer considered incurable. We don't have a magical cure yet, but we do have a treatment program, called "total therapy," which has worked well. Our records show that 17 percent of our young patients, brought to us in "hopeless" condition, have now gone six years or longer without any signs of the disease. Two-thirds of the patients who received early treatment have remained free of the disease for three and a half to four years.

Other hospitals and institutions around the country, certainly, are taking children with leukemia and doing the job. But the really great results have been achieved at St. Jude. Dr. Donald Pinkel, our medical director, makes St. Jude's findings available to any physician in the world. We will help family doctors pick up treatment where we left off, after the youngsters have received initial treatment at the hospital. In this way, only about five percent of the children being treated are actually inpatients at any one time. Most of them are at home being cared for by their own doctors with drugs provided free by St. Jude.

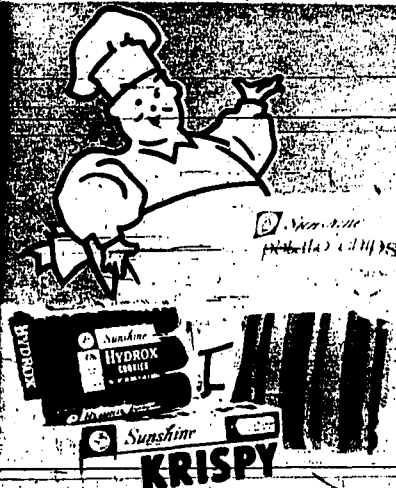

As Doctor Pinkel says, St. Jude can't treat every child—youngsters are admitted only by referral and only if their disease is under study—but it does help children everywhere by performing the research and by telling other doctors what it has learned so that they can use the knowledge. □

a true story by John B. Haikey

Starting with borrowed money, in just eight years I gained financial security, sold out at a profit and retired.

"Not until I was forty did I make up my mind that I was going to retire before ten years had passed. I knew I couldn't do it on a salary, no matter how good. I knew I couldn't do it working for others. It was perfectly obvious to me that I had to start a business of my own. But that posed a problem. What kind of business? Most of my money was tied up. Temporarily I was broke. But, when I found the business I wanted I was able to start it on a little over a thousand dollars of borrowed money.

"To pyramid this investment into retirement in less than ten years seems like magic, but in my opinion any man in good health who has the same ambition and drive that motivated me, could achieve such a goal. Let me give you a little history.

"I finished high school at the age of 18 and got a job as a shipping clerk. My next job was butchering at a plant that processed boneless beef. Couldn't see much future there. Next, I got a job as a Greyhound Bus Driver. The money was good. The work was pleasant, but I couldn't see it as leading to retirement. Finally I took the plunge and went into business for myself.

"I managed to raise enough money with my savings to invest in a combination motel, restaurant, grocery, and service station. It didn't take long to get my eyes opened. In order to keep that business going my wife and I worked from dawn to dusk, 20 hours a day, seven days a week. Putting in all those hours didn't match my idea of independence and it gave me no time for my favorite sport—golf! Finally we both agreed that I should look for something else.

"I found it. Not right away. I investigated a lot of businesses offered as franchises. I felt that I wanted the guidance of an experienced company—wanted to have the benefit of the plans that had brought success to others, plus the benefit of running my own business under an established name that had national recognition.

"Most of the franchises offered were too costly for me. Temporarily all my capital was frozen in the motel. But I found that the Duraclean franchise offered me exactly what I had been looking for.

"I could start for a small amount—a little over a thousand dollars—and that amount I could borrow. I could work it as a one-man business while getting a start. No salaries to pay. I could operate from my home. No office or shop rent or other overhead. For transportation I could use the trunk of my family car. (I bought the truck later, out of profits.) But, best of all, there was no ceiling on my earnings. I could build a business as big as my ambition and energy dictated. I could put on as many men as I needed to cover any volume. I could make a profit on every man working for me. And, I could build this little by little, or as fast as I wished.

"So, I started. I took the wonderful training furnished by the company. When I was ready I followed the simple plan outlined in the training. During the first period I did all the service work myself. By doing it myself, I could make much more per hour than I had ever made on a salary. Later, I would hire men, train them, pay them well, and still make an hourly profit on their time that made my idea of retirement possible—I had joined the country club and now I could play golf whenever I wished.

"What is this wonderful business? It's Duraclean. And, what is Duraclean? It's an improved, space-age process for cleaning up-holstered furniture, rugs, and tacked down carpets. It not only cleans but it enlivens and sparkles up the colors. It does not wear down the fiber or drive part of the dirt into the base of the rug as machine scrubbing of carpeting does. Instead it lifts out the dirt by means of an absorbent dry foam.

"Furniture dealers and department stores refer their customers to the Duraclean Specialist. Insurance men say Duraclean can save them money on fire claims. Hotels, motels, specialty shops and big stores make annual contracts for keeping their carpets and furniture fresh and clean. One Duraclean Specialist recently signed a contract for over $40,000 a year for just one hotel.

"Well, that's the business I was able to start for a little over a thousand dollars. That's the business I built up over a period of eight years. And, that's the business I sold out at a substantial profit before I was fifty."

THIS EXCLUSIVE LAKELAND OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED HERE THIS YEAR

Imagine! A 40-Foot-House Covered with GIANT RED ROSES From One Single Plant

How's this for a "Living Wall of Flowers"?
Read how you can create sweeping floral patterns and dramatic "S-Shapes" never dreamed of in roses before.

Amazing rose discovery soars up to 40 ft. high—spreads up to 20 ft. wide—spreads across bare walls like wildfire with blazing color from spring to frost.

You're looking at the amazing new climbing rose developed by the Rev. W. W.
Bunge of Minnesota that has been called "a phenomenal rose factory". Imagine the glory of a rosebush that streaks skyward 18 inches in a single week—and once established reaches fantastic heights of 20 feet in a single season—spreads 40 feet along walls, fences and trellises.

Imagine the glory of a rosebush that bursts into gigantic blossoms up to 5 inches across—loses so eager to bloom the entire plant is covered with hundreds of lavish flowers at one single time—roses that burst into fiery masses of bloom again and again in June, July, August, September,
October—until snow starts to fly.

showplace from June to frost.

This incredible rose discovery has been acclaimed as a new floral sensation by leading garden authorities. And no wonder!
With just one single plant you can "curtain" a whole house wall and breezeway with masses of roses—frames, windows and doorways with garlands of blossoms. Here are roses that sweep over the roofs of ranch houses and trail fountains of bloom from one side of the house to the other. Roses that screen your garage and backyard on arbors or trellises—roses to sweep along fences and surround your property with living walls of color 5 months of the year.

Yes, now you can create a floral paradise, the kind of lavish beauty you see in garden magazines, cause a neighborhood sensation of fiery splendor that can be seen for blocks—and do it all at an incredibly low cost!

Exceptionally winter-hardy and disease resistant. Even blooms in partial shade.

Called the Ray Bunge "Scarlet Showers"
Rose, it has laughed at even bitter-cold
Minnesota winters with almost no protection whatever—and is so disease resistant that it actually withstands blackspot.
More amazing—it even blooms in partly shady locations in Rev. Bunge's last gardens where practically no other rose can survive. (As little as 3 hours of sunlight produces ravishing masses of bloom.)

This is the wonder rose that Rev. Bunge has finally perfected and patented after 32 years of breeding. Now you can have it blooming in your garden for a lifetime of beauty if you order now—before our limited supplies are exhausted.

The Secrets of Getting Along With People

True or False: Most people will like you better if they don't see you too often. (See number 3.)

In this quiz we clue you in on the latest findings of psychologists and sociologists on how to mesh smoothly with others' personalities without clashing gears; how to gain acceptance instead of resentment; how to deal effectively with bores; and how to cultivate richly rewarding relationships.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. When you're conversing with someone, the best way to make him feel comfortable is to interrupt him occasionally with some comment, to show you're paying attention.
2. You can tell if you're making a favorable impression on someone by the way his eyes behave.
3. Most people will like you better if they don't see you too often.
4. A good way to test your relationship with another person is to ask him to do you a favor.
5. The best way to impress another person is to "come on strong" and make a forceful impact.
6. One of the secrets in getting along with people, and establishing rewarding relationships with them, is to put your best foot forward and be on your best behavior at all times.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies at Ohio State University have shown that, to put another person at ease, these two rules are most important: Don't try to say something before the other person has finished speaking. And don't let more than five seconds of silence go by without breaking it. What makes people most uncomfortable is interrupting them, and allowing periods of silence in the conversation until the other person breaks it.
2. True. Psychological studies at the University of California show that a reliable yardstick of how you're impressing another person is the amount of time he maintains eye contact with you during conversation. If each time he glances at you, he looks quickly away, that means you're just not going over. But if, with each glance, his eyes hold yours for an appreciable interval, this indicates liking and approval.

3. False. Psychological studies have shown that, other things being equal, we are most attracted to people with whom we are in closest contact and see most frequently.

4. False. Anyone who thinks of another person primarily in terms of convenience is completely missing the point. A good relationship is one where goodwill, warmth and understanding flow back and forth between two people; where each can honestly share his thoughts and feelings with the other; where each feels completely comfortable in the other's presence and feels relaxed in the certainty of complete acceptance.

5. False. Instead of trying to "sell" yourself to the other person, encourage him to sell himself to you. Draw him out, encourage him to talk about himself, his feelings, his ideas, his goals and ambitions. This should be easy, if you'll only cultivate the art of really listening instead of thinking about what you're going to say next. Remember, most people are far more interested in themselves than anyone else—and it makes them feel good to know that you're interested, too. And it follows that if you make them feel good, they'll like you.

6. False. A lot of people play it this way, exhibiting a "front" that isn't really them. They reveal only their public selves to others. As a consequence, other people react in similarly guarded fashion. This, as psychologist Sidney M. Jourard has observed, makes for an empty, meaningless, social farce. Such people have only surface-relationships—shallow, lonely, frustrating and unrewarding. You can't make an omelet without breaking eggs, and you can't get the most out of life unless you open up lines of meaningful communication with other human beings.

Now! Reduce up to 6½ inches in just 90 minutes at home

NO DIET...NO PILLS...NO EXERCISE.

At last, a real breakthrough in home slimming! A professionally formulated method guaranteed to make you up to 6½ inches slimmer overall in just 90 minutes. Without diets, pills or exercise.

Trim Inches From Problem Areas!

Incredible yet true! This remarkable new method is called SLIM-UP... and it's easy, pleasant, amazingly simple to use. You can lose inches from your waist, tummy, hips, thighs—even heavy upper arms, if you wish. SLIM-UP works for both men and women. And it works in the comfort and privacy of your own home.

To repeat—you don't have to wait months, weeks, even days to lose unsightly, unwanted inches from your body. It is now possible to be as much as 6½ inches slimmer in only 90 minutes. Without the anguish of crash diets, wearing exercise or potentially dangerous drugs!

Unbelievably Easy To Use!

Inch loss... the wonderful SLIM-UP way... is easy as A-B-C:

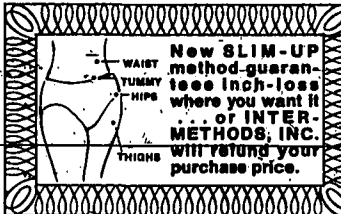

- A. Saturate the special SLIM-UP wrapping tapes with our secret formula SLIM-UP lotion.
- B. Apply tapes to problem areas (where you want to lose inches).
- C. Slip into Protecto Shorts and resume your daily routine or merely relax for 90 minutes.

That's all there is to it! Remove the wrapping tapes from your body—and your tape measure will attest to the dramatic loss of inches. It's almost like magic... but it isn't magic—it's the scientifically formulated SLIM-UP method—designed to give you the welcome benefits of losing inches and firming problem areas of your body. All in just 90 minutes, in your own room.

Must Work—Or Money Back!

This same type of successful inches-off system has already helped thousands of people through expensive salon treatments costing thousands of dollars, including professional models. It can now help you to look better, more attractive, more appealing for just a fraction of that cost. Remember... you must lose a total of up to 6½ inches from your hips, waist, tummy and thighs combined—the very first time you use the marvelous SLIM-UP method—or money return the kit for every penny of your money back, promptly and without question.

Complete SLIM-UP Kit includes: three (translucent) three wrapping tapes, pair of Protecto Shorts, and easy-to-follow directions. Only $14.95 plus $1.00 postage and handling. New Home treatment offered only by US!

A Reader's Remembrance: The Day I Met Peter Fonda

On a warm spring weekend about seven years ago, my teenage daughter and her chum persuaded me to drive them to Malibu Beach for their first swim of the season.

We started home early to avoid late-afternoon traffic, but not early enough to avoid a serious collision with a station wagon pulling a trailer. Miraculously, the three of us were only shaken up—shaken badly, but otherwise uninjured. The car, however, was virtually destroyed. As we sat in the wreckage waiting for help, a small foreign car drove past, then pulled over to the side of the road.

The driver jumped out, ran back to us, and said, "I saw the accident—can I be of any help?"

I noticed that he was a nice-looking young man, wearing an expensive "bright-pink sports shirt." Other than that, nothing registered. The two girls were too excited to notice even that much.

"I think we'll be all right until the police arrive," I said. Then, as an afterthought, I added, "Would you mind giving us your name, in case we need a witness?"

"Not at all," he said, and pulled a pen from his shirt pocket. I looked around for something to write on, and spotted a copy of "Time" magazine on the seat beside me. I handed it to him, he quickly wrote something and asked again, "Sure you're okay?"

"Yes," I said, "and thank you very

"As we sat in the wreckage waiting for help, a small foreign car drove past, then pulled over to the side of the road. The driver jumped out, ran back to us, and said, 'I saw the accident—can I be of any help?'" much." With a wave of his hand, he turned and ran back to his car. I was impressed that he had stopped to help us, especially on a freeway and in a restricted zone. I noticed his "longish hair and his "hippy" type appearance. He had been most helpful and concerned about us—and three ladies in trouble need that concern.

Several hours later, after a hot bath and dinner, I felt calm enough to attack the pile of wet swimsuits, towels and remnants of our picnic lunch. I pulled "Time" magazine out from under the pile, and for the first time looked at the name written on the back cover. There it was, scrawled over an advertisement: "Peter Fonda," it said, and it gave his home address.

My daughter now has that back cover of "Time" carefully and prominently placed in her autograph book. But I don't think it atones for the unhappiness she feels at having met Peter Fonda while sitting in a wrecked car and not even having the presence of mind to know who he was.

Musical Multiplication Records

They teach all the tables from 2's through 12's as easily as the words of a song!

Try them for two weeks
FREE!

Your child must memorize all his tables to pass in the New Math

Help your child do better in arithmetic—especially in the New Math—by getting him these new multiplication records. New Math teaches meaning—teaches why $2 \times 7 = 14$ —but modern math teachers still insist on children memorizing their tables. Now even children of pre-school age can easily learn all the tables from 2's through 12's simply by playing these records.

No urging needed from parents. Children love these records. Each table has its own catchy tune and jingles. And the man on the record quizzes your child so the tables stick in his memory. He must have his multiplication tables memorized to learn long division, fractions and decimals. Musical Multiplication Records make learning the tables an exciting game—easy and fun!

In 25,000 schools,
many thousands of homes

Improved their math—"After 4 weeks with your records our boys have learned all their tables from 2's through 12's. The records improved the boys' math immeasurably." Mrs. E. Rollins, Long Beach, Cal. School Principal writes—"Your records have a unique teaching approach and a good one. Our pupils are making new interest in their tables. Excellent as a home-tutoring aid." A. Blate Owens, Principal, Louisiana Elementary School, Louisiana. No Supervision needed—"Your records are so much fun, children drill themselves. They helped my daughter with her 5th grade arithmetic and gave her new self-confidence." Mrs. S. W. Parker, Salt Lake City, Utah.

"Best investment I ever made!—In 6 weeks all three of my children learned all the tables from 2's through 12's with your records." A. J. Perez, Parsons, Kansas.

Send No Money.

Just send coupon and the records will be mailed to you postage prepaid. Try them at home for two weeks. If you send them back you owe nothing. If you keep them, pay just $9.95 price in full. Mail coupon today!

What in the World!

TWO WORKING GIRLS

In the impractical year, 2000

If you can wait about 28 years, you may be seeing work uniforms like the ones in this picture. At a recent European fashion show, the hot pants suit with see-through skirt was shown along with a gaucho suit with "apron" and built-in hood. Guess for what occupations? On the left, a mark, on the right, a nurse. Comment: The plastic skirt would probably be too hot to work in.

talking about the relationship between men and women: "One of my beliefs is that God made the world out of symmetry. In other words, He precisely did not want men and women to be equal. He wanted women to be extraordinarily superior in their fashion and men to be quite powerful in theirs. If not the beauty, certainly most of the creativity that goes on in life comes from the fact of people dealing with everything that's not equal in themselves and others. In other words, a relationship is interesting when I'm superior to you in one way and you're superior to me in another way, and we each get to learn about the other's superiority and begin to learn how to appreciate some of that for ourselves." (From Mr. Mailer's new paperback, "The Prisoner of Sex," Signet, $1.25.)

If you think you have authentic premonitions, now there's someone to listen to you! In the past it has often happened that many people in many corners of the world have claimed to have the same visions or psychic forebodings. What would happen if they all got their premonitions together and issued a collective disaster alert? Could such a group prophesy, for example, the wealthy passengers of the "Titanic"? Could it have altered the fatal courses of John Kennedy or Martin Luther King, Jr.? A group of psychic behav-

ers thinks the answer is yes. They are inviting people to send their premonitions to: Central Premonitions Registry, Box 482, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10036. They'll keep track of the predictions, note how many there are of the same event and also how often each predictor is right. If enough "proven prophets" register the same event, they'll issue a warning.

CRUSADER RODNEY DANGERFIELD

"Easier to reach a young audience"

Comedian Rodney Dangerfield volunteered to do the "Brotherhood" TV campaign against prejudice for the National Council of Christians and Jews. Does the campaign really help? "I don't know, but if it helps 1/100th of one percent, it's worth it. It may be too late for adults; it's easier to hit the young kids—and their playmates. I grew up in prejudice; I was the only Jew—and poor—in a wealthy neighborhood; my parents were separated, when other kids had both parents; I had a lousy job of delivery boy, and that made it worse." Dangerfield feels so strongly about the subject, he paid taping expenses on the "Brotherhood" spots out of his own pocket.

DATES: This is Brotherhood Week. Monday is Washington's Birthday observance in most states.

ANNIVERSARIES: Lt. Col. John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth 10 years ago Sunday. The first Voice of America broadcast went on the air 30 years ago Thursday.

BIRTHDAYS: Sunday—Sandy Duncan is 26; Sidney Poitier 46; Aleksei Kosygin 68. Monday—Tricia Nixon-Cox is 26. Tuesday—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is 40; Robert Young 65. Wednesday—Peter Fonda is 33. Friday—George Harrison is 28. Saturday—Godfrey Cambridge is 30; Madeline Carroll 66; Jackie Gleason 58; Johnny Cash 39.

LEFTOVERS?

RICHARD ARMOUR

Leftovers are sometimes the things that we see, Though the glance that we take is but fleeting. They're items we know it is wasteful to waste But day after day put off eating. Then again, they are things we would happily eat, But where have they gone to? (one wonders). In view of the way they get tucked out of sight, Perhaps they are really leftovers.

It was the last one he had, so he asked his host to supply him with another ball. The guest unerringly drove the new ball into the water, too, and did the same with three more balls that he borrowed.

"Listen," finally protested the host, "those balls are brand-new. They cost $1.50 apiece, and you're doing nothing but losing them."

An Important Message

To Every Man And Woman In America Losing His Or Her Hair

If you are troubled by thinning hair, dandruff, itchy scalp, if you fear approaching baldness, read the rest of this statement carefully. It may mean the difference to you between saving your hair and losing the rest of it to eventual baldness.

Baldness is simply a matter of subtraction. When the number of new hairs fail to equal the number of falling hair, you end up minus your head of hair (bald). Why not avoid baldness by preventing unnecessary loss of hair? Why not turn the tide of battle on your head by eliminating needless causes of hair loss and give Nature a chance to grow more hair for you? Many of the country's dermatologists and other foremost hair and scalp specialists believe that seborrhea, a common scalp disorder, causes hair loss. What is seborrhea? It is a bacterial infection of the scalp that can eventually cause permanent damage to the hair follicles. Its visible evidence is "thinning" hair. Its result is baldness. Its symptoms are dry, itchy scalp, dandruff, oily hair, head scales, and progressive hair loss.

So, if you are beginning to notice that your forehead is getting larger, beginning to notice that there is too much hair on your comb, beginning to be worried about the dryness of your hair, the itchiness of your scalp, the ugly dandruff — these are Nature's Red Flags warning you of impending baldness. Even if you have been losing your hair for some time, don't let seborrhea rob you of the rest of your hair.

HOW COMATE WORKS ON YOUR SCALP

The development of an amazing new hair and scalp medicine called Comate is specific.

Note To Doctors

Doctors, dermatologists interested in scalp disorders can obtain professional samples and literature on written request.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of the great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss. In such cases neither the Comate treatment nor any other treatment is effective.

"I used to comb out a hand-ful of hair at a time. Now I only get a-4 on my comb. It took only a few days and can the terrible itching has been the big change in my scalp and hair."
—L.H.M., Los Angeles, Cal.
"My hair has improved—thinning—baldness—this—of the temples and all over. Now I look so much thicker."
—L.C. Hall, San Angelo, Tex.
"My hair has kept falling out and getting thin."
—D. W. C., c/o P.O., N. Y.

"My husband has tried many treatments and spent a great deal of money on his scalp. Nothing helped until about 21 days and Comate has improved it so off he started using your formula."
—Mrs. J. E. Lister, Ga.

cally designed to control seborrhea and stop the hair loss it causes. It offers the opportunity to thousands of men and women losing their hair to bacterial infection to reverse the battle they are now losing on their scalps. By stopping this impediment to normal hair growth, new hairs can grow as Nature intended.

This is how Comate works. (1) It combines in a single scalp treatment the essential corrective factors for normal hair growth. By its rubefacient action it stimulates blood circulation to the scalp, thereby supplying more nutrition to still-alive hair follicles. (2) As a highly effective antiseptic, Comate kills on contact the seborrhea-causing scalp bacteria believed to be a cause of baldness. (3) By its keratolytic action it dissolves oily dandruff. By tending to normalize the lubrication of the hair shaft it corrects excessively dry and oily hair. It eliminates head scales and scalp itch.

In short, Comate offers you in a single treatment the best that modern medicine has developed for the preservation of your hair. These is no excuse today—except ignorance—for any man or woman to neglect seborrhea and pay the penalty of hair loss.

COMATE IS

UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED

To you we offer this UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE. Treat your scalp to Comate in your own home, following the simple directions. See for yourself in your own mirror how after a few treatments, Comate makes your hair look thicker and alive. How Comate ends your dandruff, stops your scalp itch. How Comate gives your hair a chance to grow. Most men and women report results after the first treatment, some take longer. But we say this to you. If, for any reason, you are not completely satisfied with the improvement in your own case — AT ANY TIME — return the unused portion for a prompt refund. No questions asked.

But don't delay. For the sake of your hair, order Comate today. Nothing — not even Comate — can grow hair from dead follicles. Fill out the coupon now, and take the first step toward a good head of hair again.

Family Weekly Readers Note ... Limited Enrollment Ends Midnight February 29th, 1972

ONLY $1 COVERS YOUR ENTIRE FAMILY FOR FIRST MONTH

Every Family Needs This Hospital Protection!
Now... Every Family Can Easily Afford It!

PAID DIRECT TO YOU IN TAX-FREE EXTRA CASH

$600.00-A-MONTH

When You Go to the Hospital!

And Extra Cash/Plus Pays You Up To $15,000.00

NO ADULT AGE LIMIT—NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION TO ENROLL —NO SALESMAN WILL CALL

WHAT DOES THE "EXTRA" IN EXTRA CASH/PLUS MEAN TO YOU — SEE NEXT PAGE

PAYS YOU UP TO $600 TAX-FREE CASH a month under age 65 for each accident or illness. Benefits begin your first day in hospital. Up to $15,000 for each benefit period.

PAYS YOU UP TO $300 TAX-FREE CASH a month when you're 65 or over, for first 2 months and $600 a month thereafter up to $14,400 for each benefit period—this in addition to Medicare.

PAYS YOU UP TO $600 TAX-FREE CASH a month for each accident or illness of your insured wife. Benefits begin the very first day in hospital. Up to $15,000 for each benefit period. (Same 65 or over benefits as yours).

PAYS YOU UP TO $600 TAX-FREE CASH a month for maternity benefits from first day in hospital for your insured wife.

PAYS YOU UP TO $300 TAX-FREE CASH a month for each covered child. Benefits from first day in hospital and up to $7,500 for each benefit period.

PAYS YOU UP TO $600 TAX-FREE CASH additional for Intensive Care.

PAYS YOU UP TO $300 TAX-FREE CASH for Nursing Home Care.

PLUS: Your extra cash benefits increase 5% a year (for 5 years) to keep pace with the rising cost of living!

This plan pays so much and the $1 offer is so good, you probably have some questions—or even some doubts. We've put all the answers (including the minor limitations) down right here... in black and white... for Family Weekly readers so you won't miss the Enrollment Deadline for the Extra Cash/Plus Plan. Comparison shows Extra Cash/Plus helps answer today's alarming jump in hospital charges, now up to $81.66 a day national average—with still worse to come.

Ordinary hospitalization insurance alone just is not enough now when your family is hit with a hospital stay. You need to supplement it with a hospital income plan that pays enough extra cash—cash that's in addition to any other money and insurance or Medicare benefits you may have. Otherwise you could end up draining your life savings,* children's college fund, etc. Low-cost Extra Cash/Plus helps answer this need. It pays more because it covers more. Helps out for both sickness and accident, the burdensome costs of Intensive Care and convalescent facility. Yes, benefits even increase to meet rising costs.

Your family is safer and so are your hard-earned savings—no matter what. And now it's easy to get Extra Cash/Plus! NO AGE LIMIT FOR ADULTS; NO PHYSICALS, NO MEDICAL QUESTIONNAIRES, but you must mail the Application by February 29, 1972. Better yet, do it today!

NO-RISK MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

Examine your policy in your home. Show it to your insurance agent or other trusted advisor. If not absolutely satisfied, return it within 10 days after receipt; N-BF Life will refund your money at once.

Now—for only $1—with no health questions asked and regardless of your age, occupation or size of your family, you get your first month's protection.
But you must reply before midnight February 29th.

During this Limited Enrollment Period you the readers of Family Weekly can enroll yourself and all eligible members of your family simply by filling in and mailing the Enrollment Form on the back cover of this booklet with only $1. It's that easy!

But to take advantage of Extra Cash/Plus, you must mail your Enrollment Form before midnight February 29. Your protection begins just as soon as we receive your form and issue your policy. You gain nothing by waiting—act now—please mail your Enrollment Form today!

Now, for the very first time, you can get tax-free extra cash paid direct to you—not to the doctor or hospital unless you tell us to—when either you or a covered family member is hospitalized for sickness or injury—paid from the first day for up to 25 months . . . PLUS your extra cash benefits increase each year for five years at no additional premium just to help you keep up with the rising cost of living.

And you can enroll right from this Family Weekly booklet without having to see a company salesman, without answering health questions, without the usual insurance investigations . . . without any red tape

your Extra Cash/Plus in addition to ordinary health insurance

All you need to do is fill in and mail the short Enrollment Form with $1 before midnight February 29. It's that simple!

With hospital costs reaching nearly $100 a day across the country, no matter how much ordinary health insurance you have it probably won't cover all your medical and hospital expenses today . . .

But even if it does, almost every family knows the many extra bills and expenses that come when there's illness or an accident . . . the worries and bills . . . not just for the hospital and doctor but the household expenses and all the extra needs of the family during those difficult times.

It's to help meet these needs . . . to provide the cushion of extra cash, that N-BF Life Insurance Corporation created the Extra Cash/Plus Plan that pays you extra cash when you need it most . . . extra cash you can use any way you wish . . . tax-free extra cash that you don't have to account for to anyone.

Without extra cash to pay the extra bills—the extra expenses, you could leave the hospital without the money to meet your regular household expenses and all the extra bills . . . with debts you can't pay.

A steady flow of extra cash paid from 1st day in hospital

But with extra cash benefits day after day, week after week, month after month paid by your Extra Cash/Plus Plan, you can have a steady flow of extra cash to meet your extra needs.

Your extra cash benefits begin the very first day—there's no waiting period—and benefits are paid for as long as hospitalization continues, even up to 25 months—more than two full years—for each new stay in the hospital for sickness or accident. PLUS: you get extra benefits for up to 30 days when you or a covered family member must be confined to the intensive care unit and you're paid for the first 30 days of convalescent or nursing home care following hospitalization—all at the same low premium.

Your Extra Cash/Plus Plan pays you directly in addition to everything you receive from any other insurance company—even Blue Cross and Medicare. You're paid your full extra cash benefits even if other insurance pays all your expenses.

All of your unmarried dependent children residing in your home may be included under this plan between the ages of 1 month and 19 years. Both you and your wife—if neither has been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years—are eligible for coverage. There are no other qualifications!

Generous benefits at 65 and over paid in addition to Medicare

If you're over 65, or when you become 65, because Medicare will pay many of your medical and hospital expenses, your Extra Cash/Plus Plan will pay you $300 a month for the first two months you're in the hospital and then $600 a month for the next 23 months. And you get up to $300 extra benefits for up to 30 days of intensive care, and convalescent or nursing home benefits for up to 30 days following hospitalization.

No health questions, no investigations, no red tape

Your policy will be issued to you on your application without the usual fuss or bother of health questions, examinations, investigations and other red tape.

These few customary exclusions help keep your premiums low: conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war; mental illness or nervous disorder; confinement in a federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Even maternity is covered when both husband and wife are insured. Pre-existing conditions are covered when hospitalization begins two years or more after protection starts.

Regardless of your age or size of your family, your first full month is only $1.

You get all these benefits now plus a 5% increase in your extra cash benefits each year for five years—a total increase of 25%—to keep up with the rising costs of everything you have to buy. And you get this protection for yourself and your entire family for even less than you'd think. Regardless of your age or the size of your family, your first full month's protection is only $1. You pay only these low monthly rates* according to your actual age at the time of each renewal (when both husband and wife are covered, the husband is the insured):

LOW MONTHLY RATES*

Age of Insured Policyholder*	Policyholder	Policyholder and spouse
19 - 44	$4.50	$ 8.50
45 - 54	5.50	10.00
55 - 64	6.50	11.50
65 and over	8.00	14.50

For only $2.00 a month more you can cover all your children—no matter how many—who are unmarried, dependent on you and are between one month and 19 years old. And, every addition to your family is automatically covered at one month of age with no additional premium.

NOTE: And once issued to you, your policy can never be cancelled or your rates changed no matter how old you grow, no matter how poor your health becomes, no matter how many claims you make unless we refuse to renew or change rates for all policies of the same classification in your entire State.

How can the rates be so low for so much protection?

The answer is simple. The Extra Cash/Plus Plan was created by the National

Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation (a nationwide leader in low cost group plans for veterans, and others) for mass enrollment of Family Weekly readers throughout the United States. And because no salesmen call on you and all sales costs are kept very low, you get the most protection for the lowest possible rate.

The National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation, Chicago, Illinois, a member of The Continental Corporation, among the largest insurance groups in the entire world. National Ben Franklin is a legal reserve company founded in 1852—more than 100 years ago—licensed in your state and regulated by your own state insurance department.

For only $1, your policy will be issued and go into force for a full month just as soon as we process your Enrollment Form. Sorry, only 1 policy per family.

$1 No-risk money-back guarantee!

When you receive your policy, you'll see that it is simple, direct and easy to understand. Read it carefully and show it to a trusted advisor to make sure it's exactly what you've wanted and needed. If you change your mind for any reason whatsoever, simply return the policy within 10 days of receipt and your money will be refunded promptly.

PLEASE REMEMBER: This is a Limited Time Enrollment—we can only accept your Enrollment Form if it is postmarked before midnight February 29. Please don't wait until the last moment! The sooner we receive your Enrollment Form, the sooner you and your family will be protected by the Extra Cash/Plus Plan. With the $1 money-back guarantee, you risk nothing, but you could risk losing hundreds of dollars of extra cash if you delay. Please mail your Enrollment Form today!

Medical Costs Going Out of Sight

His Answer

1. What is the Extra Cash Plus Plan?

The Extra Cash Plus Plan, is an entirely new, low cost plan that pays extra cash direct to you from the very first day when you or a covered family member are hospitalized for sickness or accident.

2. What are my chances of having to go to the hospital?

1 out of 7 people die each year. Yes, one out of two families could have a loved one in the hospital this year. It could be your wife, your children or you. Think of the additional bills you will have if hospitalized. You could count on up to $15,000 with Extra Cash Plus!

3. $15,000.00? How come Extra Cash Plus offers so much coverage at so low a cost?

Because of mass enrollment throughout the country and because no salesmen will call, sales costs are kept to the barest minimum with savings passed along to you in lower premiums!

4. What will you pay for my Wife?

Same big benefit as yours, $600 a month (under age 65); up to 25 months. This means up to $15,000 for each of your wife's hospital benefit periods too!

5. Are maternity benefits included?

Yes, unlike many companies, National-Ben Franklin pays $600 a month up to 25 months for your wife's hospital confinement for pregnancy, (and its complications), which begins while both of you are insured. No separate charge!

6. Will Extra Cash/Plus take care of our children?

Yes, we pay up to $7500—$300 a month up to 25 months for any of your children's hospital benefit periods. Each new baby is covered automatically after 1 month and through age 18. Yes, one low premium will include coverage for all of your children—no matter how many.

7. When does my family protection begin?

Every eligible family member is covered immediately for any accident or any illness that begins after your policy is issued.

8. Does Extra Cash Plus cover nursing home care?

Yes, and not many do. Regardless of age, it pays up to $300—$10 a day for 30 days (each hospital benefit period) for confinement in a nursing home or hospital convalescent unit, which starts within 7 days of a 1 day for more covered hospital stay.

9. What is the 25% cost-of-living raise?

A hedge against even higher hospital costs! Each person's original-benefits will increase 5% for benefit periods which start after the end of the 1st year of his coverage. Similar increases for 4 more years. This means 25% more cash for you at No Added Cost!

10. Does the "intensive care" feature of Extra Cash/Plus really Double my benefits?

Yes, for adults under 65. Extra Cash Plus pays $20 a day up to 30 days each benefit period. Up to $600 are added to your hospital income dollars, a total of $1200! (Other generous benefits for other age groups). Even regular recovery room service is covered after 24 Hours.

11. Do my children get the "Plus" benefits too?

Yes, Up to $300 additional for Intensive Care; up to $300 Nursing Home Care. Cost-of-Living Raises bring children's $300 benefits to $375 after 5 years.

12. What if I have other insurance?

Extra Cash Plus pays in addition to your group coverage, Workmen's Comp, Medicare, Blue Cross, and any other company's policies.

13. Who gets the cash?

You do. No payments to the doctor or hospital unless you say so. It's all yours.

14. All mine? No taxes?

No taxes.

15. Just who can get Extra Cash/Plus?

You and your wife—Each, who has not been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years, are eligible. All of your children under 19 are eligible even if they have been hospitalized.

16. Why is Extra Cash/Plus so attractive to Senior Citizens? What features in Extra Cash/Plus are designed to serve those over age 65?

At age 65 Extra Cash/Plus pays you up to $14,400 for up to 25 months (over 2 years!) for each hospital benefit period. $300 month, first 2 months; $600/month for 23 months more. The $600 benefit means more money when you need it most—when your Medicare stops.

17. Do we get the "Intensive Care" feature?

Yes. 65 or over, $10 a day for 30 days, up to $300, is added to your hospital income payment.

18. What is our Total Cost-of-Living Raise for age 65 or over?

Your original benefits will increase up to a total of $375 for each of the first two months and $750 a month thereafter.

19. What am I paid for less than a month?

You're paid 1/30 of your monthly benefits for each day of confinement from the 1st day.

20. How often can I be hospitalized and still collect my full Extra Cash/Plus benefits?

As often as necessary for as many different injuries and ailments as occur. Later confinement for the same condition will be treated as continuations of the original confinement—then, after 12 months free of hospital or convalescent confinement for that condition, you will again be entitled to a new full 25 month benefit period.

21. Can my premiums be changed or can my policy be cancelled?

Your policy can never be singled out for change or cancellation because of claims or poor health. Rate schedule changes or cancellation could only occur for all policies like yours in your class and state upon proper notice; nothing of the sort is foreseen. You're Safe with Extra-Cash Plus.

22. Will I receive my money promptly?

Yes. Your claim will be handled promptly and your tax-free extra cash will be sent directly to you to use any way you wish!

23. What About "pre-Existing" conditions?

Even these are covered when hospitalization begins 2 years or more after protection starts.

*Washington and Montana Residents: 1 year.

24. What few exclusions are there?

Only a few—to help keep your rates low. They are conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war, mental illness or nervous disorder, confinement in any federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Even maternity is covered when both husband and wife are insured.

25. How much does my first month cost? How much do I pay after that?

You pay only $1 for your first full month's coverage regardless of how old you are or the size of your family. After that you pay only the small monthly premium for your age group.

26. Whom should I list on the Enrollment Form?

We recommend you include every eligible member of your family. Remember, though, at least one parent must be covered to include any number of your children under their low rate offered during this Enrollment Period. The premium for family coverage is so low you can't afford not to have the added protection.

†Except under Missouri policies.
